'I DUPED LINDBERGH': CURTIS

KING OF BRITAIN OPENS WAR ON AUSTRALIA REDS

Fights to Restore Conservative Rule.

Australia and New Zealand, British dominions on the other side of the world, are going through economic and political crises. Their troubles, in many respects, are due to social, industrial, and economic experiments similar to many which have been inaugurated by or are being urged upon the United States.

Mr. Kinsley was sent to the antipodes by THE TRIBUNE to make a thorough study of what these peoples are doing to untangle themselves from the mesh of inflated budgets, excessive borrowings, wrecked credit, decreased trade, vast unemployment, and political experimenting.

Here is his first story:

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, May 18. —[Wednesday.]— Australasia, which rises out of the sea an island continent of misty beauty, is now covered by the clouds of approaching winter and the threatened storms of social revolution.

The lot of humans in this new world, where progressive legislation has been long heralded as a light for humanity, is apparently no better off than in the old. Militant labor, employed and unemployed, is forming a wide front in New Zealand and Australia to attack the gates of the capitalists by political, and possibly more violent methods.

Monarchy vs. Socialism.

New Zealand, making efforts to balance the budget, faces a huge debt, a reduced income and the necessity of feeding the starving and providing work for the workless.

Australia presents a picture of the full power of the British commonwealth and king pitted against the ominous socialistic trend of New South Wales, where the New Guard, a voluntary military organization of the upper and middle classes, is arrayed against the potential Red army of labor.

Due to the sound common sense of a majority of the people, the British sense of law and order, inertia, and the fear of property holders, Australia is expected to avoid an armed clash and to defeat labor and radicalism. It is anticipated that in the political field a national coalition, as in England, will be formed.

Communists Hunt Trouble.

The Wellsian analysis of world conditions as a race between readjustment and disorder and revolution, is apparently true of the spacious continent of Australia and the long white cloud that is New Zealand.

Since the ordered face of Queen street in Auckland was strangely altered by riots a month ago, the government has taken a firm hand and citizen soldiers, similar to the New Guard in Australia, have been formed in the cities. A large number of communist agents, however, are in Wellington seeking trouble.

The town hall at Auckland was the scene of a massmeeting recently in which a resolution was passed calling on the government to withdraw reactionary legislation embodied in the national expenditure adjustment bill and to replace it with measures to grapple with the economic crisis at its source—that is, private control of the volume of credit and consequently of money, and bring about a reorganization of finance and industry so as to absorb the unemployed and thus render unnecessary wage cuts and increased taxation.

Ultimatum to Premier.

The alternative demand was for Prime Minister G. W. Forbes to resign.

The government replied that full authority had been placed behind law and order, that adequate services would supplement the police, and that none would be allowed to starve.

There is no dole in New Zealand, but there is relief work in camps and on swamps and roads.

Australia is approaching a most critical period next month in the New South Wales election following the recent dismissal of the state premier, John T. Lang, by Gov. Sir Philip Game, the king's representative. This unprecedented action, the forcible removal of the government of a sovereign state by the power of the king of England, followed dismay at the program pushed by Lang, who controls the Labor party, to mortgage and tax all property and to try to

Tax Would Finance Building Program.

Day's Wet-Dry News

U. S. senate today will take first test vote since 1920 on prohibition. It will vote on a resolution to legalize beer, with a tax estimated to yield 500 million dollars a year.

A resolution passed yesterday in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco providing for a referendum of its members on prohibition;

A statement by Ex-Senator Wadsworth before the senate committee advocating state conventions to consider repeal of the 18th amendment;

An appeal to President Hoover by Chairman Macy of the New York G. O. P. committee for a wet or moist plank in the national platform.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17,—[Special.]—Members of the senate will have a chance tomorrow to adopt a proposal to legalize beer that will pay for a billion and a half dollars relief construction program and wipe from the pending billion dollar revenue bill an estimated 300 million dollars of additional taxes.

Their opportunity will come when the roll is called on an amendment by Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] which was taken up tonight following a day that saw the defeat of efforts to write still higher income taxes into the revenue bill and the adoption of the finance committee rates on individual and corporation income taxes.

Levy of 24 Cents a Gallon.

By agreeing upon the Tydings amendment the senate would authorize the manufacture of beer of 2.75 per cent of alcoholic content by volume and would at the same time place a tax upon it of 24 cents per gallon. The estimated yield from that tax would be 500 million dollars a year.

The amendment further provides for a billion and a half dollars bond issue to be used for federal construction projects already authorized and for the sum of 400 millions for flood control and road construction and for rivers and harbors projects.

Two hundred millions of the revenue from the beer tax would be set aside each year as a retirement fund against the bond issue. The remaining 300 millions would go into the general funds of the treasury and thereby eliminate the need for that amount of revenue from other sources.

Not a Prohibition Argument.

It was not a prohibition argument that he was making, but a plea for a self-liquidating form of emergency relief, said Senator Tydings as he opened the debate in favor of his plan.

"It is an honest attempt to find some common meeting ground where we can all unite to save the unemployed without surrendering a principle," he said.

Without relief, he foresaw a bill for a direct federal dole passed by the next session of congress.

"I don't want to descend to the level of a rough and tumble wet and dry fight," he admonished Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart when the Iowa radical interjected a remark about "2.75 beer is not going to do the booze fighter any good."

Replies to Brookhart.

"I will vote five billions for bread, but not one cent for booze," Senator Brookhart retorted to the accompaniment of a spatter of applause from the galleries.

"But where are you going to get the 5 billions when you've already got a debt of 2½ billions this year that the treasury can't meet?" Senator Tydings shot back, and this time the applause was for him.

Senator Tydings' plan, he pointed out, actually levied a tax without taking a cent from anybody. Beer drinkers, he said, would pay the tax of 3 cents a pint bottle on legalized beer and at the same time save fifteen cents, since

FILE MYSTERIOUS SUIT FOR $300,000 AGAINST BANKER

A mysterious $300,000 damage suit was filed in the Circuit court yesterday against Norman Harris, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, by James G. Clark of Mount Kisco, New York.

Clark's wife, the former Dorothy Funk, daughter of A. B. Funk of Des Moines, Ia., got a divorce in 1931 in Reno. She has custody of two daughters, 6 and 8 years old.

The declaration, which was filed by Attorney Thomas Hart Fisher, charged that Mr. Harris had entered into a contract with Clark last Aug. 4 to pay him $500 a month for life. The declaration charged that Mr. Harris abided by the contract for six months, but during the last ninety days has made none of the payments.

A second count in the declaration asserted that the damages were sustained as a result of a contract for "goods, chattels, and effects sold to the plaintiff at his request."

Attorney Fisher said he had filed the suit in behalf of Attorney Richard K. Knight of New York City. He refused to explain details of the suit.

Less than an hour after the suit was filed the copy of the bill was taken from the files by Attorney J. B. Martineau of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin. Attorney Martineau said that he had no idea of the nature of the suit. He said that Mr. Harris had entered into no such contract as was mentioned.

Mr. Harris, whose father, A. W. Harris, is chairman of the board of the bank, could not be reached at his home last evening.

WARBURG SPEAKS TONIGHT AT $100 A PLATE DINNER

Felix M. Warburg, New York financier, will be the principal speaker and guest at a dinner at the Standard club tonight. Plates at the dinner will cost $100 each, and the proceeds will go towards the $150,000 Chicago quota for the American Palestine fund. James A. Becker will be toastmaster. Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher and Rabbi Solomon B. Freehof will also speak.

Druggist Robbed of Cash, Razor Blades and Whisky

Henry J. Schulte's boast that he had been robbed only once in his thirty-two years of experience as a druggist was jolted last night when two bandits entered his store at 1501 East 55th street. They forced him to open a safe and then marched him and his clerk into a rear room. When the bandits fled they took with them $265, twenty packs of razor blades, and six pints of prescription whisky.

Survivors Fear 300 Died on Burning Liner

ADEN, Arabia, May 17.—(AP)—Shipping agencies feared that more than 300 persons may have perished aboard the blazing French motorship Georges Philippar off Cape Guardafui, Italian Somaliland, as 254 haggard, smoke grimed survivors arrived here today.

The British steamers Contractor and Mahsud brought the first refugees, who reported that up to 100 passengers were trapped in their burning cabins yesterday. Another 420 survivors were understood to be on the French liner Andre Lebon, which took them off the Soviet tanker Sovietskaia Neft.

Survivors Describe Horrors.

Shipping experts said they believed at least 1,000 persons were aboard the lost vessel and that unless they were picked up by ships which have not yet reported by wireless or have reached the African coast in boats, they must have met a horrible death.

Racked with anxiety for the safety of relatives and friends, the survivors who arrived today told of harrowing scenes that ended the ship's maiden voyage in tragedy.

The refugees told of the ship's dreadful last hours, as the passengers surged around the lifeboats amid swirling clouds of smoke that rose soon after the fire was discovered.

Trapped in Cabins.

The survivors could not say how many lives were lost in the ship. Up to 100, they said, were trapped in the burning cabins, most of them in the first class section. It seemed impossible that all could have survived.

They emphasized the extraordinary rapidity with which the flames spread after their discovery early in the morning. The majority of the passengers were awakened from their sleep and hustled on to the deck to find themselves immediately in an inferno of smoke and heat.

Although the captain kept the vessel's head to the wind, a number of lifeboats soon were destroyed and it was impossible for the passengers to make their way to the stations allotted them in the boat drill. The supply of rafts and lifeboats appeared, however, to have been ample.

Wireless Set Destroyed.

The wireless cabin was put out of commission almost at the beginning of the fire and it was impossible to send out S O S calls. The Contractor, however, sighted the blaze from a spot 35 miles away and dashed to the scene. Stokers of the rescue vessel worked "like fiends," their officers reported, to get every ounce of pressure.

The Contractor found the soviet tanker Sovietskaia Neft already on the scene. The Russian boat's explosive cargo made it imperative to keep at a safe distance, but some 400 passengers and seamen were carried over to the tanker on a raft picked out of the water.

These survivors were later transferred at sea to the French liner Andre Lebon, which is taking them to Djibout, French Somaliland, where it is due tomorrow.

Families Are Reunited.

The Mahsud reached Aden three hours after the Contractor and there were scenes of heartrending poignancy on the pier as her survivors found that relatives whom they had thought lost had reached safety and port before them. A mother who thus was reunited with her two young daughters seemed delirious with joy.

All hopes centered tonight on the Andre Lebon, but the fact that she was making for Djibout prolonged the anguish of those still left in dreadful uncertainty at Aden.

Survivors aboard the Contractor declared that at no time was there serious panic. Some of the rescued who were unable to reach the life boats jumped into the shark infested water and were picked up.

Chinese Kill 35 Japs, Burn Town and Flee

HARBIN, Manchuria, May 18 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The Rengo [Japanese] News agency today reported that the forces of the Chinese irregular general, Li Tu, had massacred 35 Japanese and fired the town of Ilan [Sanhsing] yesterday in the face of an advance by Japanese troops.

The Chinese retreated down the Sungari river toward Fuchin, which is 100 miles from the soviet border point of Khabarovsk. The massacred Japanese had been held prisoners more than a month by the Chinese, who had been making Ilan their headquarters in their guerilla activity against advancing Japanese forces in eastern Kirin province.

The troops of Gen. Nakamura's brigade discovered the bodies of the Japanese when they entered and occupied Ilan, which is one of the most important towns of northeastern Manchuria. The Japanese military considered the capture an important victory in their campaign to suppress the enemies of the new Manchurian state, Manchoukuo.

Offer Compromise on Cabinet.

TOKIO, May 18.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—In the face of the demand of the army for a nonpartisan Nationalist cabinet the Seiyukai party indicated today its willingness to compromise and form a coalition government.

The Seiyukai party, nominally in power because the assassinated Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai was its president, sought to retain governmental power by permitting the opposition, the Minseito party, to place members in the cabinet. It also invited the house of peers to taken part in forming a new government.

The Seiyukai group hoped such a combination would be acceptable to the military authorities, who are able to block any ministerial formation they may wish, because the minister of war must be a general in the army.

Army's Attitude Obscure.

The attitude of the army toward such a coalition remained obscure, although Kaku Mori, one of the principal Seiyukai leaders, held a long conference last night with Gen. Sadao Araki, resigned minister of war.

Meanwhile the national crisis probably will be prolonged for at least another day on the face of a decision by Prince Saionji, the elder statesman and adviser of Emperor Hirohito, to remain at his estate in Okitsu until tomorrow. He intends to let the situation crystallise further before advising the emperor on the premiership.

Government Party Acts.

The choice of Kisaburo Suzuki, home minister and candidate for premier, as president of the Seiyukai party had been approved by the Seiyukai members of parliament. Suzuki customarily would have become premier by virtue of his selection to head the government party.

The police have disclosed that the seventeen arrested as the perpetrators of Sunday's outrages were connected with the "Blood brotherhood," to which also belonged the slayers of Baron Takuma Dan and former Finance Minister Junnosuke Inouye.

Last week, they said, the Buddhist priest, Nissho Inouye, leader of the "brotherhood," who is now in prison, directed suspicion against the seventeen youths, as a result of which it was understood the authorities were about to arrest them.

The youths learned of the impending danger, police said, and decided to act before they were arrested.

CONFESSES HIS BABY SEARCH STORY A HOAX

'Phantom Ship' a Myth, He Admits.

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—John H. Curtis, the Norfolk boat builder and "intermediary" in the Lindbergh kidnaping, confessed today that his "negotiations" with the kidnapers were false from beginning to end. He gave as his excuse that he had hoped to sell his story for publication and to the motion pictures.

"I never knew any such people that I named to Col. Lindbergh, and they were creatures of a distorted mind," he wrote in his brief confession, which he typed himself in the early hours of the morning.

Curtis said he "became insane on the subject for the time being, which caused me to create the story in its entirety," and that he was "brought back to his senses" by a telephone conversation with his wife.

After Long Questioning.

The confession was made after several days of questioning by Inspector Harry Walsh of the Jersey City police and others during which the authorities would question the boat builder for several hours and then leave him absolutely alone for hours to reflect on his previous statements.

Curtis' fake story had been believed by the authorities and by Col. Lindbergh himself who about three weeks ago began making trips on the yacht Marcon with Curtis searching for the phantom ship now shown to be even less than a phantom. Night after night the harassed and agonized father of the missing baby paced on the deck of the yacht without sleep, peering out over the water. It was stormy weather. And Curtis was with him aboard, knowing all the time that his whole story was a hoax. Now Curtis says his mind was "distorted."

Notes to Condon Authentic?

The breakdown of Curtis was the day's most important development in the nation-wide hunt for the murderers of the Lindbergh baby.

In New York City, there were other developments. Col. Henry Breckinridge and four others appeared before the Bronx county grand jury, where District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin has started his own investigation.

Dr. John F. Condon [Jafsie], through whom Col. Lindbergh paid $50,000 to a person Condon is still sure was one of the kidnapers, did not testify. He expects to be called the first thing in the morning.

In connection with Condon's part in the negotiations, Hugh McQuillan of the intelligence bureau of the U. S. department of internal revenue, revealed that government handwriting experts were agreed that the original ransom note left in the Lindbergh home on the night of the kidnaping and all the notes received by Dr. Condon in the subsequent negotiations were written by the same person.

This conclusion has established in the minds of the New Jersey police the belief that the kidnapers and those who got the ransom via Condon were the same.

Drug Taker "Confesses."

The Curtis confession was the second made during the day. In Brooklyn Frank Parzych, a 30 year old narcotic addict, told detectives—and clung to the story after more than twelve hours of questioning—that he was one of a band of seven men who kidnaped the child and that the baby died after the man carrying him down the ladder from the nursery window accidentally dropped him to the ground.

Although they failed to shake his story, Capt. Daniel Carey and Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney seemed skeptical.

"I do not believe any story until it is carefully checked," the commissioner said.

The prisoner, Parzych, was brought back to police headquarters after midnight and the questioning was resumed.

Will Curtis Be Punished?

Whether any punishment lies ahead of Curtis was uncertain tonight. A federal official, who would not permit the use of his name, said that the only statute which would apply was section 37, United States criminal code, which is directed against conspiracy to violate a federal statute and defraud the government in any way. It constitutes such an attempt when the government is defrauded not only of money but by the usurpation or misuse of its functions. The penalty is $10,000 fine or two years' imprisonment, or both.

On the other hand police officials

In Trenton, awaiting the arrival of Attorney General William Stevens for a conference on the action, if any, to be taken against Curtis, expressed the opinion that he could be arraigned under the crimes act for wilfully furnishing false information. The penalty under this charge, is three years' imprisonment or a fine of $1,000, or both.

Schwarzkopf Had Doubts.

The Curtis confession did not come as a complete surprise to Norman H. Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, and his aides. Since their first knowledge of the Norfolk negotiations and their meeting with Curtis on March 23 they doubted that Curtis was on the right track, although Col. Lindbergh and his aides continued the contact lest they overlook a real clew.

In the beginning Curtis had appealed to the Rev. H. Dobson Peacock, rector of Christ Episcopal church, Norfolk, and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, U. S. N., retired, to aid him in reaching Col. Lindbergh.

They agreed to do so, Dr. Peacock made a second visit to Hopewell, risking his life in making the trip by plane through one of the worst storms of the spring. After arranging the original contact with Col. Lindbergh, Rear Admiral Burrage remained in the background. It was Curtis alone who carried on all the "negotiations."

Confession at 4 A. M.

The collapse of Curtis' story came at 4 o'clock this morning after intermittent questioning and investigation of his statements which began last Thursday night. He was questioned all of that night and on Friday he was taken to Cape May, N. J., to check parts of his story.

On Saturday the police again questioned him at Hopewell, with Inspector Harry Walsh of Jersey City taking the leading part in the examination. His statement was taken down in detail. Then on Sunday he was left entirely alone to ponder on his story all day and through the evening.

On Monday came another expedition to check on his previous statements. This time Curtis went to Newark, where he "identified" a picture in the Rogues' gallery at police headquarters—the photograph of a man who is in the State hospital for the insane at Morris Plains. On the Newark trip the detectives took the boat builder on an expedition through several miles of streets in an effort to locate a house at which he had said he met the kidnapers and which he held he could identify. He did not identify it.

In the afternoon he returned to Hopewell with the police escort and again he was isolated until after midnight. There was method in the police plan of alternately questioning and leaving Curtis by himself to think over what he had said and what he might say in his next interrogation.

"This was a part of the plan which resulted in his eventual confession," said Col. Schwarzkopf. "Sometime after midnight Inspector Walsh, in the presence of Lieut. Keaten, made friendly advances to Mr. Curtis and started a game of checkers with him.

"Curtis's mind quite evidently was not on the game, and on the suggestion of Inspector Walsh they took a walk. Conversation was continued with him and the suggestion constantly advanced that he tell the truth."

Ransom Money Story False.

Shortly after 1 a. m. today, Curtis said he was ready to tell the truth, and a statement was taken in which he denied previous statements that he had seen and checked the ransom money, but continued to insist that the rest of his story concerning contacts was true. He was then taken back to the house and questioned further, and finaly at 4 o'clock his poise deserted him.

He jumped from his chair, thrusting it back so forcibly that it crashed against the wall, asked for a typewriter and paper and, in the presence of Inspector Walsh and Leut. Keaten, he wrote out the confession. He was almost in tears at the end.

More Rambling Statements.

Col. Schwarzkopf made public a series of long, rambling statements which Curtis made to the examining police officers shortly before his nerves snapped and he made his confession.

The New Jersey police commander remarked, in giving out the supplementary statements, containing several thousand words, that they were incoherent and badly punctuated. He explained that they were issued just as taken down stenographically. The lack of clarity, particularly noticeable in one of them, spurred the police examiners to their final volley of questions which "broke" the boat builder.

The Rev. Peacock "Amazed."

At Norfolk today the Rev. Mr. Peacock expressed amazement over the Curtis confession and particularly in reference to a charge Curtis made in an earlier statement that "Dean Peacock could have prevented him" from going on.

Admiral Burrage said he had nothing to say now and that he "would have nothing to say on the case in the future."

May Question the Rector.

The New Jersey police were inclined to absolve Admiral Burrage, taking the view that he merely transmitted data without vouching for it, but there was a disposition to question the Rev. Mr. Peacock. It was reported from Trenton tonight that state officers had "invited" him to come there. He left his home in Norfolk soon afterward.

Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, who had been keeping in close touch with developments all day, abruptly left a dinner at the Commodore hotel tonight after he received a telephone call from Attorney General William A. Stevens concerning the Lindbergh case.

"The attorney general phoned me," Gov. Moore announced to the guests, "and asked me to meet him in Hopewell on a matter of very great importance."

Later it was learned that Mr. Moore instead of going to Hopewell stopped at his home in Jersey City and talked to Hopewell on the phone.

Big Conference of Sleuths.

In the afternoon, shortly before the Curtis confession was made public, there was a conference of state, federal and county police and investigators at the state police headquarters in Trenton at which representatives of the department of justice, the treasury department, the state police and the prosecutors' offices of Mercer and Hunterdon counties were present.

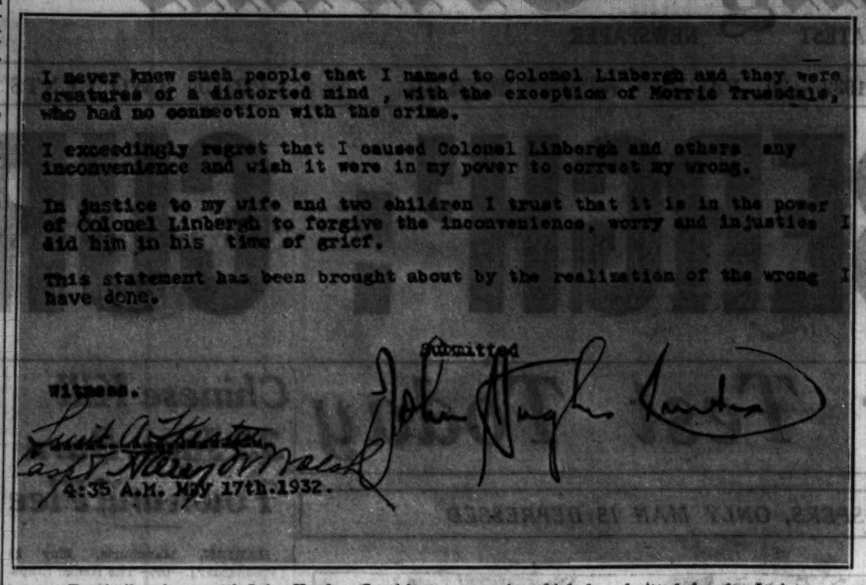
William A. Stevens, state attorney general, also attended. A complete plan for coördinating the activities in the hunt for the murderer of the state and federal agencies, including liaison methods and a division of assignments, was discussed and established.

Still Tracing Bank Notes.

In this connection Col. Schwarzkopf confirmed the fact that he had renewed his request of the treasury department to exercise special vigilance in the tracing of the bank notes paid in the ransom, the serial numbers of which have been broadcast all over North America and abroad.

The search conducted by four divisions of coast guard vessels for the mythical schooner aboard which Curtis had placed the kidnapers was discontinued yesterday afternoon and the beats were assigned to other duties from their headquarters at New York, Norfolk, New London and Boston. They will now resume the chase of rum boats along the coast, a function they had largely abandoned during the hunt for Curtis' phantom ship.

Curtis Signs Confession of Duping Lindbergh



I never knew such people that I named to Colonel Linbergh and they were creatures of a distorted mind, with the exception of Morris Truesdale, who had no connection with the crime.

I exceedingly regret that I caused Colonel Linbergh and others any inconvenience and wish it were in my power to correct my wrong.

In justice to my wife and two children I trust that it is in the power of Colonel Linbergh to forgive the inconvenience, worry and injustice I did him in his time of grief.

This statement has been brought about by the realization of the wrong I have done.

FULL TEXT OF CONFESSION

Hopewell, N. J., May 17.—(AP)—The official text of the confession of John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk "intermediary" in the Lindbergh case, follows:

"Made of my own hand and own free will. Referring to the two statements made previously by me in regard to Lindbergh case. At the present time I am sane, but I honestly believe that for the last 7 or 8 months I have not been myself, due to financial troubles.

"I was apparently brought back to my senses by my telephone conversation with my wife this afternoon when she told me of the troubles she was having and how the children missed me, also by my conversation with Inspector Harry Walsh.

"I desire to state that my remarks about the newspapers are true and can be verified. This is in reference to my story about Mr. Haskell and Mr. Wilcox of the Herald-Tribune.

"Mr. Lee of the News and Mr. Turin and Fox offered me money for my knowledge of the Lindbergh case or pictures of the baby.

"The matter was brought to my attention during a conversation and, due to what I now believe was a distorted mind by brooding over it, I became insane on the subject for the time being, which caused me to create the story in its entirety, which was untrue in every respect.

"I never knew such people that I named to Col. Lindbergh; they were creatures of a distorted mind with the exception of Marie Truesdale, who had no connection with the crime.

"I exceedingly regret that I caused Col. Lindbergh and others any inconvenience and wish it were in my power to correct my wrong.

"In justice to my wife and two children, I trust that it is in the power of Col. Lindbergh to forgive the inconvenience, worry, and injustice I did him in his time of grief.

"This statement has been brought about by the realization of the wrong I have done.

PONDER PARZYCH STORY

Over in Brooklyn tonight the police were still pondering the story told by Parzych, although they were informed he took a bit of morphine before he spilled his yarn.

Parzych is an American of Polish extraction. He is about 5 feet 9 inches in height, bronzed from exposure to wind and sun, rather slender but strongly built, and with strong curly blond hair. He is tattooed on his arms, chest, and even on his left cheek, which bears a tattooed leaf.

He was picked up Monday night on a warrant charging that he abandoned his two children, a girl 7 years old and a boy of 11, and his wife, Helen. His wife, who saw him lingering on a corner near their home, asked that he be taken in custody.

Parzych had been in a cell less than a half hour when he began to moan. A patrolman overheard him and asked the reason.

"I've got something on my mind," Parzych said. "I'm afraid I'll go nuts. I'm one of the gang that kidnaped the Lindbergh kid."

Detail of His "Confession."

His story was repeated later to Commissioner Mulrooney.

The Pole, according to Mulrooney, said he was on a rum runner and heard the crew plotting the kidnaping. He chimed in. The gang made a two piece ladder [the ladder found at Hopewell was three piece] and took it to Jersey on an automobile. The commissioner went on:

"When they got to Hopewell, Parzych says, he stayed in the car with four of the gang and two went out. They put the ladder up. One man went into the bedroom, took the baby, but as he got near the bottom dropped it in his excitement.

Find Baby Is Dead.

"After they had driven a short distance from the house, according to his story, one of the men put his hand on the baby's forehead and said, 'It's cold.' Another put his hand to the baby's heart and said, 'The baby is dead.' They stopped and felt the body and finally all agreed it was dead. They left the car by the roadside and one of them took the baby up into the brush and left it there.

"When the man came back he was carrying the baby's clothes. He had left behind only the body band. They agreed the clothes might come in handy later on. Then they drove back to uptown New York, where they separated."

Ignorant of Ransom Note.

Parzych, the commissioner said, told him he had never seen the ransom note; did not know there was one. He was positive that the group that got the $50,000 ransom in the Bronx was not linked with the rum boat gang.

Parzych met the rum boat gang from time to time after the kidnaping, he told the commissioner, but he never received any ransom money.

Mrs. Parzych said she was married to Parzych nine years ago; that a year ago he spent eighteen days at Kings county hospital for observation because of his peculiar actions and that until she saw him Monday night he had been absent almost a year.

Inquiry by Bronx Grand Judy.

The first actual investigation by a grand jury into the kidnaping and murder was begun in the Bronx where District Attorney McLaughlin presented the Bronx ramifications of the case to the April term of the grand jury.

The jury heard testimony of five witnesses, including Col. Henry Breckinridge, attorney and friend of Lindbergh.

Dr. Condon, who delivered $50,000 ransom money to the kidnapers in St. Raymond's cemetery on April 2 and who is convinced that he can identify the criminals, appeared in the Bronx Supreme court building, where the jury is sitting, but he was not called today. He was notified to be prepared to take the stand when the jury continues its investigation on Friday.

Peacock Replies to Curtis.

Norfolk, Va., May 18 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Dean H. Dobson-Peacock issued a formal statement early today in reply to the charge ascribed to his associate, John Hughes Curtis, that he could have prevented his "unfortunate part" in the negotiations.

"In reply to Mr. Curtis' alleged statement, as quoted in the press, that I might have prevented my 'unfortunate part in this enormous deception,'" the statement said, "I feel called on to say that I cannot understand what Mr. Curtis meant unless it was that he had told me in the beginning that he would not undertake the negotiations alone."

INDIANAN ENDS LIFE BY POISON.

CURTIS OFTEN SUSPECTED FOR RUM TESTIMONY

Prisoner 'Confesses' Part in Kidnaping.

Norfolk, Va., May 17.—[Special.]—John Hughes Curtis, who confessed to the New Jersey authorities that his story of contacts with alleged kidnapers of the Lindbergh boy was a fake, has long been under suspicion of federal authorities as being connected with rum runners. He has appeared in four cases against men accused of rum running at trials in the federal district court here.

In January, 1928, he testified in the case of Harry Henderson, alias Harry Keenan, owner of the yacht Nomad, an ex-submarine chaser which was seized by the coast guard off the Virginia capes for transporting whisky. Curtis endeavored to prevent the conviction of Henderson by his testimony, Henderson, however, was given 22 months in the Atlanta penitentiary. Fred Knight, James Leonard Barnes, alias J. L. Boles, A. W. Ward, and Norman Jones, members of the crew, each received a sentence of 1 year and two months in prison.

Claimed Seized Rum Boat.

The rum runner Violet, built at the plant of the Gas Engine and Boat company for Harry Collins and Sam Goldberg, the latter a notorious rum runner of Philadelphia, also brought Curtis into court. He filed a claim against the boat in the hope, it was charged by government agents, of obtaining possession of her so he could return it to Goldberg. The boat was seized off the Virginia capes while attempting to land a load of whisky.

In January, 1925, the rum runner Eloise was seized off the Virginia capes and J. F. Foster and others of her crew were accused of attempting to smuggle whisky into the United States. Curtis filed a claim against this boat also but it was disallowed.

He filed a similar claim against the rum runner Dart. Government secret service men for years have tried to connect Curtis with rum running in various parts of the country but were unable to obtain sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction.

In May of last year the Gas Engine and Boat corporation went into bankruptcy with liabilities listed at $365,000. Curtis about this time suffered a nervous breakdown and his condition was considered serious for a time.

Attempted to Kill Himself.

He attempted to swallow poison in his home but the phial was knocked out of his hand by his wife, according to well authenticated reports. Mrs. Curtis denied her husband attempted suicide. She said the phial contained medicine.

Two years ago Curtis was chairman of a committee that arranged a boat race between ships of the navy, coast guard, American and foreign craft. An entrance fee was collected from each entrant and the winner was to have been awarded a silver cup. The coast guard crew won the race, but the cup was never awarded.

Government authorities here never have had any faith in the Lindbergh negotiations conducted by Curtis, the Rev. H. Dobson Peacock and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired.

STATE FORGETS YOUTH DOOMED TO DIE AS RAPIST

Raleigh, N. C., May 17.—(AP)—The strange case of a youth placed in state prison's death row nearly eight months ago under sentence of electrocution and then forgotten was discovered here today.

The youth is Willie Rector, convicted in Burke county of a rape charge and sentenced to die in the electric chair last Oct. 2. Prison officials said the youth, just 19 years old, had lived from day to day in the belief that any hour he might be called out and led to the execution chamber a few feet from his cell.

The strain of the seven months' uncertainty, they added, has affected the mind of the prisoner.

CURTIS IMPRESSES RECTOR AND ADMIRAL HIS STORIES ARE TRUE

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—John Hughes Curtis first came into the Lindbergh case during the last week in March. He impressed the Rev. Dr. Harold Dobson Peacock, dean of Christ Episcopal church of Norfolk with his story and then Rear Admiral Guy Hamilton Burrage, retired. It was Dr. Peacock who on March 24 made the first announcement after the story had been told in Norfolk "in confidence" to two newspapers and had leaked out.

"According to our information," said Dean Peacock, "the baby will be returned shortly. We have been in contact with these people (the kidnapers) the last few days."

The clergyman was so impressed with the story that he declared that they were "absolutely sure" that the persons with whom they were dealing had the baby, and even intimated that he expected the child to be brought to his house within a short time. Admiral Burrage went to Hopewell with Curtis on March 23, renewing an acquaintance that began when Col. Lindbergh returned from his flight to Paris aboard the cruiser Memphis, which on that ocasion was under the command of Admiral Burrage.

As the "negotiations" continued Curtis disclosed that he had been working on the case for nearly two weeks before he attempted to get in touch with Col. Lindbergh. Following his visit to Hopewell the boat builder started off on a series of mysterious trips, sometimes by car and plane and then by sea.

Toward the end of the Curtis "negotiations" Col. Lindbergh, although lacking faith, went with the boat builder on a trip of several days.

LINDBERGH AND I KNEW ALL ABOUT IT, SAYS CONDON

Curtis Confession No News to Jafsie.

New York, May 17.—(AP)—The "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh kidnaping case said tonight neither he nor Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had been "taken in" by John Hughes Curtis and his story of contacts with the abductors.

"I knew it all the time and so did the colonel," said the aged educator who on April 2 tossed a package containing $50,000 ransom to a man on the other side of a New York cemetery wall.

Blames Headline for Failure.

"Curtis says Col. Lindbergh authorizes him to pay $100,000."

"The kidnapers saw that story and thought there was a chance of getting more money," he added.

Dr. Condon said he thought there was a chance he might have been able to persuade the kidnapers to return the baby alive without the payment of any money, had he been able to get in contact with them early enough in the case.

"We know plenty that has not come out yet," he said cryptically.

Then he displayed a sheet of paper which he called "The house of facts revealing my step by step movements in connection with the Lindbergh case."

Notes Are Puzzle.

At the ends of the arrows were these words:

The start, boat, red, B. G. telephone to Jafsie, ad—Jafsie $1,000, reply to colonel, reply to Jafsie, sleeping suit Jafsie, letters directions by taxi, visit to gate for prayer, ad Jafsie sleeping gown, letter mail signed, taxi letter, signature o. k., visit kidnapers Bergen's table note, visit St. Raymond's Axel under directions, directions gay head St. Elizabeth island, Jafsie ad wait?

Dr. Condon declined to explain the phrases.

He said his motives for acting in the case were "patriotism, the home, school, state and society."

BRITISH TROOPS END RACE RIOT WITH RIFLE FIRE

88 Slain, 850 Wounded in Bombay Clashes.

BOMBAY, India, May 17.—(AP)—Hindu and Moslem mobs were quieted tonight by the rifle fire of British troops after four days of communal rioting that took a toll of 88 lives and wounded at least 850 persons.

Twenty-four were killed today and 200 injured before the soldiers, who had been rushed here from Poona, restored order.

But the strife between the two hostile races meanwhile had spread to Calcutta, where police were forced to fire on a mob. Several constables and about twenty civilians were injured.

Stone Religious Parade.

The trouble at Calcutta apparently began when Hindus stationed on housetops stoned a Moslem religious procession. The Moslems retaliated.

The Royal Irish fusiliers fired tonight on a mob of Moslems in Bombay who were looting and burning shops in the Bhendy bazaar, the center of the worst of the riots. All was quiet afterward for the first time since Saturday, when a Moslem group first attacked some Hindu youths, although the rioting had forced the closing of mills, throwing 40,000 men and women out of work.

Troops late tonight moved quietly and efficiently through the disturbed areas, restoring confidence.

Pathan Shot by Police.

During the day a fierce looking Pathan, armed with a gun, attempted to force his way into a flat in the Bhendy bazaar occupied by the young wife of a British police sergeant. He was shot and captured by police.

For the most part during the day the populace shuddered indoors as the blood continued to flow in the shambles of several Bombay districts. British tanks, also rushed from poona, patrolled the streets. Garbage and refuse, unattended for days, rotted in the streets, causing an abominable stench.

Groups of more than five persons were prohibited by a curfew order from congregating in any spot.

BETTY GOW SEWS AS RUMORS OF DEATH SPREAD

Englewood, N. J., May 17.—(AP)—While rumors were flooding the country that she had committed suicide, Miss Betty Gow, the Lindbergh nurse, was quietly sewing in the house near Hopewell yesterday.

Alarmed at the persistence of the rumors, her friends here telephoned the Lindbergh home and were told by Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow that Miss Gow was in excellent health and was "sitting tight sewing."

Miss Gow has not left Hopewell since the kidnaping. Although her nursing duties have been terminated she had had her hands full in helping the other members of the staff in caring for a full house. She occasionally has accompanied Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh on walks about the estate.

ENDS LIFE BY STRANGLING.

NEW YORK PAPERS EXPLAIN DEALS FOR CURTIS STORY

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Grafton S. Wilcox, managing editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, issued the following statement late today regarding the reference to that newspaper in the story told police by John Hughes Curtis:

"The New York Herald-Tribune made no contract or agreement of any kind with John Hughes Curtis.

"Curtis did make a proposal that this newspaper publish the story of his activities.

"The Herald-Tribune stipulated that it would make no arrangement with him until the child had been returned to Col. Lindbergh and the latter had vouched for the authenticity of the narrative.

"It was further provided that this newspaper should be the judge of the availability of the material for publication in its columns.

"The Herald-Tribune investigated Curtis' report as a matter of routine news in which Col. Lindbergh was taking an active interest."

News Offered to Buy Story.

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Officials of the Daily News tonight said an offer to buy the story of John Hughes Curtis' attempts to recover the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was made by Richard Lee of the newspaper's staff.

At the newspaper office it was said the offer to buy the story was made in the belief that Curtis' story was based on fact. The offer provided that Curtis produce the child and allow News photographers to take pictures as well as give the newspaper Curtis' own story of his negotiations.

Lee approached Curtis at Norfolk, Va., a month ago, several weeks after the shipbuilder had originally told of his efforts to negotiate for the child's return. At that time, the newspaper said, all other angles of the case seemingly had come to a standstill and the News was under the impression Curtis' story was based on fact.

HUNT GANGSTER IN MEXICO; MAY BE LINDY CLEW

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, May 17.—If insistent rumors, supported by the admission of the Mexico City police that they have been requested by Detroit authorities to arrest Harry Fleischer, Detroit gang leader, charged with murder, prove correct, it is possible that this republic may hold the solution to the Lindbergh tragedy.

According to reports received here, Fleischer has been seen in the city of Monterey. His arrest and extradition has been asked on a charge of slaying three men, Joseph Labovitz, Joseph Sutker, and Hymie Paul, on Sept. 16, 1931. Ten thousand circulars carrying a full description of the accused are being distributed.

Manuel Rubio Ovieno, Mexico City chief of police, said he had no indication that Fleischer was wanted on any charge besides the Detroit murders, but that in case the gangster proved to be involved in the Lindbergh case the police would spare no effort to capture him.

1931 Safety Trophy Is Awarded Union Pacific

The National Safety council at a meeting last night in the Stevens hotel awarded the Union Pacific system the bronze trophy offered the railroad having the lowest casualty rate among employés in 1931. C. T. Bergquist, president of the council, said 5,426 lives would have been saved if all Class 1 railroads had maintained the safety rate of the winning road.

STRAWN OPENS BUSINESS' FIGHT ON HIGH TAXES

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Sessions Begin.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., May 17.—[Special.]—Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, tonight touched off the first broadside in the battle of American commerce to defeat governmental extravagances.

SILAS H. STRAWN.

Addressing the opening session of the twentieth annual meeting of the national chamber, Mr. Strawn declared that a recovery from business depression depends upon the adoption of drastic economies in the public governments. Tax rates have multiplied to the point where they have become confiscatory, he said, and in charting out the avenues whereby the taxpayers may obtain relief, Mr. Strawn urged that incompetent officials be removed from office, and their places taken by intelligent citizens. He urged an awakening political interest upon his business colleagues, imploring them to dose no longer behind the lazy attiture of "let George do it."

Look to "the Job Ahead."

Two thousand business executives, delegates representing all branches of commerce from the nation at large, have assumed the responsibility, in this meeting, of deciding upon a program for relief of unemployment and of capital, and the hope is that the key phrase of the session, "the job ahead," will be turned into a way out of the depression. The delegates heard Mr. Strawn, their leader, say that the people of the country are coming to a belated realization of the fact that the costs of all governments have increased at an appalling rate.

Mr. Strawn discussed the billions of dollars collected from the citizens by the tax eating agencies—figures so large as to lose their meaning. But he brought the figures home to his hearers when in simpler arithmetic he said that in 1913 the total tax load was $30 per capita in the United States, and in 1931 it had risen to the point where if the tax were spread among all the inhabitants, every man, woman, and child would pay $110.

One Dollar in Five in Taxes.

Every five dollars earned in the country paid one dollar for taxation, Mr. Strawn asserted, as compared in 1913 with a dollar's tax for every $15.50 of national income.

The speaker urged amendments to the revenue laws whereby the tax load be distributed among a greater proportion of the population.

"Those with small incomes should pay something, however little, toward the cost of government," Mr. Strawn said, adding that thereby they will be made to realize they are citizens with some duty and responsibility other than the right to vote taxes on those who do pay."

Mr. Strawn pointed out that in 1930 federal income taxpayers numbered 1,946,678, or only one and two-thirds per cent of our population, and that their combined income was slightly over 17 billion dollars. The total income of the American people in that year was estimated by Mr. Strawn at 71 billions and he declared that the remaining 46 million of the population, earning approximately 54 billion dollars, paid no portion of the federal government's expenditures directly.

Taxes Support 2½ Million Persons.

Somewhat ironically, Mr. Strawn showed that the numerical strength of the army of federal pay rollers was 1,023,373, and, assuming that with the inclusion of dependents of the pay rollers those enjoying the federal bounty numbered not less than 2,560,000, the speaker declared that for every federal income taxpayer there are one and one-quarter persons sharing in his taxes directly.

Going to his subject of incompetency in public office, Mr. Strawn appealed to the business men to give the same intelligence and industry to the administration of government as they have to their business and commercial enterprises.

Ignorant Conduct Government.

"If we are to save our property from confiscation," he said, "we cannot avoid that responsibility. We cannot blame our federal, state, or local officials for the extravagant administration of government when we continuously importune them to make expenditures or when we shirk our duty as citizens and place the machinery of government in the control of the inexperienced or incompetent.

"Too many of our citizens avoid their civic duty and 'let George do it.' They are so engrossed in their own business that they leave the conduct of the affairs of government to those who have no qualifications for the job; to men who, frequently, have no education, who know nothing about government finance, budgetary control, economics, sanitation, city planning, or anything else that is vital to the governmental and financial soundness of a great city and the welfare of its citizens."

State Denies Plea for Trolley Extension Order

The Illinois commerce commission in Springfield, yesterday dismissed the complaint of the West Ridge Improvement association and other civic organizations asking that the Chicago Surface Lines be compelled to extend its service on Peterson, Ridge, and Thorndale or Bryn Mawr avenues. The commission held that the present need is insufficient to warrant the proposed extension.

HOSPITALS TO GET LILACS TODAY

LILACS TO BRING CHEER TO MANY SHUT-INS TODAY

Railways Will Carry Flowers.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The fragrance of bloom laden lilac bushes will be carried into hospitals, tenement homes, and settlements of Chicago today.

For this is lilac day, designated by the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild, which is coöperating with THE TRIBUNE so that the lilac blooms may be carried to those who would not otherwise have a chance to enjoy the blooms.

Before the dew is off the lilac bushes this morning it is expected that hundreds of commuters will have cut great armfuls of the flowers and sent them in to the terminal stations of the Illinois Central and Burlington railroads. They will be watered and assembled by guild chairmen and dispatched to the Cook county hospital and other worthy institutions by THE TRIBUNE.

Other Stations to Aid.

While today is set aside for receiving lilacs and other flowers from all residents on the Illinois Central or those lines terminating in the Union station, tomorrow will find three other loop terminal stations equipped to receive and distribute the lilacs. Booths will be set up in the North Western, Aurora-Elgin, and La Salle street stations. Commuters on the elevated and North Shore trains may deliver flowers at the Aurora-Elgin station at Wells and Quincy streets tomorrow.

Prominent citizens of Chicago and its suburbs are sponsoring the movement to maintain during the summer a steady flow of flowers, vegetables, and fresh fruits from the gardens and yards where there is plenty to the homes of the lonely or confined, and to the sections of the city where children see little if any plant life except that distributed through the guild.

Blooms in Lombard.

Among the most profuse blooms of lilacs to be found in Chicagoland, those placed on view yesterday in Lombard, a few miles west of Chicago, were outstanding. A visit to the famous W. R. Plum estate, which has been transformed into Lilacia park by the city of Lombard, yesterday gave hundreds of admirers a glimpse of the largest assortment of lilacs to be found west of Boston and the second largest collection of these blooms in the world.

Name your favorite color, your favorite variety of lilacs, and you will find them in the Plum collection at Lombard. Some of these bushes are fifty years old and still blooming. They were gathered from fourteen different foreign countries and all parts of North America. The collection will be on display for three or four weeks.

Walks Flanked with Tulips.

Wandering through the sweet scented informal garden, designed by Jens Jensen of Highland Park, one stops repeatedly to admire the masses of color and the harmonious blending of delicate hues. The walks are flanked with varicolored tulips, standing like soldiers on dress parade.

More than 300 varieties of lilacs and 75 kinds of tulips, of every imaginable tint, have been combined in the display. And before the tulips will have gone in the next few weeks iris will move up to fill the ranks at the feet of the towering lilacs in full bloom. One great bush of Persian lilacs, when in full flower, will almost completely hide the foliage and branches in a mass of lavender.

Yesterday a half dozen artists sat at their easels, oblivious to the whispering visitors. They were putting on canvas the tulip sentinels, the masses of purple, red, and white, with shades of blue and lavender in the lilac bushes.

Lombard's townspeople yesterday were planning to accommodate more than 15,000 visitors from all over Chicagoland at the annual lilac festival in Lombard on Sunday.

"There were a hundred thousand visitors, from fourteen states, in Lilacia last summer," declared one of the members of the Lombard park board. "With several thousand lilac bushes and 30,000 tulips on display this spring, we are preparing for an even greater flood of admirers."

Perhaps they go there to see the lilacs, the tulips, or to rest beside the rock garden and pool. Or perhaps they go there to mount the informal hillock landscaping and peer through the blossoms of wild hawthorne, crab or plum trees, into the many unusual vistas the park affords. In the five years the park has been developing the visitors have returned with others.

HELEN MOODY'S PARENTS ARE NOW LIVING APART, REPORT

San Francisco, Cal., May 17.—(AP)—The Examiner says Dr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Wills, parents of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, tennis star, are living apart. Dr. Wills, the Examiner said, had been living at the Faculty club of the University of California at Berkeley for almost a year.

Mrs. Wills, the paper added, has been in residence at the Berkeley Woman's City club for the last few months. She said she planned to leave today to join her daughter, now engaged in a European tennis campaign.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Wills declined to comment, but Mrs. Wills, in response to a question concerning the possibility of court action declared: "No, positively no."

DEFLATE POLITICS TO SAVE NATION, DR. DODD PLEADS

Assails Waste and Graft Government.

Deflation of politics and elimination of government waste were urged last night as one of five basic steps necessary for economic recovery by Prof. William E. Dodd, chairman of the department of history at the University of Chicago.

In a lecture at the Art institute entitled, "Something Less Than Revolution," Prof. Dodd listed as the other remedies: A "back to the farm" movement for unemployed city workers; a "root and branch" reform of banking practice and a reduction of industrial overhead; a more equitable distribution of the returns of labor, and an international reduction of tariff barriers and of armament expenditures.

The Taxpayers' Burden.

Speaking of the necessary deflation of politics, Prof. Dodd said that in Washington, Springfield, and Chicago taxpayers are burdened "with the maintenance of useless or dispensable officeholders who hang like leeches upon the social system and seem as willing to risk total national collapse as were the onhangers at the court of Louis XVI."

As one of the abuses in Washington, he pointed out the veterans' bureau, which he said costs the public as much as the whole national administration of 1914.

"Men who are slightly ill receive large pensions; other men who have suffered real illness receive like sums, and some I know have homes of their own and have ceased work because the government allows them enough to support their families," he said. "There has never been anything more flagrant. No real, brave soldier would thus exploit his country.

Abuses in Chicago.

"In Chicago I might name other abuses only a little less important in the reach of their evil effects. A group of the Republican party has exploited the public off and on for 25 years. Some of them are in prison or on their way. But nobody strikes at the system.

"In the Democratic party the appearance of a statesman would frighten the leaders out of their wits. In the hope of escaping such, their group leaders connive with Republican exploiting groups. Thus 18,000 teachers have gone without their lawful salaries more than a year, while janitors' organizations and political go-betweens receive twice the salary of excellent and self-sacrificing public servants."

Taxpayers' strikes could be ended if political robberies and abuses could be corrected, he said, and governmental salaries then would again flow into legitimate channels of economic life. Ten courageous men in a state and two score men in congress could break down the system, Prof. Dodd said.

Plan to Aid City Jobless.

He estimated that five million persons have migrated from the country to the city since 1912 and said a distribution of unemployed urban population is necessary. He pointed out that from the beginning of the American colonies until 1914 large numbers of unemployed found access to free lands as squatters or homesteaders. Millions of acres of land are about to be sold because taxes are unpaid and many states hold vast tracts of uncultivated lands, he said.

"Let states and counties award 25 acres on lease to every unemployed city man who has ever lived in the country," Prof. Dodd said. "Then let him begin to help himself, not in growing crops for market but in keeping the wolf from the door. If the dependent of the cities do not accept the offer let charity or governmental aids cease."

Urges Banking Reform.

Prof. Dodd urged reform in American banking and criticized the bankers for their methods. The federal reserve system, designed to prevent concentration of an unwholesome speculation in the needed surpluses of the country, has been evaded from the beginning, he said. Money has been loaned for speculative drives on stock markets, he said, and to countries, corporations, or individuals in other parts of the world to pay reparations "which all the world knew could never be paid."

Bankers in Chicago and elsewhere have stimulated the pouring of billions into vast building or holding company organizations from which only a minor fraction can be recovered, Prof. Dodd declared, adding that financiers will need 50 years to regain the confidence of the people.

Unrestrained business control of the essentials of economic life has made the inequalites of the returns of labor so great that few of the rural and not many of the urban population can buy needed articles of common consumption, Prof. Dodd said. He urged city councils to forget political consequences and guarantee the men who send them their food at least half the cost to the consumer.

Would Reduce Tariff Walls.

Prof. Dodd branded false the idea that the United States is isolated from the rest of the world. He urged, as a necessary economic remedy, an international conference for the purpose of reciprocal reduction of tariff walls. He also said the millions of dollars spent each year on armaments could be used for rehabilitation of rural life.

Of the idea that the United States is isolated he said:

"George Washington started a world war; he was saved from a British gallows by French intervention; the country escaped its first great economic depression because of the French revolution. There has never been a time when the United States was free of the rest of the world. Nor has there been a moment since the rejection of the treaty of Versailles when the country was not perturbed or depressed by Europe or the far east."

DOUMER SLAYER SAYS ACT WAS IN PROTEST AGAINST SOVIET POLICY

PARIS, May 17.—(AP)—Dr. Paul Gorguloff told an examining magistrate today that he assassinated President Paul Doumer because of the tolerant French policy toward soviet Russia in a mistaken notion that the president was responsible for the foreign affairs of France.

Shown a green flag found in his suit case, the assassin knelt and kissed the banner as he wept. Then he shouted:

"Long live Nationalist Russia. I have given my life for this flag."

He explained that green was the symbol of the Russian peasantry.

The assassin previously had testified he was in a "kind of hypnotic sleep," after having drunk a bottle of cognac, when he committed the crime. He drank the cognac before going to the war veterans' charity exhibition where he shot down the president on May 6, he said, and was too drunk to remember anything about the gun he used.

23 CANDIDATES FILE IN RACE FOR COUNCIL PLACE

Twenty-three residents of the Twenty-second ward had filed petitions with the board of election commissioners at the deadline at 5 p. m. yesterday as candidates for the vacancy in the city council from their ward caused by the death of Ald. Joseph Cepak. The special election for the vacancy will be held on June 21. The deadline for withdrawals is June 1.

Those who filed are Henry Sonnenschein, state representative and secretary to Mayor Cermak; Andrew Kreilinger, Otto Mojzis, Anthony F. Benkowski, Charles J. Michal, Albert Michal, Frank J. Matey, J. Pszculkowski, Bruno A. Dziekanowski, Max Razniewski, William Vejvoda, James Kuta, Anton J. Hladik, John Marcusek, E. A. Skala, Joseph L. Kalena Jr., Albert E. Cohan, John F. Picek, Anton Vesely, Harry A. Rodenburg, Max Kapinski, John J. Doyle, and Charles Miska.

The election will be the first aldermanic contest to be held under the new ward lines.

VOTE ON TYDINGS' 2.75 BEER BILL IN SENATE TODAY

Measure Aimed to Help End Depression.

legalized beer, tax and all, could be sold for ten cents a pint as against the present illegal article's price of some 25 cents a pint.

55 Million Barrels a Year.

The Maryland wet showed that people had drunk 2.75 beer in 1918—more than 55 million barrels of it. He turned the arguments of Prof. Irving Fisher and Deets Pickett, dry proponents, back upon them. They had argued for war time prohibition by showing how much coal, how many freight cars, how much grain the brewing industry required. Splendid, said the senator, let's put the brewing industry back to work.

To Senator Tydings' support came Senator Burton K. Wheeler [radical Dem., Mont.] to say that illicit beer now sells for $55 a barrel, while good beer could be made to sell for $8 a barrel. That $47 in there, he declared, went to the bootlegger and the crooked official who sold protection.

Senator George W. Norris [radical Rep., Neb.] did not think the time had come yet, but said if it did he'd vote for beer to save the country. He'd "rather save the country wet than have it ruined dry."

Sheppard Fears It Violates Oath.

But Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], co-author of the 18th amendment, insisted that a senator would violate his oath if he even voted for a 2.75 beverage.

There was much debate about when the vote on the Tydings amendment would be taken. It finally was agreed that it should come before 2 o'clock tomorrow.

Nor were the evening hours the only ones marked with a discussion of prohibition. Earlier Senator Tydings had reiterated his demand that President Hoover declare himself on prohibition. The cause of the Maryland senator's outburst was a statement issued by Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] in which he asserted that the program laid down by former Gov. Al Smith last night was merely a copy of the program President Hoover had been urging on congress for six months.

No Word from Hoover on Beer.

"If Mr. Hoover has ever said anything about beer and wine, I have not heard of it, nor has the country," was Senator Tydings' rejoinder. "Mr. Smith, on the contrary, had the courage to tell where he stood on every one of the big questions.

"A statement that Mr. Smith is in accord with Mr. Hoover is about as ludicrous thing as could be said. One man is frank, candid, straightforward and has a program. But what the other man's program is not one senator here can tell me."

Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], in charge of the waiting revenue bill, broke in to plead wearily: "Now that the senator has nominated Mr. Smith for the presidency, let us proceed with the tax bill."

"Not for the presidency," Senator Tydings retorted, "but for the Hall of Fame, where Mr. Smith deserves a place because of his display of courage and candor in this muddling era."

Action on Income Tax.

For all its drama and vehemence, the prohibition debate was but a part of the larger and more prosaic debate upon the tax bill.

Two more efforts to insert still higher income tax rates were defeated. An amendment by Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.], proposing rates approximately those of the 1922 act was defeated, 31 to 46. Another by Senator Huey P. Long [Dem., La.] borrowed the surtax rates above $10,000 from the Couzens amendment which was defeated yesterday and sought to put them in the bill. The amendment lost, 24 to 49.

The finance committee rates were voted into the bill, there to stay unless a complete overturn of the present lineup takes place.

If today's action is ratified when it comes to the bill's final adoption the new individual income tax rates will be as follows:

Normal tax—3 per cent on the first $4,000; 6 per cent on the next $4,000, and 9 per cent on all income over $8,000. The rates under the present law are 1½ per cent, 3 per cent and 5 per cent. In the bill passed by the house they were 2, 4 and 7 per cent.

Maximum Surtax 45 Per Cent.

Surtax—to begin with 1 per cent on net income between $6,000 and $10,000 rising to 10 per cent between $28,000 and $30,000, 20 per cent between $48,000 and $50,000, 30 per cent between $68,000 and $70,000, 40 per cent between $100,000 and $150,000, and to a maximum of 45 per cent on all net income over $1,000,000.

The corporation tax was approved at its new 14 per cent level as against a present rate of 12 per cent, and of 13½ per cent in the house bill.

Sales Tax Advocates Balk.

At one time it appeared that the sales tax might be brought up. Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], declaring himself against the sales tax on the ground that the house would not change its mind and accept the tax, wished the question disposed of immediately.

Those in favor of the sales tax balked. They look forward to a possible day when, with special taxes stricken out by interested senators, it will be necessary to find a large amount of revenue in one lump. Senator Moses believed the house in its "present chastened mood" would accept a sales tax. Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] settled the question by refusing to propose the sales tax amendment which he has waiting.

With the income tax rate controversy out of the way, for the time at least, the senate made rapid progress. In rapid strides it approved more than 70 finance committee amendments and thus tentatively agreed on provisions expected to raise an additional 322 million dollars.

Amend Net Loss Provisions.

Approval was given the committee's action in amending the net loss provisions, its disallowance of pensions and world war compensation, and of earned income from sources without the United States as deductions from gross income, and its elimination of the penalty for consolidated returns.

The elimination of corporation credits against net income also was agreed on, but the paragraphs relating to the limitation on stock losses, to insurance reserves, to the $75,000 limit for personal services, and to the exemption of farmers' mutual insurance companies were passed over for the time being.

Before the day was over the special excise taxes had been reached, the 4 cent tax on lubricating oil approved, and a decision taken after lengthy debate to vote tomorrow on the controversial levies on brewers' wort and other production era commodities.

SAYS EXPANDED CREDIT WILL NOT RESTORE DOLLAR

Mills Gives His Views of Goldsborough Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—To attempt, as in the Goldsborough bill, to restore the dollar to its 1926 value through control of credit and currency by the federal reserve system is impossible and impractical, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills informed Senator Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] in a letter made public today.

As chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, which has held hearings on the Goldsborough bill, Senator Norbeck requested the secretary's opinion.

"Under the terms of this bill the federal reserve board, the federal reserve banks, and the secretary of the treasury would be charged with the duty of making effective a policy that the average purchasing power of the dollar in the wholesale commodity markets for the year 1926 shall be restored and maintained by the expansion of credits and currency through the powers of the United States and its agencies," Mr. Mills wrote in reply.

Many Factors Dependent.

"In my opinion it would not be possible for the government of the United States to carry out such a mandate. Price levels are dependent upon a large number of factors that are beyond the control of the federal reserve system, the treasury department, or any other agency of the government and I do not believe that it would be wise to impose upon them a duty and a responsibility which they could not discharge. Such an attempt would tend to undermine the confidence of the people in the various agencies of the government and the result would be unfortunate.

"I may add that the passage by the house of the bill referred to was a disturbing factor both at home and abroad, and that the members of the federal reserve board unanimously oppose the enactment of legislation of this character and approve the position taken by Gov. Meyer in his testimony on this subject."

Whealan Will Name Tax Board Member Tomorrow

President Emmett Whealan of the county board announced yesterday that he would appoint the Democratic member of the board of tax appeals tomorrow. It is expected that Gov. Emmerson will make public the Republican appointment to the same board at the same time. President Whealan said that his choice would be made from a list of 25 names submitted by the Chicago Real Estate board and the Cook County Real Estate board.

STILL TENDER HELD TO JURY.

Joseph Bruce, who was arrested while tending a still in his home at 4033 South Wabash avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $1,000 by United States Commissioner Walker.

NATION'S TRADE CHIEFS APPROVE DRY REFERENDUM

Vote to Learn Attitude of Business Men.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., May 17.—[Special.]—National councilors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today voted overwhelmingly in favor of conducting a referendum of its membership on the question of prohibition.

The wet and dry issue, regarded by commercial leaders of the nation as an economic problem, was made practically the first order of business in the twentieth annual meeting of the national chamber.

Only four nays were heard on a resolution calling for a study of prohibition and for the taking of a referendum. A thunder of ayes from the more than 700 councilors had supported the proposal, and when Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, president of the chamber, announced the motion carried a burst of sustained applause and cheers attested to the importance which American business attaches to the prohibition issue.

Cross-Section of Industry.

The national council of the chamber consists of one representative from every organization member of the national chamber and is regarded as a cross-section of trade and industry of the country.

The resolution is directed to the board of directors of the chamber, and, while under the rules it does not constitute a direct mandate, it is considered the same thing.

The board of directors will act upon the resolution during the present meeting, and it is considered certain that a like resolution also will go before the convention as a whole.

Today's resolution was presented in an unprecedented manner—at the opening of the council session. Ordinarily the meeting is to obtain a routine approval of the program of the convention and no new business is offered.

First Order of Business.

But today, as soon as the routine matter was out of the way, Leland Cutler, president of the San Francisco chamber of commerce, pushed to the platform and demanded the floor. He was recognized by President Strawn.

"I ask only four minutes of your time," Mr. Cutler said. "I desire to present to you a matter of the greatest importance before the nation today. I promise not to argue on either side of the question. I ask only that this body impose a mandate upon the board of directors of our chamber so that we may determine, under our established rules, what organized business should do about prohibition.

"The San Francisco chamber of commerce believes it to be most imperative that the 18th amendment should be studied as an economic question, to find out what it costs our government, and what we gain from it, what revenues are spent for its enforcement, and what revenues we might receive with its repeal or modification."

The vote of approval followed.

Outline Definite Questions.

The resolution outlines definite questions which the council wants included in the questionnaire to be sent to the members. These are on both sides of the prohibition issue.

The first question would poll the business men on whether efforts to enforce prohibition should be increased. The second inquires whether congress shall submit to the states the question of repeal of the 18th amendment. Other questions provide for a vote on amending the amendment so as to authorize the manufacture of light wines and beer, in such states as do not prohibit them.

The board of directors is requested to complete its study and make recommendations to the membership so that a vote may be taken as long before Dec. 1, 1932, as is practicable.

OVERWHELMING DRY REPEAL VOTE CAST BY BOARD OF TRADE

Members of the Chicago Board of Trade expressed themselves as overwhelmingly dissatisfied with prohibition and in favor of repeal of the 18th amendment in a poll completed yesterday. Officials of the board transmitted the result of the vote to the United States Chamber of Commerce, meeting in San Francisco.

PETER B. CAREY.

Out of a total vote of 950, only 13 favored present prohibition. Members were asked to indicate their preference on one of five propositions submitted by the board directors. The 13 prohibitionists all violated the rules of the election by voting "No" on all five propositions, whereas they were entitled to vote on only one. The tellers recorded their votes as opposed to repeal of the 18th amendment, the fourth proposition on the ballot.

Outright repeal of the amendment received the greatest number of votes, 645. This was 68 per cent of the votes cast. The next largest total was in favor of a constitutional amendment returning control of prohibition to the states. This proposition received 179 votes.

Amendment of the Volstead act or the constitution to permit light wines and beer gained 60 votes. For the sale of 2.75 per cent beer alone, by simple amendment of the Volstead act, 19 votes were cast. The remaining 34 ballots favored a national referendum on repeal of the prohibition amendment.

"We hope that the result of this vote will be significant," said Peter B. Carey, president of the board. "It means that the largest grain exchange in the world recognizes the increase in values to be caused by a repeal of the prohibition act and the financial gains which would result for the farming element of this country."

NEW YORK G. O. P. CHIEF URGES WET PLANK ON HOOVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—W. Kingsland Macy, Republican state chairman of New York, advised President Hoover today that sentiment throughout the nation is swinging strongly toward the insertion of a wet plank in the Republican national platform. New York, Mr. Macy said, is far more likely to be found in the Republican column in November if the Republican party takes a definite stand in favor of either resubmission of the 18th amendment or modification of the Volstead act.

The Macy statement marked the latest indication of the growing pressure which is being brought on President Hoover to obtain his consent to the writing of a wet or moist platform at Chicago.

Prior to the White House luncheon, former Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York told a senate committee that repeal of the 18th amendment would not mean a return of the old time saloon because "the states could be trusted to prevent such a development." Mr. Wadsworth urged that repeal of the amendment should be decided by state conventions rather than by state legislatures.

Wadsworth Gives Views.

Mr. Wadsworth was questioned at the hearing by Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], an ardent dry, who had called him back before the committe for a hearing following a previous appearance in favor of repeal.

Senator Walsh questioned Mr. Wadsworth in connection with his contention that matter of repeal should be decided by state conventions rather than state legislatures. Mr. Wadsworth held that conventions would be preferable because delegates to the conventions would be chosen specifically on the prohibition issue and because it would provide representation for equal numbers of citizens in those states in which legislative representation is not evenly distributed.

Senator Walsh opposed the state convention plan on the ground that an "enormous amount of money would be spent on both sides of that campaign," but Mr. Wadsworth did not think the amount would be "enormous."

Drys to Spend Money.

Senator Walsh insisted, however, "that considerable money would be spent by both the Anti-Prohibition association and the Anti-Saloon league in the campaign for delegates to those conventions.

"You know," he said, referring to the league, "they have many wealthy backers."

20,000 WOMEN JOIN DRY REPEAL MOVE; STATE GOAL 100,000

More than 15,000 women added their names to the roster of the Illinois division, Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, as the result of the first day of National Repeal week, a tabulation at the headquarters, 700 North Michigan avenue, disclosed early yesterday. By mid-afternoon the number had been swelled beyond the 20,000 mark.

With 65,000 members as the week opened, it is the aim of the women to boost the membership to 100,000 in the state before the political conventions next month. Following the Repeal week motorcade of Monday more than 5,000 were found to have signed up in the loop district alone and outstanding records were made in other areas.

Mrs. Stanley Field, who headed the committee in charge of railroad and elevated stations, personally enrolled and instructed several hundred women workers. One of her workers reported she had signed 600 women on elevated trains during the day.

Mrs. Stephen Luby, chairman of the Englewood district, who is conducting a "shop" at 63d and Halsted streets, secured 2,500 memberships on Monday. Mrs. Hobart Stacy, chairman of the 48th ward, directed the booth at the Wilson and Broadway elevated station, where 1,500 signed.

The Hyde Park district was thoroughly covered, with Mrs. Herman Landauer as chairman, and with booths in shops and hotels and at moving picture houses manned by Mrs. John Metzenberg, Mrs. Melvine Wagner and a group of co-chairmen.

DRY CZAR FINDS "SLIGHT" UPTURN IN ENFORCEMENT

Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock of Washington, national prohibiton director, insisted on his arrival here yesterday that he "did come here to talk"—and not to size up the probable dampness of Chicago during the coming political conventions. His address was the main feature on yesterday's program of the state convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs at the Hotel Sherman.

AMOS W. W. WOODCOCK.

In interviews and in his address Col. Woodcock said that the proposed 10 per cent cut in the budget for his department, if passed, will mean the dropping of 150 prohibition agents throughout the country. As to whether this country has enforcement at the present time, his retort was: "It depends upon what you mean by enforcement."

"There is, however," he added, "a steady improvement discernible in conditions all through the country in that regard."

"Why Grow FAT?" Asks Glamorous Frances Williams

INTERVIEWER: You are ravishing tonight, Miss Williams, in that gorgeous blue crepe gown. Come on! Tell me how you keep yourself so slender.
MISS WILLIAMS: Not by any exercise machines or starvation diets. I simply follow the Hellmann Slenderizing Plan.
INTERVIEWER: Exactly what does it allow you to eat?
MISS WILLIAMS: Almost everything. I eat two salads every day with Hellmann's Mayonnaise, in place of heavy, fattening foods and too many rich desserts. It's wonderful how that simple plan will keep your figure slender.

★ ★ ★

Follow Miss Williams' suggestion. Eat two salads daily topped with Hellmann's Mayonnaise. And a minimum of fattening foods. Do this for 60 days and you will be amazed! But be sure your mayonnaise is Hellmann's. It contains only breakfast eggs, special oil, vinegar, rare spices. Some mayonnaise makers have recently introduced cheap, inferior fillers into their products in a frantic effort to lower prices. But this we have flatly refused to do. So order a jar of Hellmann's Mayonnaise today. Its delicate, creamy deliciousness will give new flavor to your salads.

★ ★ ★

Tune in! Billy Jones and Ernie Hare, every night but Saturday and Sunday, 6:45 C.D.T. over N.B.C. Blue Network. Be ready for prize offers stated at frequent intervals. Listen in tonight!

How's This? Corns Lift Out With Fingers—No Pain!

Thanks to a discovery made from an imported product your foot troubles may be quickly ended.

Ice-Mint, as this preparation is called, is said to shrivel up hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes so that they can be lifted out easily with the fingers. It's wonderful. Think of it: only a touch or two of Ice-Mint and real foot-joy is yours.

There is not one bit of pain or soreness when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

If your feet are inclined to swell or puff, or if you have cracked or bleeding toes, it will draw the inflammation right out and quickly heal the sore and tender places. It is the real secret of fine, healthy feet and is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and by men who have to stand all day. Try it. Just ask in any Drug Store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing better.

Ice-Mint Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

COUNTY BUSINESS ON SIDETRACK AS WOMEN WRANGLE

Men on Board Chuckle While Feathers Fly.

Members of the county board, convened to consider national problems, found themselves sidetracked yesterday when some of the women commissioners engaged in personalities. A resolution introduced by Mrs. Edward J. Fleming petitioning congress to reduce taxes and drastically cut federal government expenses caused a tie vote and was sent to a committee for reconsideration.

It was reported that some of the feminine members of the board felt aggrieved because Mrs. Fleming had "grabbed the glory" of introducing the resolution. While the men members grinned the ladies talked.

Women Commissioners Tilt.

MRS. FLEMING—I am talking. I thought I had the floor. Will Mrs. Plumb (Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb) stop talking?

MRS. PLUMB—I wasn't talking.

MRS. FLEMING—I heard you distinctly way over here.

MRS. PLUMB—Maybe it was the echo of your own voice coming back to you.

Miss Amelia Sears moved that the resolution be sent to the finance committee, which on Monday had fully considered the resolution and reported favorably upon it. President Emmett Wheelan ignored her motion.

The fourth woman member of the board Miss Mary McEnerney did not join in the discussion but she voted an emphatic "No" in the roll call on Mrs. Fleming's resolution.

Assails Bond Issue Plan.

Mrs. Fleming's chance came when another resolution was introduced calling upon congress to approve a five billion dollar bond issue to restore prosperity. She attacked this proposition as foolish and inconsistent as did Commissioner William Busse, dean of the board. The resolution was adopted with the women members again voting against Mrs. Fleming.

"Now we might consider a few county problems for a change," remarked Commissioner Dan Ryan. "Instead of dipping into national affairs how about figuring out a way to pay the salaries of county employes?"

There was no answer from the ruffled women commissioners.

Prof. Levinson Safe After Being Lost in Maine Woods

Dispatches yesterday from Aurora, Me., stated that Prof. Ronald B. Levinson, head of the department of philosophy at the University of Maine, who became lost in the woods on Sunday, had emerged safely but complaining of being hungry. Parties sent out to search for him Monday failed to find any trace of him. Prof. Levinson is the son of Attorney Salmon O. Levinson, 4049 Lake Park avenue.

ENGLEWOOD BABIES PARADE

A. T. & T. OFFICIAL TAKES STAND IN PHONE RATE CASE

Charles A. Heiss, controller of the American Telegraph and Telephone company, began his testimony before Federal Judge Wilkerson late yesterday at the resumption of the telephone rate hearing. Attorneys Benjamin F. Goldstein and George I. Haight for the city are fighting the attempt of the Illinois Bell Telephone company to get a permanent injunction restraining the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing a 1923 order lowering the rates on certain coin box services.

The company alleges the rates set by the commission are confiscatory and do not permit a fair return. The case was heard two years ago by the federal district court and sent to the United States Supreme court, which referred it back with orders that additional testimony be taken as to the profits of the A. T. and T. company's subsidiary concerns.

200 BABIES TAKE PART IN PARADE ON SOUTH SIDE

Two hundred babies were wheeled through south side streets yesterday afternoon in a baby carriage parade sponsored by the Englewood Business Men's association.

Smiling Rita Ann Reilly, 1638 West 66th street, 2½ years old, won the grand prize as the prettiest baby. Among other leading contestants were Robert and Ralph Darling, twins, 2 years old, 6736 Parnell avenue; Raymond John Jerozal, 10 months old, and Betty Lou McWilliams, 19 months old, 2052 West 120th street.

Carriage decorations counted in determining the prize winners. The parade started at 64th and Green streets and moved north to 62d street, east to Halsted street, south to Englewood avenue, and east to the Southtown theater parking lot, where the judging took place.

FEINBERG JURY ABOLISHED BY SUPREME COURT

Judge's Orders for Quiz Held Invalid.

The right of any judge of the Circuit or Superior court to impanel a special grand jury and appoint a special prosecutor to conduct an investigation at will as heretofore assumed was denied yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court. The ruling abolished the special grand jury of Judge Michael Feinberg, which was ordered to investigate alleged fraud at the recent primary and also to examine judicial appointments of bank receivers and attorneys for receivers for evidences of favoritism.

JUDGE FEINBERG.

The high court's ruling settled the controversy between Judge Feinberg and Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court by voiding every action taken by Judge Feinberg in the pre-primary wrangle. It leaves Judge Fisher with a special grand jury on his hands, but, according to various authorities, with no good reason for its existence.

The court held that Judge Feinberg could not act as a Criminal court judge whenever he so decided—hitherto an asserted prerogative of a Circuit or Superior judge—but could do so only when assigned under the rules of his court.

Ruling of High Court.

"A judge of the Circuit court is not a judge of the Criminal court until he has been assigned to that service by the judges of the Circuit court in accordance with the rules," the opinion declared.

"We cannot attribute to the words of the constitution, section 26, a meaning fraught with such possibilities of confusion and disorder as would exist if each of the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts of Cook county, who now number 48, were authorized, whenever in his opinion public justice required, to order a special venire for a grand jury and proceed on his own initiative to administer the criminal law on his own responsibility regardless of the rules which have been adopted by the whole body of the judges of those courts."

The opinion went on to say it was unnecessary to order Judge Feinberg to expunge his orders because they were invalid, and that as he had no authority to issue them he has no authority to expunge them. This terminates his citation of Criminal Court Clerk George Seif for contempt of court because of Seif's failure to provide a clerk for the investigation ordered by Judge Feinberg.

It also ends Judge Feinberg's part in any investigation to be made. Judge Fisher declined to say yesterday what he intended to do about the other grand jury.

Cause of Jury Mixups.

The jury mixup was the outgrowth of a political petition filed with Judge Feinberg, who was then a candidate for the Republican nomination for state's attorney. The petitioner, Richard Prendergast, was one of Feinberg's supporters, and a special state's attorney named by Feinberg, Attorney Louis E. Hart, was associated with Prendergast.

Judge Feinberg ordered his jury and special prosecutor to investigate whatever fraud there might be in the primary and to investigate as well charges of favoritism by himself and other judges in appointing receivers. His fellow judges exercised a rule of the Circuit court and transferred the case to Judge Fisher, who then called another special grand jury.

Judge Fisher held his grand jury intact and ready for action and it was directed to report again on May 25.

BUILDING TRADES STRIKE IN NEW YORK ENDS; ACCEPT CUTS

New York, May 17. — [Special.] — The building trades strike, which has tied up construction work here for the last two weeks, ended this afternoon when the unions agreed to accept wage reductions of 25 and 30 per cent.

The 80,000 men who had been on strike will return to work Thursday morning. The new agreement will expire Dec. 30, 1933.

The men struck, after tentatively accepting the wage cuts, when they learned the elevator construction workers had been given a raise instead of a cut.

HOUSE RESTORES TRAINING CAMPS FUND IN WAR BILL

Overrides Advice of Its Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—Overriding the economy recommendations of its appropriations committee, the house today added more than $5,000,000 to the war department appropriation bill, bringing the total carried by the measure for military and nonmilitary items to above $90 million dollars.

The house, sitting as a committee of the whole, adopted amendments providing funds for carrying on the citizens' military training camps and the reserve officers' training camps during the next fiscal year. An amendment carrying funds with which to pay officers attending the fourteen day organized reserve camps also was adopted.

Restores Five Millions.

Adoption of the three amendments restored to the bill $5,794,768 which had been deleted by the house appropriations committee in acting on the budget recommendations submitted by President Hoover.

As the committee bill was recommended to the house it carried no funds for paying officers attending the organized reserve camps. It also provided for suspending the C. M. T. C. and R. O. T. C. camps during the 1933 fiscal year. Another committee section reducing the number of officers by 2,000 was adopted last week. The votes on the summer training camps amendments today indicated, however, that the officers may be restored when the bill comes up for a final roll call vote.

Two Republicans Quarrel.

Rejection of the committee's recommendations was marked by a succession of bitter fights, the most spectacular occurring when Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.] and Carroll L. Beedy [Rep., Me.] clashed over the question of which most accurately reflected the views of President Hoover. The Democratic majority alternately howled with glee and shouted cries of encouragement as the two Republican stalwarts caustically questioned each other's veracity.

The matter ended with Mr. Wood challenging Representative Beedy to go to the White House in the morning and let President Hoover decide who is right.

EXPERT URGES MERGER OF LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

Legislators Tackle Plans for Consolidation.

Although admitting that adequate consolidation of the multiple local governments of Illinois probably would take twenty years, a subcommittee of the general assembly's joint commission on taxation and expenditures settled into that task yesterday at a meeting in the Hotel La Salle.

The first expert called by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, chairman, was Prof. Simeon Leland of the economics department of the University of Chicago, who has made a specialty of this subject. He spoke at length on the multiplicity of local governmental units in the nation, the state, and the county, and contended that consolidation is the only real starting point for the salvation of the taxpayers.

On Police Consolidation.

Chairman Schnackenberg, Representative Michael F. Hennebry, the only other member of the subcommittee present, and Senator Martin Carlson, chairman of the commission, appeared particularly interested in Prof. Leland's argument for the consolidation of the various police forces now operating in Cook county.

"Including railroad detectives," said Prof. Leland, "there are over 14,600 police officers working under 699 separate and uncoördinated law enforcement agencies in the metropolitan area. This includes the Chicago force of 6,832, the 202 policemen supported by the south park board, the 210 men on the Lincoln park force, the 181 men employed by the west park board, 46 employes of 16 other parks, and the 29 policemen who protect the Chicago sanitary district.

"In Cook county the lack of coördination of police forces is a handicap to the detection and prevention of crime. In the regulation of traffic constables and sheriffs, state, sanitary district, and park police, as well as municipal forces, are employed.

Duplication of Patrols.

"Practically every road is patroled by two of these forces, except perhaps the north shore channel road, a four mile strip which is guarded by four men from the sanitary district police department.

"The installation of a radio broadcasting station for Chicago police has aided materially the apprehension of criminals within the city, but, since many of the outlying municipalities are not equipped to receive police broadcasts, they must be notified of crimes by slower methods, often enabling criminals to escape.

"More serious, however, is the question of police jurisdiction. In whose territory is the crime committed? Shall the police in one area be granted immunity from arrest when pursuing villains into territory guarded by other forces? Suppose the wrong force is notified of a crime; what then? If answer be permitted on the basis of precedent, the criminal will probably escape.

Wrong Police on Job.

"In 1930, for example, the victim of a robbery notified the Chicago police rather than the force in Stickney. The Chicago police rushed to the scene of the crime only to find it outside their jurisdiction. An hour later the proper police arrived.

"If economical and efficient police protection is to be secured in Cook county it must be placed on a regional rather than a bailiwick basis."

Prof. Leland also discussed at length the possibility of the elimination of small subsidiary governments by the gradual transfer of their functions to larger units, those of the township to the county and those of the county to the state. His main point, though, was an argument for the consolidation of districts for educational, sewer, drainage, water supply, and recreation purposes.

The subcommittee is to meet at 2 o'clock next Friday. Dr. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago has been invited to speak at that meeting.

Miniature Painting Stolen from Art Society's Exhibit

A miniature painting on ivory, said to be valued at $2,000, which was part of an exhibit of the All Illinois Society of Fine Arts now in progress at the Stevens hotel, was stolen last Thursday, it was learned yesterday. The painting depicted a nude titian haired girl and was the work of Mrs. Walter Palmer of Ottawa, Ill. The box in which it was displayed was later found in a washroom of the hotel. Mrs. Palmer has shown the miniature in New York, Detroit and Minneapolis. Friends said it was insured.

Oak Park Widow Charges Ex-Convict Swindled Her

John Oliver Standish, 40 years old, 7808 South Shore drive, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with swindling Mrs. Inez Van der Kloot, 200 Scoville avenue, Oak Park, of $1,900. Mrs. Van der Kloot, a widow, declared that he agreed to get her a warranty deed to some land near Oklahoma City for the money, but had failed to make good his contract. Records at the bureau of identification show that Standish served a sentence for rape in Michigan and another at Joliet for stealing an automobile.

CERMAK SHOWS CURB ON DEBTS IN HIS REGIME

Answers Savage Charge of Pay Roll Padding.

The increase in the city's indebtedness during the four years—1927 to 1931—that the last Republican mayor was in office was contrasted by Mayor Cermak yesterday with his own economies in answer to the charge made on Monday by School Trustee Joseph P. Savage that there is pay roll padding in the city hall.

The mayor in turn charged that the school board's refusal to retrench is responsible for people refusing to pay their taxes, and said that there would be no talk now of cutting teachers' salaries or of closing the schools if there had not been waste and extravagance in the construction of school buildings and unnecessary political appointments by the former mayor's board.

Gives Figures on Debts.

Unpaid judgments—1927, $3,759,765; 1931, $6,453,000; 1932, $6,630,000.
Interest accruals on funded debt and tax warrants of city, schools, library, pension funds, and sanitarium—1927, $1,586,000; 1931, $13,426,000; 1932, $12,276,000.

"It will be noted," said the mayor, "that over $66,000,000 was added to the funded debt of the city between 1927 and 1931, but only $10,000 between 1931 and 1932.

"I find also an accumulation of unpaid judgments under the last mayor of $3,700,000, approximately, while only $170,000 was added during the last year. If the judgments had been paid off each year it would have made the burden during this period of financial depression much easier to handle.

Interest Accruals Drop.

"A glance at the figures on interest shows that despite the burden of financial depression and delayed tax collection, the 1932 accruals, which cover also tax warrants issued by the former administration, decreased by approximately $1,200,000. Considering that interest accruals are a part of normal operating expense, attention should be given to the fact that interest accruals jumped between 1927 and 1931 by practically $12,000,000.

"And there was an increase in the amount of unpaid tax warrants issued during 1928, 1929 and 1930 of approximately $147,000,000, whereas, despite the difficulty of collecting taxes in 1931 and 1932, this amount has been reduced."

The mayor called attention to the loan of $28,000,000 by the city to the school board under his administration, which, in turn, the city had been able to obtain because of its retrenchments.

BRITISH KING PITS HIMSELF AGAINST AUSTRALIAN REDS

Fights to Restore Forces of Order.

reduce all incomes by tax and salary slashes to £500 [$2,500 normally] a year or less.

"Lop the tall lilies," said Lang.

Lang Disgraces Australia.

Efforts of the Langites to socialize the most powerful state in the commonwealth and his repudiation of state debts of £7,000,000 [$35,000,000 normally] in London and New York were regarded as a disgrace by Australia.

The federal government pressed Lang on all sides, took the income away from his state, paid his debts, and forced him into a position where he advised the officials to break the law. This led to his removal.

Lang's dismissal demonstrates that the king's representatives in each state and in the federal structure are not mere figureheads or cornerstone layers, as Australia has so long regarded them, but real powers. The move is regarded as having been advised by London. Sir Philip is an English country gentleman with a war record of two years.

Lang Plans to Fight.

The Sydney Sun says Sir Philip can never forget that he is the king's representative, his action the king's action, and that the king can do no wrong to his people.

Lang has retired to his farm and is planning a struggle. He is still a member of parliament.

A government headed by B. S. Stevens now controls the police and parliament. There are signs of relief and stability. The police will be depended upon to maintain order in the elections. The New Guard will back them up. The leader of the New Guard is Sir Eric Campbell, a Sydney lawyer, who was second in command of the Twelfth brigade of the Australian field artillery in the war. The Guard numbers about 20,000 members.

A Red army in the city and suburbs is said to be pledged to take up arms for Lang. At the last meeting of the trades and labor council, instructions were issued to delegates to forward to the council the names of all workers prepared to take their place in the fight impending in the industrial or any other field. It is estimated that 100,000 men are pledged, many of them former soldiers.

The Victoria elections of last Saturday show the trend. Labor ruled the last parliament there, but the new one will have a big majority for the United Australia and country parties.

Bomb Shatters Windows in Tire Company's Plant

Windows and the front door of the Warshafsky Tire and Rubber company plant at 2632 West Madison street were broken last night by a bomb explosion. The damage was estimated at more than $300. Several windows were shattered in the branch building of Swift & Co. at 2622 Madison street. Police were told that the bomb was thrown by one of four men who escaped in an automobile. Warren avenue police will question Israel Warshafsky, owner of the place.

ASHURST URGES DEMOCRATS TO END 2-3 RULE

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—Declaring the Democrats have twice lost the presidency because of the two-thirds rule, Senator Henry F. Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.] demanded of his senate colleagues today that they insist on the rule's abolition.

Many, he said, would be delegates to the convention in Chicago next month and he urged them to pass a resolution that would once and for all do away with the traditional two-thirds squabble.

To make his plea the Arizona senator interrupted the debate on the tax bill, but he called on his colleagues not to exhibit irritation because he was making "the greatest contribution to my party I have ever made when I ask the senators who are delegates to change an archaic rule and take this body of death from about our necks."

OWEN YOUNG'S NO BOOSTS CHANCES OF ROOSEVELT

His Foes Now Likely to Turn to Traylor.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's chances for the Democratic nomination for President have been tremendously enhanced, in the opinion of most Democratic leaders here, by the announcement of Owen D. Young of New York that he would not accept if nominated.

Mr. Young was the dark horse candidate of the Al Smith faction which has set out to prevent the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt. It might not have been possible to bring about the nomination of the head of the General Electric company because of prejudice against a public utility magnate, but Mr. Young is a man of outstanding force and ability who preëminently commanded the support of the conservative elements opposed to the New York governor.

Such cohesiveness as the anti-Roosevelt movement has possessed has been due in no small degree to the expectation that Mr. Young at the propitious moment in the Democratic national convention would be offered as a compromise nominee. That was to be the incentive to all conservative elements to hold out against the nomination of Roosevelt until a favorable opportunity of pressing the selection of Mr. Young should arrive.

Considered Definite.

The withdrawal of Mr. Young, therefore, has been a severe blow to the opponents of Roosevelt. Moreover, the withdrawal is so definite that none of his friends entertains any hope of inducing Mr. Young to reconsider. He took himself out of consideration for the presidency with as much finality as did Gen. William T. Sherman when he said that he would not accept if nominated and would not serve if elected.

With Mr. Young out of the picture Melvin Traylor, Chicago banker, becomes the outstanding figure in the dark horse category. There are a good many conservative Democrats who have been saying from the start that it would be far easier to nominate Mr. Traylor than Mr. Young. Mayor Cermak of Chicago has said that Mr. Traylor is the second choice of the Illinois delegation. In addition he commands strength in Kentucky where he was born and in Texas where he lived for some years.

Roosevelt Foes Divided.

As matters now stand, however, the anti-Roosevelt forces are split up among a dozen or more aspirants, mostly of the favorite son class. Whether they could unite upon either Newton D. Baker of Ohio or Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is a matter of much speculation among politicians. There are serious obstacles to such an amalgamation in the case of each. There is widespread opinion in the party, for example, that Mr. Baker has made himself "unavailable" by his advocacy of the open shop, cancellation of war debts and joining the league of nations, despite his recent disclaimer of any intention of pressing the league issue. In the case of Gov. Ritchie it is contended that he is not widely enough known to make a formidable candidate.

Will Fight to Finish.

There is no indication, however, that Al Smith, Democratic National Chairman Raskob, and their associates are weakening in their determination to fight Roosevelt to the bitter end. They are confident that with upward of 100 delegates for Smith and the favorite son strength they will have more than 400 votes in the convention with which to block the nomination of Roosevelt. For this purpose one vote more than one-third of the convention membership, or 385, will be necessary.

On the other hand, the Roosevelt managers are counting on the early dispersion of the favorite son supporters to put the New York governor across with the requisite two-thirds vote. At the end of last week, with the minimum of forty delegates they are claiming in Pennsylvania, they were counting more than 400 delegates already in hand for Roosevelt.

The Kansas delegation of twenty was instructed for Roosevelt yesterday and six more from New Mexico were added today.

Safe After Getting Majority.

Roosevelt, according to the calculations of his managers, will have close to a majority of the convention, 578, by the time the first ballot is taken and their confidence that the governor will be nominated is based on the expectation that once polling a majority the favorite sons will flock to his support in sufficient number to roll up the two-thirds, 770 votes. Only two candidates in history once receiving a majority have failed of nomination—Martin Van Buren and Champ Clark.

As was expected, Al Smith won the 32 New Jersey delegates today, according to incomplete returns from the primary in that state. The Connecticut delegation of 16 also went into the Smith column today. With the minimum of 36 votes claimed for Smith in Pennsylvania he now has 130 delegates.

CONGRESS FACING SUMMER SESSION AS WORK PILES UP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—Senate and house leaders were considering today the possibility that congress will be compelled to return to Washington after the national conventions for a session that might run well into August.

JAMES E. WATSON. [Fotograms.]

All the remaining legislation of the session is now log jammed in the senate. It will take a week or two for the senate to pass the billion dollar tax bill after which it must go to a conference committee of the two houses where it will spend upward of a week.

The interior department appropriation bill is the only one of the department supply measures that has become a law. The agriculture department bill has been adjusted in conference but not approved by either house. The house will pass the war department bill this week. All the other appropriation bills are pending in the senate appropriations committee.

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader of the senate, being convinced that the senate cannot dispose of this mass of legislation before June 14, when the Republican national convention meets, proposed that congress recess from June 4 until July 11.

Taking Senator George Moses [Rep., N. H.] with him Mr. Watson called on Speaker Garner with his proposition. The speaker demurred. He thought all legislation could be disposed of by June 11. It therefore was agreed to postpone a decision on the matter till June 4. If at that time it appears congress can finish its work and adjourn on June 11 the proposal of a recess will not be pressed.

MAIL TRUCKS USE STREETS FREE AS CAR OWNERS PAY

Threats of New Federal Taxes Stir Protests.

BY HAL FOUST.

The motoring public, threatened by congress with federal excises on new cars, parts, accessories, and gasoline, already is paying a special tax to the government indirectly, by furnishing pavements and pavement repairs for tax exempt mail trucks.

CHAS. M. HAYES.

Inquiry at the postoffice yesterday disclosed that there are 730 mail trucks operating an average of 13,603 miles a day in Chicago. Under common law announced by the United States Supreme court half a century ago the government owned vehicles escape the state registration fee, the gasoline excise, and the city wheel tax.

"The exemption enjoyed by the mail trucks," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, "is at the expense of the motoring public. Private automobile owners, through their special taxes, build and maintain pavements for government use.

"It has been estimated that the federal tax burden on residents of Cook county is $179,967,000 a year. The levy upon the motorists to cover the wear and tear of mail truck operation has not been included in the estimate. It's no inconsequential addition."

Trucks Abuse Privilege.

The postoffice declined to make public the gasoline consumption of its trucks. If the vehicles average as much as ten miles a gallon the motor fuel excise would total $9,417 a year. State licenses, which range from $10 to $250, depending upon the weight of the vehicle, probably would exceed $15,000 for the 730 trucks were they privately owned. And a contractor hauling the mail would pay the city about $15,000 a year for pavement repairs through the vehicle tax.

"These tax exempt mail trucks," Mr. Hayes continued, "while riding the pavements at the expense of the public, are inclined to show little respect for the rights of private vehicle owners who are paying for the streets. The law gives mail trucks the right of way in traffic, but the privilege is abused by government chauffeurs.

Autos Bear Whole Burden.

"There is no reason why these flivver mail trucks should park on cross walks or at street intersections, blocking pedestrain and vehicular traffic, while the driver picks up letters from a corner box. There is no excuse for the way the heavier government vehicles cut through traffic, endangering the public at large.

"The motorists have never before complained about supporting the mail trucks' portion of pavement costs, but the protests will grow loud if congress adds the special taxes on new cars, parts, accessories, and gasoline.

"If the government paid taxes on its postoffice trucks the expense properly would be charged against those using the mails, not upon automobile owners alone. The only equitable basis for taxation is benefits from the agency spending the tax. That's our main objection to the other special taxes upon motorists proposed in congress."

REPORTS CHINA IS MAKING GAIN IN EDUCATION

Francis S. Hutchins, younger brother of Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, was a guest yesterday at a luncheon given by the City club at which the university president was chief speaker. The younger Hutchins, recently returned from eight years in China, detailed his views on China's problems in an interview after the luncheon.

"What people in this country must remember when considering China's present plight is that her political life is entirely separated from her social and economic life," said Mr. Hutchins, who is 30 years old, three years younger than his brother. "Despite her troubles, China is progressing educationally and economically.

"Good roads are being built in China at the present time, tending to remove a handicap which has hampered the country for ages.

"I was in China as a representative of Yale-in-China, an organization supported by Yale alumni, for the purpose of spreading the mass education movement in the country."

President Hutchins at the luncheon referred to the financial problems of the school systems in great cities.

"The only remedy is to turn over to the superintendent and his educational staff the distribution of funds," he declared.

SWANSON'S MEN FIND GAMBLING DENS ARE CLOSED

The state's attorney's gambling squad yesterday visited a number of handbooks and gambling houses but reported that all of them were closed. A series of raids by the city detectives assigned to the state's attorney's office was the cause of a controversy between Mayor Cermak and State's Attorney Swanson during which the mayor threatened that the city council might recall the police if the state's attorney could find no more important duties for them. He said that district police captains had been instructed to halt gambling. State's Attorney Swanson replied that he was investigating complaints and not making arrests. The evidence would be turned over to Mayor Cermak, he said.

ROBBED OF $500 IN HIS OFFICE.

S. H. Simon, manager of the B. Manischewitz Matzos company, 2109 Roosevelt road, was robbed of $500 yesterday in his office by two masked bandits.

Hunt Missing Husband

Efforts were made in Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude's court yesterday to learn where Fred J. Read, former cashier of the Central Republic company, went after he kidnaped his 9 year old daughter on May 8 from the home of Mrs. Katheryn Nelson Read, 1019 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park.

Mrs. Ethel Much, 5148 Ingleside avenue, who Mrs. Read named corespondent in her bill for separate maintenance, was questioned by Attorney Frank Cantwell, representing Mrs. Read. She admitted that Read told her of his plan to abduct the child.

"It was the only common sense thing to do," Mrs. Much said. "His wife caused him to lose his job and me to lose mine."

"Did Read ever spend a night with you?" asked Attorney Cantwell.

"Certainly not," Mrs. Much replied.

"Do you think it was proper to keep company with a married man?" he asked.

"Are you a minister?" she demanded.

"Has he communicated with you?"

"No."

Mrs. James Read, 4721 Race avenue, mother of Read, said she had heard once from her son since he left with his daughter, but does not know where he is now.

Judge Trude continued the hearing until next Tuesday. He informed Mrs. Read that he will grant her her plea for separate maintenance when the matter comes before him June 13.

PROMOTER FAILS TO SAY IT WITH FLOUR; ARRESTED

Ralph C. Ballee, 37 years old, was arrested yesterday by Woodlawn police on charges that he swindled south side housewives and about thirty women employés in a flour selling racket.

Last week he inserted a want ad in THE TRIBUNE offering employment to women as sales solicitors. THE TRIBUNE directed the attention of the Better Business bureau to his enterprise, and yesterday's arrest resulted.

Sergt. Maurice J. O'Connell said that Ballee hired the women solicitors to sell 49 pound sacks of flour for $1 to south side housewives, offering a premium as an inducement. The solicitors collected $30 as deposits on orders and turned the money over to him. Ballee's confessed scheme, Sergt. O'Connell said, was to leave town in a week or so with the money without delivering the flour or paying the solicitors.

SHORT WEIGHT FINES TOTALING $3,778 IMPOSED

Municipal Judge Freeman L. Fairbank yesterday imposed a total of $3,778 in fines on merchants accused in 120 short weight cases. The evidence in the cases was gathered by the state's attorney's office during the investigation of the practices of the city sealer's office, when Daniel A. Serritella was sealer and Harry Hochstein was his chief deputy. Serritella and Hochstein were recently convicted of conspiracy to defraud the public by permitting short weighing.

The present city sealer, Joe Grein, assisted in the prosecution yesterday. Among the first to be fined was the General Market House company, a meat market chain now in a receivership. It was fined a total of $3,406, including court costs, in 104 short weight cases. Fines and court costs amounting to $65.50 were assessed against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company in two cases.

—Yet she runs the risk of Offending

Everyone agrees she's pretty—yet she has one fault that no one can overlook. It's the reason some seemingly attractive girls aren't popular.

But perspiration acids penetrate into your underthings all day—every day. The odor clings.

Don't take a chance—Lux your "undies" and stockings after every wearing! Lux coaxes out the acids—removes the odors! And gentle Lux will not harm the most fragile fabric or the most delicate color. It takes 4 minutes or less.

Underthings absorb perspiration odor . . . Protect daintiness this 4-minute way:

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water alone is safe in Lux.

PASCHEN OPENS U. S. TAX EVASION DEFENSE TODAY

Government Shows Earnings of $1,228,249.

Chris Paschen's lawyers will begin presentation of defense testimony this morning in Federal Judge Barnes' court, where the former city building commissioner is on trial accused of evading $114,000 income tax payments for 1927 and 1928.

S. G. CLAWSON.

The government rested its case at 4:20 p. m. yesterday. The last witness, an internal revenue agent, dealt a blow to Paschen by announcing a figure of $1,228,249 as representing the alleged net income of the defendant for the years in which evasion is charged.

Defends Failure to Pay.

Paschen's defense, according to his chief counsel, Cassius Poust, will be the showing of an enormous outlay of money during 1927 and 1927; a record of many bank loans which expanded his bank accounts but which cannot be taxed; and business loans which will justify his contention that he owed no tax in 1927 and only $818 in 1928, the amount he paid.

When Assistant United States Attorney Sam Clawson announced that the government's case was complete —a task which consumed thirteen court days—Poust moved immediately for a directed verdict of not guilty, asserting that the government had not proved its case. Judge Barnes overruled the motion and ordered the defense to begin presenting testimony at 9 o'clock this morning.

U. S. Figures on Income.

Internal Revenue Agent Frank Clifford was the only witness yesterday. Hours of direct and cross-examination brought his final showing of Paschen's income at the close of the day. After an audit of the Chris Paschen company books, an examination of bank accounts, and information contained in the politician's tax returns, Clifford, responding to Clawson's questions, testified that he had totaled the following figures as the Paschen net income during 1927 and 1928:

Interest received	$ 11,150
Sale of stock	40,892
Checks not in Paschen records	143,149
"A. R. Anderson" bank account [allegedly Paschen's]	370,541
Paschen pay roll audits	662,517
Total	$1,228,249

Access to Books Delayed.

Clifford examined what Paschen company records he was given in September and October, 1930. He testified that he went to Paschen's office at 1450 Clybourn avenue, on Sept. 16, and was told by Joe Sladek, Paschen's manager, that auditors were working on the books at that time and that it would not be convenient to produce them. Clifford called Sladek twice afterwards, he said, and finally was told he could see the records on Sept. 30. Sladek gave him the cash books and sales registers for 1927 and 1928.

Q. [by Clawson]—Were there any records not given you? A.—Yes, invoices and canceled checks. Sladek said all the checks and records for those years had been destroyed. He explained that that was the case with a lot of the old records. Orders had been given, Sladek said, to clean out the vaults and burn the contents.

Tell of Record Burning.

Two witnesses have testified for the government about this burning. One, Walter A. Redfield, said he heard Paschen order the records destroyed. Another witness, Charles H. Howerton, said that he had burned them in the furnace at the Paschen plant. Both fixed the time as "late in September," and the government alleges that the destruction was ordered after Clifford's first appearance and before he returned.

Comparing checks introduced at the trial with those he found in the books given him by Sladek, Clifford testified that a total of $142,244 had been left off the books. He said that a discrepancy of $2,514 appeared between the amounts shown on the sales books and the amounts Paschen listed on his tax returns.

Mr. Poust is expected to call various bank clerks as his first witnesses to testify to errors made in Paschen's account in the Foreman National bank, since absorbed by the First National. Paschen is expected to be called as a witness.

SOVIET WORKERS RUSH TO BUY FOOD AS BAN IS LIFTED

Meat, Milk and Eggs Placed on Sale.

MOSCOW, May 17.—(AP)—First reports from the provinces, received today, indicate that the recent decrees permitting the sale of a greater proportion of grain and meat by farmers were being received with widespread enthusiasm on the collective farms throughout the soviet union. The peasants, the reports said, lost no time taking advantage of the new rules.

Although no one is allowed to sell grain until after the government's contracts for 1933 are fulfilled, which will be after this year's harvest, great numbers of farmers flocked immediately from outlying centers into the towns, bringing not only meat but dairy products and vegetables to sell in the open market.

Miners Rush for Food.

Other farm products than grain and meat have been permitted to be sold for some time and these sales are expected to be stimulated by the new decrees.

Twelve collective farms at Rykovo, in the Donetz basin, established their first market on May 15, selling meat, milk, dairy products, and vegetables to more than 5,000 miners and metal workers who were patrons on the first day. Officials reported that the new decrees provided "immense possibilities for improving the workers' supplies" at Smolensk, also.

Nine collective farms in that region marketed eight tons of meat, milk, eggs, dairy products, and vegetables in one day. Selling to the small government street stalls which, in turn, resold to long lines of persons awaiting a chance to buy.

Eggs 60 Cents a Dozen.

The prices were only slightly higher than those prevailing at ration stores here. Ten eggs brought one ruble [about 50 cents]. A quart of milk sold for 35 kopeks [about 17½ cents]. Meat sold for 50 cents a pound; thirty-six pounds of potatoes sold for 32 cents.

Collective farm officials in the Irkutsk region hailed the new decrees as supplying "more energy to finish the sowing campaign" which in general is behind that of last year. One farm decided to increase its cultivated area by 55 acres as a result.

Collectives in the Rostov region organized a contest, with fifty prizes for farms making the best showing.

RUSSIAN AUTO PLANT IN CHAOS; FEW CARS BUILT

[Copyright, 1932, By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, May 17.—The Nijninovgorod Ford plant, Autostroy, again had drawn the fire of the soviet authorities for failure to produce a tangible result in actual automobiles.

Autostroy opened officially on Jan. 1. The actual production was to start on April 1, allowing three months for coördination of the different departments, organization of the personnel and establishment of a routine of production.

In this period of "shock brigades" of crack workers from automobile and tractor plants have already been operating, together with a large number of skilled American workers in order to avoid the chaotic conditions which characterized the Stalingrad tractor plant during the first half year of its operation.

Despite these precautions the plant failed to produce. On April 3 the central committee of the communist party announced Autostroy was failing to produce cars because of bad leadership and mismanagement; it ordered a complete reorganization and the start of production by April 15. Today the official newspaper Isvestia announced that the orders "are being badly carried out."

Foreman Arrested on Pay Roll Fraud Charges

Herbert Miller, 35 years old, former foreman of the loading department of the B. A. Eckhart Milling company, 1300 Carroll avenue, was arrested yesterday on a charge of embezzling $500. Officials charge he made false entries on pay rolls and pocketed part of the funds supposedly paid to other employés.

INDICT A FAGIN AS LEADER OF 20 YOUNG ROBBERS

Louis Meyerhoff, 35, owner of a restaurant at 1357 North Western avenue, was described as a Fagin who headed a band of 20 youthful robbers yesterday in the confession of four convicted members of his alleged gang. An indictment charging robbery was voted against him after Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court had ordered his arrest.

The four who confessed are: Otto Hanson, 19 years old; Bruno Orseck, 18; Nelson Sprowls, 19, and Edward Ibsen, 19. They pleaded guilty to two charges of robbery and their sentences were deferred by Judge Fisher. Police said they were involved in 15 robberies of drug stores and neighborhood shops. They said Meyerhoff planned the robberies, supplied pistols and took the major share of the profits.

Policemen, who went to the restaurant to arrest Meyerhoff, found three revolvers, some cartridges, and blackjacks. Meyerhoff denied the charges and said he had never seen his accusers.

ISSUES ORDERS FOR ARREST OF NIGHT PARKERS

An order directing police captains to start at 2 a. m. next Monday to enforce the city ordinance which prohibits parking in the streets for more than one hour between 2 a. m. and 6 a. m. was issued yesterday by Commissioner of Police Allman.

The captains were instructed to assign a sufficient number of men so that it will be possible to cover each police district at least once a month. They will start with localities where the congestion caused by parking is most dangerous, and particularly where parked automobiles reduce the usable width of the street for moving traffic to less than 30 feet.

The police will record all vehicles parked between 2 a. m. and 4 a. m. on their tours, and then return between 4 a. m. and 6 a. m. to place warning stickers on the cars if they still remain there. Summonses will be issued the following night to owners of any cars which are again parked in the streets. A record is to be kept at each station of all violators.

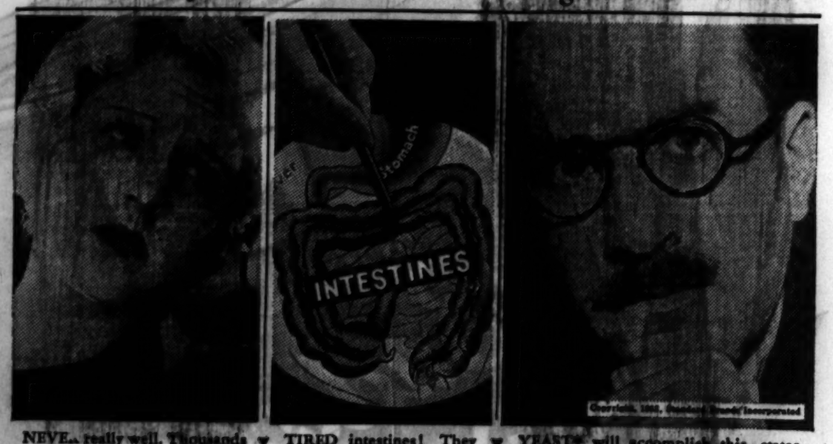
◆ Look Out for Trouble Here ◆ Urges Famous Doctor ◆



NEVER really well. Thousands miss perfect health because of... TIRED intestines! They must be made to function. YEAST will accomplish this, states Dr. Cain, eminent French physician.

"Don't neglect this TROUBLE!"

HEADACHY? Listless? Appetite gone?

If Constipation becomes chronic, Look Out, warns hospital head

Did you know that in an amazing percentage of cases such troubles—and many others—can be traced directly to . . . Constipation?

As Dr. André Cain, of Paris, co-author of the famous "Maladies de l'Intestin," states, "If you have constipation . . . do not take harsh laxatives and drugs . . . there is nothing better than fresh yeast . . ."

Thousands of people have discovered in Fleischmann's Yeast a simple addition to their diet that gives entirely natural relief from intestinal sluggishness and resulting ill health.

Eaten regularly, Fleischmann's Yeast softens the accumulated food wastes in the intestines . . . stimulates the natural action that removes them easily.

And as Fleischmann's Yeast "tones," cleanses and nourishes the system, that persistent "tired" feeling goes. You sleep better, eat better, digest your meals more easily. Your complexion is clearer than before.

Theater Needs Fewer "Wisecracks," Says Cohan

George M. Cohan, playwright and actor, who is appearing on the Chicago stage, spoke before a luncheon at the Chicago Bar association yesterday. Mr. Cohan discussed modern trends in the theater. He said there is a need for fewer "wisecracks" and more intelligent thought if the theater is to hold the attention and respect of the public.

ADVERTISERS ASK McLEAN TO PAY PERSONAL DEBTS

Post Manager Testifies in Trustee Ouster Suit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—The trial of Edward Beale McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, on charges brought by his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, to remove him from the trusteeship of his father's estate, opened in the District of Columbia Supreme court today with three witnesses for the prosecution giving sensational testimony against the publisher.

EDW. B. McLEAN. [Acme Photo.]

Neither McLean nor his socially prominent wife was in court as the proceedings opened. The publisher is reported ill in a Paris hospital, but may appear at the trial later on.

Demand Chauffeur Be Fired.

The principal facts brought out in the testimony today were:

That McLean's personal financial secretary, his chauffeur, his "right hand man," and another personal employé were carried on the pay roll of the newspaper until the American Security and Trust company, co-trustee of the estate, demanded that they be removed.

That advertisers in the paper deducted a total of $37,000 from their advertising bills over a two year period as payment of personal debts contracted by the publisher. This sum was repaid by McLean at the insistence of the trust company.

That McLean had attended only two directors' meetings since the spring of 1930.

That he hid in Chevy Chase, Md., for ten days following his Mexican divorce proceedings in order to avoid service of legal papers by counsel for his wife.

Post Manager Testifies.

The first witness for Mrs. McLean was Arthur D. Marks, business manager of the Post. He told the court that while it was "desirable" for him to be in contact with Mr. McLean in connection with the financial affairs of the paper, he never was advised as to when the publisher was leaving on his extended travels or as to his whereabouts.

Asked how many times he had conferred with McLean about the Post's financial affairs in the last two years Marks replied:

"Not very much. In fact, Mr. McLean didn't want to talk about those things. He once told me he did not want to hear any 'bad news.'"

Marks testified that the Post has suffered a decline in receipts and advertising lineage "not commensurate" with that felt by competing papers as a result of the depression. He said "the unfavorable notoriety" resulting from McLean's marital difficulties and from his failure to pay personal debts had created an "unfavorable sales resistance."

Insists on Debts Being Paid.

Earnest S. Johnston, advertising manager of the Post, the second witness for the prosecution, reiterated much of the testimony offered by his predecessor on the stand, and presented memoranda submitted to him by advertising solicitors for the paper to the effect that merchants refused to buy space in the Post until McLean's private debts were paid.

Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security and Trust company, co-trustee of the McLean estate, told the court that he had requested McLean's resignation as publisher of the Post and as trustee of his father's estate, but that McLean had not acceded.

The relationship between the trust company and McLean, Thom said, has been "very difficult," to the "disadvantage of the estate." His testimony was interrupted when court recessed.

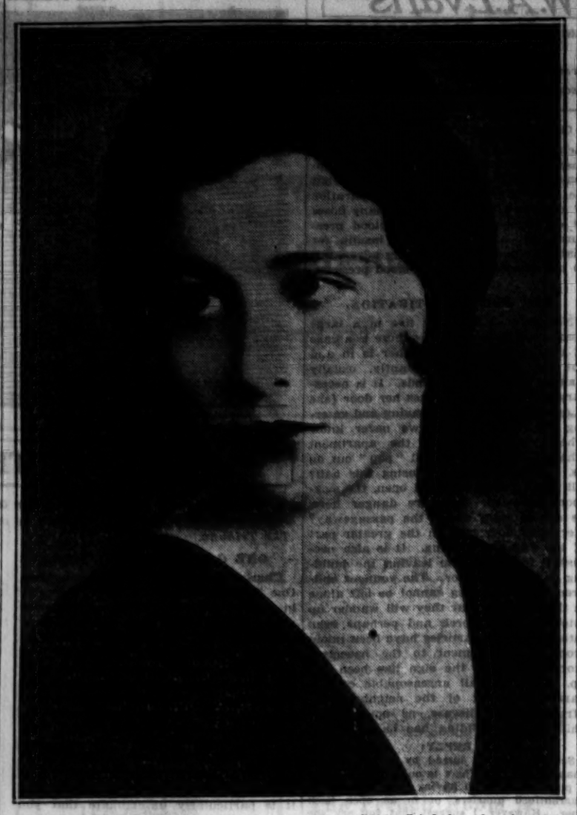
CELOTEX HEAD WEDS AGAIN



Mrs. Bror G. Dahlberg, who was Mrs. Gilda Lichtie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Livingston Krieger of Miami Beach, Fla., before marriage Monday at the Park Lane hotel in New York.

Marries in New York

Bror G. Dahlberg, wealthy president of the Celotex company, who was granted a divorce from Mrs. Mary C. Dahlberg on grounds of desertion by Judge Daniel P. Trude on April 23, was married in New York on Monday to Mrs. Gilda Lichtie, it was revealed yesterday. Announcement of the marriage was made by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Livingston Krieger of Miami Beach, Fla.

After the ceremony in the apartment of Mrs. Hazel Blake in the Park Lane hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Dahlberg left for Chicago. They will live at 999 Lake Shore drive, Mr. Dahlberg said yesterday after their arrival here.

TELLS EDITORS OF BURDEN OF NATIONAL TAXES

Every child born in the United States today confronts a debt of $1,250, his pro rata share of the national debt of about $150,000,000,000, Phil S. Hanna, editor of the Journal of Commerce, told 200 delegates to the meeting of the Inland Daily Press association at the Morrison hotel yesterday. The new born child's pro rata share of taxes in the first year of its life is $125, Mr. Hanna said.

Mr. Hanna urged the newspaper editors to demand that for every dollar the newspaper business is taxed the federal government cut one dollar from the cost of competing government publishing.

EX-JUDGE LANDIS BEFORE COURT TO DEFEND WOMAN

His First Appearance as Lawyer in 30 Years.

Former Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, now baseball commissioner, appeared in court as an attorney yesterday for the first time in nearly 30 years.

Commissioner Landis went before Judge Thomas A. Green in the South State street court to defend Julia Lucitt, red haired switchboard operator at the Chicago Beach hotel, who was charged with getting children's clothes valued at $166 from a loop department store on the charge account of another resident of the same hotel. Commissioner Landis said he had known Miss Lucitt for 12 years and felt that she had been victimized.

Shakes Finger at Witness.

During the testimony of Mrs. Winifred Anderson, 4336 North Lawndale avenue, a saleswoman in the store, Landis shook his finger at the witness and started toward the railing that separated them.

"I am ready to——" Landis shouted, and hesitated.

"To jump at me?" inquired Mrs. Anderson.

"Why, I wouldn't harm you," said the baseball czar, moving backward. Commissioner Landis remained behind a chair while he finished the cross-examination.

Saleswomen for the store identified Miss Lucitt as the woman who assumed Mrs. Stern's name, and charged dresses, coats, and shoes on April 7, 8, and 9.

Testifies on Sales.

Miss Helen Gilburt, 3542 Osceola avenue, testified that she had sold two coats for $27.50 each to the defendant on April 9, and remembered her because she admired her red hair and her "particular type of beauty."

The case was continued until today because Mrs. Stern was not in court. After she has testified, Commissioner Landis will take up the defense.

Officers Review R .O. T. C. of Bowen High School

The R. O. T. C., unit of 160 cadets of Bowen High school held its annual review and inspection in Bessemer park yesterday. Maj. F. L. Beals, supervisor of physical training and military training in the Chicago public schools, and Col. A. V. P. Anderson, in charge of R. O. T. C. work in the 6th corps area, conducted the review.

Aviation Notes

Smith Reynolds, son of the late tobacco magnate, passed through Chicago yesterday on United Air Lines, traveling from San Francisco to New York, the last leg of a world tour. Mr. Reynolds, who is 20 years old, flew his own amphibion from England to China. The plane was shipped across the Pacific and is being overhauled at a Seattle airport.

Ulrich Richter and his wife, who are flying around the world from Munich, Germany, landed at Chicago airport yesterday to refuel their Klemm low wing monoplane, powered by an 80 horsepower Argus motor. They are trying to win the Hindenberg trophy for the outstanding amateur flight of the year. They flew from Munich to Hamburg, shipped to New York, are flying to Los Angeles, where they will ship to Japan and continue their flight to Munich via China, Siam, India, Persia and Turkey.

John Livingston of Aurora, who has won more air races than any other pilot in the country, has installed a new wing on his Monocoupe racer with a span of only 22 feet, ten feet less than the wing he used to attain a speed of 160 miles an hour in the small plane last fall. He also is installing a new 125 horsepower Warner motor to replace his 110 horsepower motor of the same make. Livingston is entered in races at Omaha the end of this month. He expects the rebuilt racer to attain a speed of more than 200 miles an hour.

Small Boys Peddle Auto Load of Liquor; Net 60 Cts.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., May 17.—(AP)—A group of small boys who found an automobile loaded with liquor succeeded in peddling 45 pints before the attention of police was called. The net proceeds of the sale was sixty cents, the boys said.

KNOCKS STUFFING OUT OF PHONES TO BEAT DEPRESSION

A telephone call to his sweetheart detoured Edward G. Merrick, 37 years old, from the path of righteousness and into the byways of evil, he told police last night after Sergts. William Smith and William Lawler arrested him in the North Western station.

Mr. Merrick, it appeared, had successfully operated a scheme to beat the depression which earned him an average of $12 daily. His system was this: Entering a telephone pay booth he would stuff the opening in the telephone coin box through which nickels are returned in case of busy or incompleted numbers. These returned coins never reached the original callers. Instead they reached Mr. Merrick. All he did was to return in several hours and remove the wadding.

His favorite fields of business were the North Western and Union stations and the elevated line stations.

Last evening Mr. Merrick stuffed the coin boxes of six phones in the North Western station. When he returned Sergts. Smith and Lawler were waiting for him.

"One night three months ago I telephoned my sweetheart," Merrick explained at the detective bureau, where he was locked up. "When she didn't answer I flashed the operator to return my nickel. It didn't come out. I stuck a pin into the return slot and found it was stuffed. That's where I got the idea."

Mayor Praises Boy, 14, for Work in Job Campaign

Arthur Retchin, 14 years old, a Tuley High school student, was praised yesterday by Mayor Cermak for his work in the Chicago campaign for the reëmployment of men and money. Young Retchin, who lives at 2016 Le Moyne street, was a speaker, organizer, and canvasser in the movement, addressing assemblies in most of the high schools in the northwest side of the city. He obtained pledges amounting to $16,000 and promises of 15 jobs.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE CITY COUNCIL TELLS CONGRESS.

The strong resolution passed by the city council of Chicago, calling upon the federal government to reduce its appropriations by 20 per cent, has nothing in common with ninety-nine out of a hundred memorials to congress from the local governments. Ordinarily these memorials are merely a device for blowing off steam. They permit aldermen to make speeches about matters with which as aldermen they have no real concern.

This resolution stands on a wholly different basis. The city council as the city council has a real and unmistakable interest in the amounts which are taxed out of Chicago by the federal government. The treasury of Chicago and the treasury at Washington are drawing from the same pool. The more that the federal government takes, the less is left to support the vital services performed for the people of Chicago by their home government.

The city council takes just pride in its accomplishment to date in reducing its own costs. Employés have been dropped from the pay rolls and the annual incomes of the remaining civil servants have been sharply curtailed. These savings have been adopted reluctantly, of course, and only after there was no possible ground for believing that the former rate of spending could be maintained. The difference between the city council and congress in this respect arises from the fact that the city council is closer to the source of the taxes, closer to the people who must pay them, and therefore more keenly aware than congress of the inability of the taxpayers to support their governments on the scale to which government officials have become accustomed.

The city council well knows that one reason for Chicago's tax delinquencies is the fact that the federal government has taken out of this city each year about as much money as all the local governments combined require. The federal share comes first. The local governments can draw only upon what remains after the federal government has already had first pick. When the owner of real estate has paid his federal tax he has, often, little or nothing left beyond the interest payments of his mortgage, if, indeed, he has that much. Under such circumstances it is remarkable that the local tax collections have been maintained with no more delinquencies than the record shows; and the proposed increases in federal taxation must increase the local difficulties.

The city council, therefore, was not converting itself into a debating society when it passed its memorial to congress. It was attending to its job. And, fortunately, it was in a position to talk turkey. The local governments of Chicago have or shortly will have reduced their appropriations by 40 million dollars. Most of them have already done their part. That is, Chicago has saved 40 million in a total of less than 300 million. Congress, after long weeks of debate, has been able to reduce its appropriations by a bare 40 million in 4 billion. When congress has knocked a billion dollars off its budget it will be roughly on a parity with Chicago in the matter of economy. It will then have shown as much consideration for the taxpayers and their trials as the Chicago governments have already shown.

PEP FOR THE POSTMASTERS.

Senator Norris demands that Mr. Hoover fire Assistant Postmaster General Glover, who told the postmasters that if they did not intend to get out on the firing line and fight for the renomination and reelection he would be pleased to get their resignations. Mr. Glover spoke last Saturday to the Missouri state postmasters' convention in Springfield and allowed himself to be very candid in explaining the full duty of the complete postmaster.

There are occasions when a person may state a generally known fact and make a stir about it. Mr. Glover found such an occasion. He did not tell the postmasters anything they did not know nor the people anything they did not know about the postmasters. No state secret was revealed, and yet both Mr. Brown, the postmaster general, and Mr. Hoover could wish that Mr. Glover hadn't given the subject a thought. The matter could be taken for granted. A postmaster who needed Mr. Glover's suggestions never would be postmaster.

Mr. Brown, however, is not in a position favorable for criticism of Mr. Glover. It will be remembered that not long ago Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania exploded in congress in a way the administration thought was reprehensible. Mr. McFadden's remarks were regarded in bad taste and were received with some temper. It was decided that Mr. McFadden should be sent to the clothes closet. Mr. Brown wrote him that he had made himself unworthy of his postmasters. Consequently they would be taken away from him.

If there were any cat to be let out of the bag, as of course there was none—it never having been in the bag—it would have been out when Mr. Brown wrote Mr. McFadden. Mr. Glover need not be regarded as a painter of lilies, if there is a lily to be found on these premises. Postmasters, it is quite generally understood, are political appointees.

THE SANCTIONS OF CLERICAL POLITICIANS.

Representative George H. Tinkham of Massachusetts presses Attorney General Mitchell to proceed against Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals. Mr. Tinkham charges that Mr. Pickett perjured himself before a senate committee in testimony regarding the removal of evidence from his headquarters, and he accuses Mr. Mitchell of failure to do his duty against Pickett, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, and Bishop James Cannon Jr. The cases refer to the expenditure of money in political campaigns.

Mr. Tinkham in the house of representatives and Senator Glass of Virginia in the senate have persisted against all intervening influences in their efforts to bring the organizations of politico-clerics within the operation and penalties of the laws governing the use of political funds. Bishop Cannon has set the example of denying the government any jurisdiction in the exceedingly strange circumstances in which campaign funds were collected and used by the clerics in politics.

Immunities have been asserted with great spirit and, for the most part, the government has accepted the challenge meekly. The disposition has been to forget it, and only the persistence of Mr. Tinkham and Senator Glass keeps any life in the cases against the church politicians. Inasmuch as the distribution of funds was largely in the dry and Democratic south, which went for Mr. Hoover, the indifference of the administration is not without apparent cause. When the department of justice did proceed against Bishop Cannon it was with an indictment found to be technically faulty by the trial court. That issue is on appeal.

The influences in favor of an immune political clericalism are weighty and also self-concerned. The solitary instances of opposition to them in the house and in the senate are the more notable for that reason.

FIRST OFFENDERS.

A rule of court provides that when a boy is among a group of prisoners charged with a crime all the prisoners shall be arraigned in the Boys' court. "Boy" is a misleading term. It means, for this purpose, a young man between the ages of 17 and 21. According to Judge J. William Brooks, now sitting in the Boys' court, the rule has been taken advantage of by professional criminals. They take a boy along not so much to help in committing the crime as to provide a means of getting into the Boys' court if caught. The older criminals have calculated, perhaps with good reason in the past, that the leniency shown in the Boys' court to first and youthful offenders will be extended to them.

Judge Brooks believes he has put an end to this system of evading punishment, and it is to be hoped that he has. The point he makes, however, serves to illustrate how unwise it can be to follow the advice of sentimentalists in the treatment of crime and criminals. No doubt the rule in question was established to assure a sympathetic treatment for youthful first offenders who might thus be rescued from a criminal career before it was too late to reform them. "First offender" in this sense can well be as ambiguous a term as "boy." A first offender is one who has never before been caught, but it does not and cannot mean one who has never before broken the law. A first offender can be as hardened and as incorrigible a criminal as any safecracker of 45. Accordingly, there is almost as much to be said against giving especially favored treatment to all first offenders, without distinction, as there is to the contrary policy.

Nor is that the end of the story. The sentimentalist assumes that it is more important to rescue the erring than to protect society and punish crime. Inevitably this point of view has been taken advantage of by the professional enemies of society. They do not follow the sportsman's code in their game with the police. They will take every opportunity presented to them to cheat the law and the sentimentalists cannot find enough avenues of escape to present to them. Rules which are intended to promote leniency cannot fail to achieve leniency, and often as not the beneficiary is one least deserving of favored treatment.

The records in this connection are enlightening. In April 372 first offenders were tried in the Boys' court and in the same month the court tried 205 others who had previous police records. If this record may be regarded as a fair sample, it follows that more than half of the first offenders become more or less confirmed criminals despite the leniency shown them. It is at least arguable that the leniency lavished on youthful criminals is itself a cause for their continued delinquency. A sterner application of the law might discourage them from repeating their offenses.

Editorial of the Day

69 YEARS AGO.

[Richmond News-Leader.]

Gen. Ludendorff, in his memoirs, sets down Aug. 8, 1918, as the "black day of the German army." The English offensive, begun that day on the Amiens front, was the beginning of the end. Whatever hope Germany had, he intimates, disappeared as the British tanks and supporting infantry threw back the imperial troops from the ground they had gained in March.

In exactly the same manner this 10th day of May is the anniversary of the "black day of the south." The sun of southern hope began its downward course sixty-nine years ago this afternoon when "Stonewall" Jackson died. Not only did Gen. Lee then lose his most brilliant lieutenant, but he also was forced to a reorganization that partly destroyed the effectiveness of the "matchless infantry" of the army of northern Virginia.

Defeat at Gettysburg, the "turning point of the war," became inevitable when Lee was deprived of the services of the man who made the Second corps the greatest body of shock troops ever employed on American soil. Gen. Lee himself said that if Jackson had been at Gettysburg he would, in all probability, have won the battle, and every one who follows the otherwise incomprehensible story of that great conflict can understand what Lee meant. After the first success in the clash with Meade's army, when the converging columns of A. P. Hill and of Ewell came together as if by magic on July 1, 1863, there was a long, long wait in Gettysburg. A quick advance would certainly have resulted in the capture of Cemetery hill, which dominated the whole field. As Ewell hesitated, a grieving staff officer whispered sadly to his companion, "Jackson is not here," and in those words he wrote the epitaph of the confederacy.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

IT'S GETTING QUITE HOPEFUL.

Stories tumble head over heels out of Washington about the pressure that is being brought to bear on the gods of the Republican party about giving old prohibition a most terrible kick in the pants at the convention next month. The start was made several months ago with rumors that the administration might be willing for the platform to say that the question of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment should be put to a referendum. Not many of the sovereign voters knowing what a referendum is, the stories grew more and more definite. Now there are whisperings that the Republicans will ask that all cities and towns be required to pump beer through the water mains to all dwellings for at least two hours a day and four hours on Sunday. Of course, to please certain sections of the south which are standing hard and fast for a dry platform, a proviso is to be put in that the matter will be left to the states, and those that vote that way can pump buttermilk or sarsaparilla through the water mains. This ought to satisfy one and all. They're grand stories and they're getting better every day.

THE BABY.

There is nothing to be said;
Such a grief must walk unfriended.
Leave your helpless tears unshed;
There is nothing to be said.
Upon ravaged hearts and dead
Fall your words, however splendid;
There is nothing to be said;

Dorothy Kissling.

MR. GARNER SAYS Mr. Hoover contradicts himself every ten days. It seems very rude of Mr. Garner to keep count on Mr. Hoover like that.

OUR MAIN OBJECTION to Senator Hooey Long is that his stories, while they convulsed the galleries and set the senate off in gales of merriment, are taken direct from Joe Miller's Joke Book, published two or three hundred years ago. Naturally, we would expect the crowds that pour into the senate galleries would be convulsed by the Kingfish's droll stories, but, after listening to Sen. Moses and Reed Smoot for so long, the senate has heard all the Joe Miller stories years and years ago and again and again and again, and it's hard to understand why the senate laughed unless it was what comes under the head of senatorial courtesy. Still, it's easy to make 'em laugh in Washington; they know so little of the outside world or what is going on in the country that anything, no matter how old it is, seems fresh and bright and new and is received with guffaws of merriment.

"PROFESSOR finds his way out of the woods."—Headline. Well, maybe's there's something in education after all.

EPISODE.

Sir: Do your ears become weary from hearing tales of woe? Maybe not. But mine do. As Marguerite Sylva very tersely puts it, "People of the theater are the first called upon in a disaster, and, being a luxury, are the first forgotten in a depression."

Vaudevillians are more resourceful than folks in other branches of the amusement world, and not as finicky as we legits regarding what they work at. If they can't get Big Time, they take small. If they can't get theaters, they play clubs, circuses, amusement parks, or honky-tonks. Hence the N. V. A. club is not as badly hit as some of the other gathering places. But even in the Variety club one occasionally hears something so tragic that it is almost funny.

About ten days ago Allan Wallace of the Lenore Ulric company asked a very aged performer how things were going.

"Well, Allan," he replied, "I'm all through. I was put out of my room; I have no money for food. There are a few friends from whom I might get a lift, or I could get into the Percy Williams home. But what for? To drag on with a miserable existence? There are no relatives to miss me, and if I had a dollar to get something I'd put myself out of the way."

"Mr. Blank," said Allan, "I understand your position perfectly. My season got me just out of the red, and I don't know where the next is coming from, but if you really think that a dollar will help you to a happier existence, or nonexistence, here it is."

That night Mr. Blank took the poison—an overdose. Next day he was arrested, and is now in an insane asylum.

BRICKS OF BABYLON.

Wander we all winding ways,
Dreaming in the sun
Of the loves of other days,
Bricks of Babylon!

Treasure we the ancient things,
Surely they were best,
Who knows what the future brings?
Life's a palimpsest.

There's a fog behind the fen
That our feet have run,
And we'll never tread again
Bricks of Babylon.

E. Leslie Spaulding.

DOWN IN MEXICO the president signs a decree to encourage the drinking of beer. And up here there are thousands and thousands of thirsty souls who need no decree or proclamation or pleading letter of any kind, shape, or substance to make them drink beer; but they can't get the beer. It's a strange world.

AND AS WE READ about Mr. Curtis and his confession that his adventures with the kidnapers were all fakes we called little Tommy Atkins, our Sealyham pup, over and told him we wished we could trade places with him, but Tommy must have read the story, too, because he looked at us with an expression which said very plainly that he did not care to belong to the human race.

BLOOD PRESSURE AND THE ADRENALS.

I AM impressed with the possibility, and even the probability, that the key to the blood pressure problems, or most of them, is bound up with the adrenal or suprarenal gland. This is one of the ductless glands, the secretion of which is all absorbed into the blood. We know that the secretion of this gland, called epinephrine or adrenaline, raises the blood pressure and that it also has a relation to low blood pressure. Substances have been extracted from this gland secretion, have been purified and made available for use, just as quinine has been extracted from cinchona bark, crystallized and marketed.

We know that emotional outbreaks, such as anger, fear, excitement, and enthusiasm, will run up the blood pressure. Men who suffer from high blood pressure are warned against emotional outbreaks. They are told that if they get angry and explode they are liable to break a blood vessel and fall over from an attack of apoplexy. Furthermore, if they would escape the day by day discomforts of high blood pressure, they must keep on an even emotional keel. This is more important than diet, constipation, or any of the other things which the high blood pressure subject's rules on "How to Live With" cover.

We know that if we push a laboratory dog into a fight and then, when he is most excited and angry, kill him, examining him before and after death, we find proof that his blood pressure was raised by his anger and fighting, that his adrenals were superactive, and that his blood was flooded with the adrenal juice.

On the other hand we know that low blood pressure and all the symptoms that accompany it can be produced by a deficiency of this juice in the blood. There is a disorder known as Addison's disease in which the adrenal glands are badly damaged. The symptoms of this disease are those of low blood pressure, magnified to the extreme.

The evidence or logic of this sort seems conclusive. Let us say that until recently the only proof that we have had of vitamins was of just this type. We have had to accept them on faith. However, there is nothing in the art as it is developed up to now that is of practical value except that we inject adrenaline to get a quick "snapout" after fainting.

Where is the trouble? It is in the lack of enduring quality in the adrenal preparations now available. We start a fire with a bundle of newspapers, or we pour a little kerosene on some wood. When we apply a match we get a quick, hot fire that burns out almost as quickly as it started. The adrenal preparations we now have act like the coal oil we use to start our fires.

For high blood pressure of all kinds, including those types we are now discussing, and all that group of symptoms we call low blood pressure, what we need is a slow burning preparation of adrenal extract to use—so many doses or one dose daily for high blood pressure, just as we now use insulin for diabetes; and a slow burning adrenaline to use every day for low blood pressure.

ASK FOR INVESTIGATION.

Neighbor writes: We live in a large apartment building where there is a case of scarlet fever. The mother is in and out the front hall constantly, usually visiting with calling friends. It is necessary for every one to pass her door [she is on the first floor] in leaving and entering the building, and we never know when some one from the apartment where the sickness is will "pop" out on us. Is there danger in using this hall? All her windows are kept open, the sickroom included. Is there danger here, as she is right above the passageway? Her back door is open the greater part of the day and evening. It is also necessary for every one leaving the building to pass this door. The younger children in the building cannot be left alone in the yard for fear they will wander up into this back porch and perhaps even into the house. Articles have been taken from this apartment to the basement storehouse since the sign has been put up. Isn't this all unreasonable on her part? The rest of the neighbors are afraid of the disease, as not another child in the building has had it.

REPLY:

Scarlet fever is spread by persons rather than by friends. There is no danger in using a public hall, or in having open windows in quarantined quarters, or in an open back door. However, I suggest that you ask the health department to investigate. Something depends on how the several things you write about are done.

APOPLEXY.

Mrs. E. M. B. writes:

1. What is hemorrhage of the brain?
2. Is it serious?
3. Is it curable?
4. What is meant by brain cells drying up?
5. Can one expect to live long in that condition?

REPLY.

1. The common name is apoplexy.
2. Yes.
3. A few cases completely recover. In a larger proportion recovery is partial. To many it is fatal.
4. I presume your physician was trying to tell you how the hemorrhage injured some brain cells and destroyed others and, therefore, recovery was incomplete.
5. A few persons live many years after apoplexy. Most do not. In the first place, second and third attacks usually follow. In the second, the apoplexy age is around the average age at death, and not much below the Biblical limitation of life.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

DEMOCRATIC—1884.

Chicago, July 12.—Grover Cleveland of New York was nominated for President and Thomas A. Hendricks of Indiana for Vice President by the Democratic national convention in Exposition hall, Michigan avenue and Monroe street, yesterday. A move to nominate Hendricks for President by a stampede was defeated.

The first ballot, taken the previous day, had shown the result: Cleveland, 392; Bayard, 170; Thurman, 88; Randall, 78; McDonald, 56; Carlisle, 27; the rest scattering. Necessary to a choice, 547.

Gen. Quarles of Tennessee managed to raise his voice high enough to reach the reporters and said:

"Public men are public property and the state of Tennessee desires me to put in nomination the Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks."

Gen. Quarles went to the platform and endeavored to make an impression on the convention. The attempt failed.

Gen. Black of Illinois was recognized and said: "By direction of the delegation from Illinois I cast for them 38 votes for Grover Cleveland."

The audience broke out again, as did many delegates, waving their hats and handkerchiefs. New York cast 72 votes for Cleveland; Pennsylvania, 42 for Cleveland (immense applause) and 11 for Hendricks.

At the end of the roll call the vote stood 475 for Cleveland, 151½ for Bayard, 123½ for Hendricks; scattering, 69. Before an announcement was made North Carolina, Virginia, and Georgia changed votes to Cleveland. Missouri changed her vote to a solid 32 for Cleveland, practically giving him the nomination.

The result after all changes was: Cleveland, 686; Bayard, 81½; Hendricks, 45½. Immediately the aisles were filled by frantic delegates, rushing around with the standards and banners.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 18, 1916.

CHICAGO.—Chicago's great Preparedness parade will be held on Saturday, June 3. This was decided by the committee on organization after an all-day session at the headquarters of the Association of Commerce The committee will meet again this morning, and at noon, at the University club, will report its deliberations to the conference of forty which launched the parade project on May 16. It is estimated that a fund of $25,000 will be required to meet the needs of the movement. The Tribune will contribute $100 to this purpose. Similar demonstrations are being planned in Milwaukee, St. Louis, Cleveland, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Des Moines, Joliet, Grand Rapids, and other places.

STOCKHOLM.—The Swedish crisis has passed and the Activist attempt to force a situation which would plunge the country into war has failed. Sweden will remain firmly and impartially neutral. The government feels no alarm concerning Russia's activity in fortifying the Aland islands, lying off the east coast of Sweden, between the Gulf of Bothnia and the Baltic sea.

EUROPEAN WAR SUMMARY.—The preliminary hearing of the treason charge against Sir Roger Casement and Daniel Julian Bailey ended today. A great number of aerial battles were fought along the French front yesterday. Two German infantry attacks near Verdun were failures One American was drowned and two others were placed in peril when a mine blew up the Dutch steamer Batavier V. in the North sea. The British claimed a sea victory over the Germans off the Belgian coast. The Italians in the Tyrol region retired to new positions before a violent Austrian attack. Rome says heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor, Arthur Pearson Scott, associate professor of history.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What were some characteristics of Renaissance art?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What do we mean by modern, and when did modern times begin?

ANSWER:

We call those things modern which are widely characteristic of our contemporary western type of civilization. The things which make modern times modern are in general those which distinguish our own day from mediaval Europe. Feudal government gave way to national states, the unity of medieval Christianity was broken by the Protestant Reformation, Europe began to expand overseas, a new interest developed in science, serfdom disappeared, a new world commerce developed, the Renaissance put new vigor in art and literature. Printing was invented. Since these movements took place in the latter 15th and in the 16th centuries, it is usual to think of these years as marking the transition to the modern period so far as western Europe is concerned.

PROBATE OF ESTATE.

Chicago, May 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Would you please advise me if any estate must be probated in the state where the deceased lived? My husband and I lived in St. Louis, Mo., and since his death two weeks ago I have made my home in Chicago, where I intend to live. 2. Must I go back to St. Louis and have the estate probated there? No will was left. 3. Must I be present at court at the time of probate? 4. Is it permissible to sell a piece of property there if it was in both our names as joint owners? There is one child. A. S. A.

1. It is necessary in some cases. If the facts are such as to make it necessary that all technically correct steps be taken, then the state of residence of the deceased at the time of his death is the proper place for the principal probate, but in most cases it is possible to achieve the necessary results by steps somewhat short of the maximum.
2. See No. 1. The decision depends in part on whether there is real estate. We suggest that you have a personal interview with an attorney here.
3. Not necessary.
4. Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BAD ON TIRES.

Chicago, May 14.—[Friend of the People.]—Can there be something done about holes on Ashland avenue south of Chicago avenue? Every time an automobile goes over the hole it makes so much noise that most of us in the immediate vicinity are unable to sleep. I watched one night for about an hour and counted eight flat tires. W. Z.

Report is made that necessary repairs were made and street is now in good condition on Ashland avenue, south of Chicago avenue.

ONE GOVERNMENT OFFICE.

Chicago, May 14.—Your editorial, "Just One Government Office," is remarkable in that your correspondent, whose letter you quote at length, is either inaccurate or incorrect in every statement he makes. It seems unfortunate that you should not have taken the trouble to have checked up these statements before giving them such extensive and harmful publicity, particularly when you might have discovered the utter lack of foundation for his statements by a moment's use of the telephone.

In these days when the public mind is inflamed against government bureaus it is particularly unfortunate that you should circulate such harmful and utterly baseless statements concerning the patent office. We who know the facts have no objection to such facts being shown and, in fact, we court publicity.

Although your editorial vouches for your correspondent as a patent attorney, we seriously question that status, since any reputable patent attorney knows that there is no basis for the charge expressed in the letter.

I will not attempt to refute the statements in detail, but have referred the editorial and a copy of this letter to Secretary R. P. Lamont with the request that he give you some authoritative figures that you may substitute for the wild statements of your correspondent.

Charles F. Murray.

THE BONUS FOR SOLVENCY.

Chicago, May 5.—Your editorial, "The Bonus and Its Friends," was very interesting, mainly because you tried to be fair to both sides, but there are several important things you have overlooked.

It is true that the average veteran has borrowed 50 per cent on his certificate, but please be reminded that only about 10 per cent of the veterans have received the full 50 per cent in a lump sum, the other 90 per cent having received their 50 per cent in three or four loans and in three or four years, and each loan was smaller due to compound interest charges on previous loans.

The loan in 1931, being the largest, enabled the average veteran to pay off his debts, and by so doing when the last of his money was spent he was again able to receive credit, on which a great many thousands of veterans are living up to this date. So, though the little money that he received on his loan in 1931 was really spent in a few months' time, yet it paved a way for him to live for more than a year after.

Payment of the balance of the 50 per cent of the certificates in a lump sum will mean that the average veteran will again be able to pay his debts, and that means that he and his family will not only receive help for a year or two but it may put thousands of veterans back on their feet for good.

AIDS FOR THE DEAFENED.

Chicago, May 13.—Mrs. Louis Pelton, chairman of the hearing aids committee of the Chicago conference of Jewish women's organizations and the Chicago Woman's aid, expresses her sincere thanks to The Chicago Tribune and its readers for their generous response to the pleas of her committee and for their cooperation.

The principals and teachers of the deaf oral classes of the public school system express their special thanks for gifts of pianos, phonographs, radios, hearing devices, toys; miniature candy, grocery and drug stores, and weighing scales. These are now being used for educational purposes in various classes and afford opportunities never even dreamed of for this group of handicapped children.

Mrs. Louis Pelton.

TO CATCH THE KIDNAPERS.

Chicago, May 15.—Why doesn't Uncle Sam turn his vast army of dry agents, thugs, and snoopers into the Lindbergh baby killers' hunt? The old saying that "it takes a thief to catch a thief" would also apply to killers, it seems to me. But I suppose if the Lindy slayers had any of that $50,000 left when the dry grafters caught up with them there would be no arrest. H. M. O.

FOR A CHEAPER DOLLAR.

Anamosa, Ia., May 2.—Why should the scourge of this awful depression be allowed to continue when it is likely that the alteration of but a word or two in a section of the federal statutes would restore prosperity to our stricken land?

The United States statutes define the unit of value as the dollar consisting of 25⅘ grains of gold nine-tenths fine. In retaining the unit of value as now defined, a very great injustice is being inflicted upon vast numbers of debtors who contracted debts on the basis of values several times higher than present prices.

France stabilized the franc at less than one-fourth its pre-war value and France today is the most prosperous country in the world. The United States should define the dollar at not more than one-fourth its present value and this dollar be made a legal tender for all debts, public and private, anything expressed in any contract to the contrary notwithstanding. The result would be that all property would immediately rise in value. Hoarded dollars would be quickly brought forth from their hiding place and invested in other kinds of property. A big demand for commodities would take place. Debtors could then pay their obligations. Labor would be profitably employed. The wheels of industry would hum. And the sunshine of prosperity would revive the hopes of our stricken populace. And confidence would be restored.

Call it inflation if you will, which undoubtedly it would be, but it would be vastly superior to the deflation which has brought ruin to vast numbers. Many of our closed banks would be restored to solvency. George C. Lawrence.

BUYING POWER AND WAGE CUTTING.

Chicago, May 10.—A contributor to the Voice of the People on May 9 failed to get the gist of a letter written by me and published a week earlier. I made the statement that the campaign to reduce the salaries of federal employés was inspired by big business men and that, if it was accomplished, these same men, the heads of industrial concerns, would use this as an excuse to further reduce the pay of their own workers. This action would have a tendency to reduce wages again all over the country. Now, when this vicious cycle is complete and millions have a reduction in pay, buying power must be reduced. While a reduction of salary for the men and women who work for Uncle Sam would have a tendency in itself to curtail buying, it would be small in comparison with the reduced purchasing of people in other lines of work. No material increase of goods is to be expected as long as the goods now in existence cannot be sold.

These reductions in pay put no new men to work. This wage cutting campaign has been carried on for over two years and millions of men and women have been reduced in pay. The futility of it may be seen when, after a couple of years of this sort of thing, there are more people out of work now than at any other time. C. A. Kepner.

THE EXPERTS.

Chicago, May 11.—True to its editorial policy The Tribune would set aside the work of the experts, hired by the board of education to make a scientific survey of our schools, and substitute for it its own opinion—based on what? A tramp from the street can throw a brick through a plate glass window, but it requires highly skilled mechanics and coördinated machinery to make the glass and replace it.

A Teacher.

THE NIGHT WORKER'S REST.

Chicago, May 12.—Has the night worker no consideration coming to him? My husband must sleep during the day, after working twelve hours at night. My grievance is that uncalled for noise, the radio as it is now used to boom trade. Every day at least one, and some days three, of these trucks stop in the alley on Sunnyside or Whipple, their radios going full blast. M. J. G.

TOUR CONVINCES HORNER THINKING VOTERS ARE WET

Finds Demand Growing for Outright Repeal.

Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, returned last night after a three weeks combined business and pleasure trip in the east. As a result of the trip he is more firmly convinced than ever that outright repeal of the prohibition amendment is growing in favor in the minds of thinking citizens of the nation.

"I talked with political leaders everywhere," he said last night. "I also gained some knowledge of what the people are thinking. Americans never have lost their deep rooted, imperishable love for human liberty and they have become convinced by sad experience during the years under prohibition that the economic loss to the country, the loss of life and liberty of thousands of citizens, and the decaying moral strength of the growing generation is altogether too great a price to pay for the doubtful benefits of prohibition."

Sees Need for Real Leader.

Judge Horner, a noted student of American history, visited the homes of four great Presidents of the United States during his tour. He spent several hours at Mount Vernon, the home of Washington; Monticello, the home of Jefferson; Montpelier, the home of Madison, and Ashlawn, the home of Monroe.

"They were good men and fine leaders," he said. "The country could well use their services today. The year of 1932 sees this nation undergoing tribulations no less trying than the years in which the United States was an infant among the countries of the world."

Refreshed by his vacation trip, the judge will plunge immediately into his duties at the Probate court, he said.

Met by Young Democrats.

He will continue to act in an administrative capacity in the court, which is the largest of its kind in the world, but he will not sit on the bench, holding that a man who will soon be engaged in a political campaign should not be called upon to exercise judicial discretion in controversial matters.

When his train pulled into the Union station he was met by a group of young people representing the Young People's Democratic league. He accepted their invitation to be guest of honor at a meeting to be held in the Trianon June 1, at which most of the Democratic candidates will be present. Floyd Kenlay is president of the league.

FIVE HOODLUMS KIDNAP STREATOR MAN FROM BED

Streator, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—Five armed hoodlums invaded the home of Frank Cingrani tonight, terrorized his wife and children, and kidnaped him from bed. He is 40 years old and operates a soft drink parlor.

Earlier in the night a stranger had telephoned his home. Mrs. Cingrani answered. The man identified himself as "Al" and said he would call later. Cingrani returned home shortly afterward and retired.

Shortly after 11 o'clock the hoodlums entered the home and forced Cingrani to accompany them. He was dressed only in night clothes. They told Mrs. Cingrani that her husband would return in half an hour. They forced him into a car and drove off. Police were called and Sheriff E. J. Welter of La Salle county was notified at Ottawa. Squads were sent out to search for the abducted man. Police said they did not know whether Cingrani was "taken for a ride" or kidnaped for ransom.

FRED J. HUSSEY, LUMBER DEALER, DROWNS HIMSELF

Fred Jerome Hussey, 55 years old, wholesale lumber dealer in Glen Ellyn, committed suicide yesterday by drowning. The Wilmette coast guards recovered his body from the lake off Clark street, Evanston, a block from where Hussey instructed that a search be made in a suicide note.

The message was found by his mother in the Hotel Monnett, 1633 Chicago avenue, Evanston, where they lived. It said: "My love is all I have to leave to mother for goodness to all. Body in Lake near Church street. Three a. m. Fred."

Mr. Hussey was connected with the Hussey-Bergland Lumber company, and was a stockholder in the Hussey-Bergland-Stephens Building Material company, both in Glen Ellyn. He operated a wholesale business in Chicago until 1918. He was a member of the Lumbermen's club and the Glen Oak Golf club.

Bandits Rob Physician, Then Terrorize His Home

Two bandits held up Dr. Marion J. Filipiak in front of his home at 5050 Loomis street last night, robbed him of $75, his watch, valued at $25, and his stickpin, worth $200, and then compelled him to lead them into his home. There they terrorized his wife, Wanda, and the maid, Bernice Gawlik, 18 years old, and ransacked the house. They stole a $500 ring belonging to Mrs. Filipiak.

Gunmen Riddle Front of Realty Firm with Bullets

Gunmen riding in a car riddled the front windows of the Duggan Realty company at 5543 Diversey avenue with bullets early this morning. James Duggan, head of the concern, who lives in the rear with his wife, May, was not at home at the time. Mrs. Duggan told Cragin police she knew of no reason for the attack.

Foster Parents of Six Find Another Baby on Doorstep

Jerome, Idaho, May 17.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Mogenson, who are rearing a family of six adopted children, were awakened early today by an infant's cries. All six were sleeping soundly. They looked out the front door. On the step was a week old baby boy in a basket.

PERJURER LINKS MAYOR OF MUNCIE IN DRY LAW PLOT

Seven Others Also Testify Against Dale.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 17.—[Special.] — The government stumbled along a rocky road today as United States Attorney George R. Jeffrey put a confessed perjurer and seven other witnesses on the stand in an effort to send Mayor George R. Dale of Muncie to prison for conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

The government's first witness was Herschell Rose, a ferret faced young fellow who, it developed, was the ace informer for the United States department of justice in the twelve months' investigation which resulted in the indictment of Mayor Dale, Police Chief Frank Massey, and nine others now on trial before Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell.

U. S. Dry Agents Move Into Muncie.

Rose swore that on an occasion shortly before the federal agents moved into Muncie, Mayor Dale told him that "if we can get rid of Chief Massey and a couple of others you and I and Fred Bohlinger can run this town wide open to suit ourselves." But as soon as he joined hands with the federal agents Mayor Dale subjected him to excruciating embarrassment, the witness averred.

Defects in Rose's reputation were brought out on cross-examination. He admitted having been convicted in a state court for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He also conceded that in testifying before the federal grand jury here in a Muncie liquor case he falsely had sworn that he was a member of the Muncie police department when he made a "buy," and that this testimony impelled Judge Baltzell to throw the case out of court.

Chief Massey Displays Enmity.

It was after his perjury before the grand jury that Chief Massey first displayed enmity, Rose averred. The chief, he said, summoned him to his office and knocked him down with his fist after accusing him not only of ruining the liquor case but also of annoying the chief's wife.

Dale's name was splashed squarely into the conspiracy for the first time when the government called Fred Bohlinger, originally an undercover inspector for the mayor.

The witness said that during the period he was snooping for the mayor Chauncey Stillson, an old time Muncie confidence man and ex-convict, was in the mayor's home every night, and that raiding orders came to the police from Stillson, not from Dale. Stillson, a co-defendant, with the mayor, now is a fugitive in Mexico.

On cross-examination Bohlinger admitted he had been convicted of deserting his wife and children.

Roustabout Witness for U. S.

With the calling of the next witness, the defense produced a letter which laid a foundation for impeaching both Bohlinger and Rose. The new witness, William Duncan Jr., Negro roustabout and chauffur of Muncie, whom the government brought to court from jail at Lima, O., testified he often had driven Dale around Muncie when the mayor was drunk.

In the letter Duncan said federal agents had promised him money and that the informers, Bohlinger and Rose, had promised him a federal job if he would "tell a lie about the mayor."

90 YACHT OWNERS DEMAND LOWER MOORING RATES

Ninety yacht owners announced yesterday that they will refuse to pay for mooring and docking their craft in the Belmont yacht harbor and Lincoln park unless the park commissioners cut the rates. Attorney Joseph R. Nicholai, leader of the militant yachtsmen, charged the rates are the highest in the country and are "exorbitant and out of proportion with services rendered."

Attorney Nicolai said the present rates are based on the length of the boats and range from $1 to $3 a foot for the season. He contends that a 50 per cent reduction would be about right.

Warren Wright, president of the park board, said last night that the commissioners could not reduce the charges. "The rates do not pay for improvements, upkeep, dredging and watchmen now," said Mr. Wright. "Any one who can afford to have a yacht in these times," he added, "can afford to pay the charges."

The ninety boat owners include members of the Chicago Yacht club, the Chicago Motor Yacht club, of which Mr. Nicolai is former commodore, and the Columbia Yacht club.

Mr. Nicolai's committee includes U. J. ["Sport"] Herrmann, Dr. O. E. Nadeau, Warren H. Hungerford and Frank H. Kruse.

PARKER POINTS OUT A KIDNAPER IN PEORIA TRIAL

Identifies One of Two Abductors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—Dr. James W. Parker faced a jury and twelve defendants, ten men and two women, in Circuit Judge Henry J. Ingram's court this afternoon and related for the state how he was kidnaped and held captive for eighteen days while $50,000 ransom was being demanded. He identified one of the defendants as one of two abductors.

DR. JAMES W. PARKER. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

Dr. Parker, a portly man of 65, with white hair, pink face and double chin, spoke firmly and deliberately as he told how he was threatened with death, blindfolded, driven to a lonely farm house in the Spring lake bottom country, 30 miles south of Peoria, and then trussed to an attic bed.

"On the night of March 14, about 7:10 p. m., I went out and got in my car. Just as I started the motor an individual jumped in the front seat by me and pressed a gun to my side.

"Another party climbed in back of us. The dome light was burning and the first man said, 'Put out that damn light.' That first individual was that man right there [indicating Claude 'Red' Evans, ex-convict and safe cracker]. I opened and closed the door but the light didn't go out as it should. He said, 'If you don't put out that light I'll blow you full of holes.'

"We drove through Pekin and out a country road until we came to a house. They took me upstairs and made me write a letter to my wife."

This letter, explaining that he was held captive and would not be released without $50,000 ransom, was identified and admitted into evidence.

During his eighteen days' confinement, he was constantly blindfolded, with a bandage and adhesive tape over his eyes, except when food was brought up, and during these brief intervals he was able to obtain a remarkable description of the premises which led to the raid on the home of Raymond Stoops, a defendant.

BRIDE IS RAPED AND ROBBED OF $1,500 IN HOME

Mrs. Mary Vito, 20 years old, a bride of a year, was raped yesterday by one of a pair of bandits after they had robbed her of $1,500 in her home at 2319 Ohio street. She and her husband, Joseph, a vegetable peddler, withdrew the money from a bank three months ago.

Mrs. Vito was washing dishes when the two men knocked at the rear door and pushed her back into the house. They ordered her into a bedroom where they searched a trunk and found the hoarded money.

One of the men then attacked her. She screamed but he struck her across the mouth and his companion held a revolver against her head, she declared in a statement to police.

Woman's Body Found in Cemetery Lagoon

The body of a poorly dressed woman about 35 years old was found yesterday floating in the lagoon in Mount Hope cemetery, Fairfield avenue and 115th street. Police said they believed she had committed suicide. Her coat, hat, shoes and purse were found at the edge of the lagoon, but gave no clew to her identity. The body was discovered by Clarence Robbins, an employé of the cemetery. It was taken to undertaking rooms at 23 West 111th street, where an inquest will be held today.

CUBA REFUSES TO TAKE SILVER MONEY FOR TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 17.—Despite the fact that the Cuban administration is trying to place in circulation as much silver as possible, the department of sanitation and other government offices are refusing to accept more than 20 per cent in silver in payments due in the form of taxes and fines. The season for this alleged arbitrary measure clamped on citizens who are forced to accept from the administration almost 90 per cent of their pay in silver is not known.

As far as can be learned, the government has issued no orders against the acceptance by departments of any amount of the newly coined silver currency in payment of obligations on the part of the people.

A formal complaint against this alleged injustice has been presented to Secretary of the Treasury Ruiz Mesa. He is expected to clear up the government's stand in this matter.

Young Purse Snatchers in Auto Rob 2 Women

Two youthful purse snatchers traveling in an automobile robbed two women on the south side yesterday. They took a purse containing $21 and a watch from Mrs. Mary Halloran, 7152 South Honore street, as she waited for a street car at Damen avenue and 72d street. They also snatched a purse, which also contained $21, from Mrs. Elizabeth Richardson, 608 West 72d street, a school teacher, at 71st street and Lowe avenue.

GROSS PATERNITY RULING REVERSED BY APPEAL COURT

The Appellate court yesterday reversed the decree entered last September in the Superior court by Judge Joseph B. David, in which he held that Capt. Christian C. Gross of the United States diplomatic service, was the father of a daughter, Anna, born to his wife after their separation in 1928. Mrs. Gross, who was Virginia Harrison, daughter of a former governor general of the Philippines, was divorced on grounds of desertion by Capt. Gross in Chicago in August, 1930.

CAPT. CHRISTIAN C. GROSS.

The Appellate court ruling on the parentage of the child was made on strictly technical grounds, without regard to the evidence in the case. The appeal court held that Capt. Gross and his attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., had followed improper legal procedure in seeking the ruling by Judge David, and that Judge David had no jurisdiction in the case.

Involves $850,000 Trust Fund.

The legal and marital strife of the Grosses has been long and complicated, involving suits in the courts of Chicago, New York and France, where Mrs. Gross now lives. A factor in the litigation is an $850,000 trust fund which she established in her husband's name. It is administered by the National City Bank of New York, for the benefit of Peter and Barbara, the first two children of the couple.

Capt. Gross sought a ruling on the legitimacy of the third child, Anna, so that she might be included in the benefits of the fund. He charged that he was unaware of the child's birth when he divorced Mrs. Gross.

Should File Bill of Review.

"The grounds on which an amendment to the decree was asked are simply those of new evidence, and the proper method to amend the decree is to file an original bill in the nature of a bill of review," stated Judge Otto Kerner in the opinion. "Then such a decree may be set aside, reversed or modified."

The opinion held that Judge David had no power to amend the decree. Attorney Cantwell will ask a rehearing, he said.

Agriculture Bldg. for Fair Will Be Started Friday

Work on the Agricultural building of the Century of Progress exposition will be started on Friday, officials of the fair announced yesterday. Ground for the modernistic structure will be broken by an ox drawn wooden plow used by P. D. Armour a century ago, it was said. Members of the Colorado World's Fair commission made a tour of the exposition buildings on the lake front yesterday in preparation for their state's participation. Among the guests were Edward D. Foster of Greeley and Neil W. Kimball of Golden, members of the state board of immigration.

Faces 3 Charges for Shooting Woman Guest

John A. Keefe, 1548 North Karlov avenue, who shot and slightly wounded Mrs. Rhea Kaplan, 37 years old, 613 East 60th street, in his home on Monday night, will be arraigned in the South State street court today on three charges of assault. Mrs. Kaplan, mother of two children, was wounded in the thigh. Keefe also is alleged to have attacked John Moss, 1114 South Kedzie avenue, and Mrs. Marie Robinson, 3251 Evans avenue, who accompanied Mrs. Kaplan. Police said Keefe operated a handbook in his home. He had been drinking.

I was prepared for luxury at the BOOK-CADILLAC

—but to pay so little for it surprised me!

OF COURSE I'd heard of the Book-Cadillac. Everyone knows it's the finest hotel in Detroit—in fact one of the finest in the country.

So I went prepared for something out of the ordinary. And I certainly got it. My room was a marvel of comfort and convenience—food the best I'd ever eaten—service flawless—every minute of my stay a pleasure. But naturally I expected to pay a good stiff price for such superior accommodation. And there's where I got my big surprise.

The new rates at the Book-Cadillac are low—unbelievably low. Of the hotel's 1200 rooms, five hundred are only $3.00 a day. Beautiful rooms with every luxury—private baths, circulating ice water, wonderfully comfortable beds. Their four restaurants give you equal value, too.

HILLS BROS COFFEE NEVER VARIES IN FLAVOR
. . . THAT'S WHY YOU'LL NEVER SWITCH

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .

a little at a time

. . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . "a little at a time."

Roasting "a little at a time," instead of in bulk, is the reason for unchanging flavor of Hills Bros Coffee

It is a flavor no other coffee duplicates, because Controlled Roasting belongs to Hills Bros

You'll like Hills Bros. Coffee from the very first sip! It has a rich, exquisite flavor no other coffee has. And as time goes on, you'll still like Hills Bros. Coffee. For the flavor never changes or varies!

Variable flavor results from bulk-roasting. There is no positive way to roast big batches alike. One may be underdone—another overdone. Different flavors naturally result.

Hills Bros.' patented Controlled Roasting process overcomes that! Hills Bros. roast a little at a time . . . evenly, continuously, under automatic and exact heat control. Every pound is roasted the same, and has the same delightful flavor!

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

To fully understand what a fine, unvarying flavor Controlled Roasting makes, you'll have to drink Hills Bros. Coffee. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

EDITH McCORMICK ASKS RENT CUT TO SAVE OPERA

Letter Reveals Reasons for High Costs.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One reason for the high cost of the Civic Opera seasons in Chicago became known yesterday when Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick asked some questions in an open letter to Herbert M. Johnson, vice president in charge of business of the opera company.

MRS. EDITH R. McCORMICK.

Among other disclosures the letter indicated that the opera company is paying rentals to the Twenty Wacker Drive corporation, owner of the building in which the Civic Opera house is situated, at the rate of $3,000 a performance, three times as much as is charged to concert artists desirous of appearing there.

$270,000 Bill for Rent.

"I cannot understand," Mrs. McCormick said, "why in these times when our great artists have all accepted reductions in their salaries, and when the chorus and all the stage organizations have accepted reductions in salaries, no one has thought to ask for a reduction in the rent which we have to pay to the Twenty Wacker Drive corporation. At this time when all rents have gone down and are still going down, why must we still pay $3,000 a performance, making $270,000 for ninety performances?

"When John McCormick gave his concert a month ago he paid $1,000 rental. Is John McCormick a greater artist than many of our artists? Should the Twenty Wacker Drive corporation make a price for him which it is not willing to make for our own artists?"

Asks $90,000 Rent Cut.

Mrs. McCormick asked that the Civic opera committee be given consideration after twenty-two years of untiring service, and that the guarantors who have stood back of the company should have the opera next winter which, she explained, would be possible with a $90,000 reduction in rent.

"I say," she concluded, "that the people of Chicago, of whom I am one, have the right to have the opera to refresh them, and to keep before them the fact through the beautiful performances that there is still beauty in the world and that there are men and women citizens of this great city who have not lost their ideals."

Explaining that it was not in his province to make comments upon the letter, Mr. Johnson referred inquiries to Samuel Insull, who could not be reached yesterday afternoon.

Built for Opera Home.

The Twenty Wacker Drive building was erected several years ago as a home for the Civic Opera company. Mr. Insull explained at the time that it had been financed by a $10,000,000 bond issue and an equal amount in preferred stock, and that all the common stock was held in a perpetual trust for the benefit of the opera company. His plans included a gradual payment and retirement of bonds and preferred stock, so that when the indebtedness was entirely wiped out, the entire net income of the building would be available for operatic purposes, thereby doing away with the need of the guarantors who at present pay the company's deficits. Since that time several hundred thousand dollars in preferred stock have been turned back to the trust as gifts by persons who had purchased it.

Mrs. McCormick and her former husband, Harold F. McCormick, shouldered much of the responsibility of the opera company in its earlier years, not only making lavish contributions to its expenses, but paying for many of its costly productions. When Mr. Insull organized the Civic Opera company in 1921, as a successor to the former Chicago Opera association, Mr. and Mrs. McCormick made a free gift of all the scenery, which had been built under their orders at an estimated cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

OBESE ROBBERS CAUGHT IN ACT OF LOOTING HOME

Two fat robbers were arrested late last night as they were leaving the scene of their second job of the night. Their arrest solved a third looting and, police said, may clear up fifteen or twenty others. The prisoners are Russell Hall, 25 years old, of 1259 West 95th place, and Edward Kline, 23, of 2035 South Halsted street. Each weighs over 200 pounds.

They were arrested by Policemen John Geisler, Ernest Keen, and Thomas Charles of the Burnside station as they were leaving the home of Arnold Freeman at 8004 Evans avenue, their arms loaded with loot. Several hours before, police said, they had broken into the home of James M. Carr, a margin clerk, at 7948 Evans avenue. Four nights before, according to police, Hall and Kline looted the home of Henry Tobin, 8000 Evans avenue.

POPE PLEADS FOR WORLD TO ASK DIVINE AID TODAY

VATICAN CITY, May 17.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. tomorrow will issue an encyclical urging the whole world to unite in prayer for divine assistance in the midst of a world crisis.

The pontiff will take note of "today's sad condition of the human race" and will urge a prayer of expiation, a turning to God expecially during the month of June, which is consecrated to the sacred heart.

A discussion of world conditions and remedies will be contained in the document of some 6,000 or more words. Ten minute summaries in various languages, the first of which will be English, will be broadcast over the papal radio station. The broadcast will start shortly after 3:30 p. m., Chicago time, on a wave length of 50.26 meters.

Thrilling War Film to Have Preview Here

Show "Doomed Battalion" as Camp Benefit.

A PREVIEW of "The Doomed Battalion," the war film that thrilled official and diplomatic Washington in its world premiere less than three weeks ago, will be offered to all Chicago on Friday night in one performance at McVicker's theater.

The entire proceeds of the show will be turned over to Camp Algonquin, THE TRIBUNE'S camp which provides free summer vacations to nearly 2,000 needy mothers and children from the city's most congested districts. Every person who pays the dollar admission price will be assured that every penny of that dollar will go to the vacation fund.

When "The Doomed Battalion" was presented to Washington throngs attended the gala event, which drew ambassadors, cabinet members, governors, military dignitaries, members of congress and Washington society. It was described as "one of the most notable first nights recorded in the theatrical annals of the capital."

The picture comes to Chicago for its first showing since its premiere. It is being offered in its preview as Balaban & Katz's contribution to the Camp Algonquin fund.

"The Doomed Battalion" is a chapter of the world war that has never before been told. It is the first picturization of the great struggle on the Italian front for possession of one mountain peak. Where the western front moved back and forth for many miles, the Italian front moved scarcely a mile.

The story is a brilliant and gripping one—the story of the battalion of doomed Austrian men whose lives are dedicated to the holding of the Collalto pass as long as one of them should remain alive. All are aware that the Italian soldiers are drilling underneath them to place charges of dynamite which would some time blow the stronghold into a million pieces. A powerful love story runs throughout the picture.

In the mountain dugout Luis Trenker conceived the story of "The Doomed Battalion" during the days of tense waiting when men's nerves gave way and strong minds collapsed. All the while was the steady staccatto of muffled drills below.

The film is the outgrowth of Trenker's own experience. It is his own story, and he himself is a leading actor in its production. He takes the part of Florian, who must leave his wife and unborn child to guard his mountain country from the invading Italians.

Among those in the cast beside Trenker, who has become a famous Austrian actor, is Tala Birell, a Viennese actress. She makes her American debut in "The Doomed Battalion." Miss Birell, a protégé of Max Reinhart, played in Vienna the same rôles that Marlene Dietrich played in Berlin. She was then engaged by the famous Deutsche Volks theater in Berlin, playing dramatic repertoire.

E. A. du Pont saw her picture in a Viennese magazine and urged her to take a film test. She made her screen debut under his direction in "Men in a Cage" at the British International studios in London. She was then signed by Universal for the German version of "The Boudoir Diplomat."

Victor Varconi, another in the cast, played in "The King of Kings," "The Volga Boatman," "Chicago," "Angel of Broadway," and others. He was born in Hungary and he served on the Austrian front in the world war. The picture is directed by Cyril Gardner.

The setting of this unusual war film is laid in the rugged grandeur of the Dolomite Alps of Austria. The scenes were actually taken in the Alps and photography is remarkable. There are chilling deeds of valor—a scout patrol on skis flashing over miles of snow-covered mountains, and a wounded patriot leading a battalion to safety as the heroic garrison crumbles beneath a terrific blast of dynamite.

There is only one preview performance. This will be at 8:30 p. m. Friday night. There will be no reserved seats, every seat selling for one dollar. Tickets, however, will be sold all day at the box office of McVicker's theater.

Speaker at Banquet Urges Women to Stay in Own Sphere

Women were urged to stay in their feminine sphere and not try to usurp the rights of men in a speech last night by Genevieve Forbes Herrick, writer, at the annual dinner of the Matrix table of Theta Sigma Phi, a journalism sorority of Northwestern university. The dinner was held at the Orrington hotel in Evanston.

"Suffrage gave women privileges and rights previously denied them," said Mrs. Herrick. "Consequently women jumped off their pedestals and entered many fields supposedly secure to men. Women should stay in their feminine sphere. I don't mean necessarily that they should stay in the kitchen or go into harems, but that they should not usurp the accepted rights of men."

Another speaker was Eunice Tietjens, lecturer and writer. Thirteen campus leaders were guests of the sorority.

Class Teaches Wives to Drive in Front Seat

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Nearly 350 Evanston women forsook the vacuum cleaner for the accelerator yesterday and set out to convince their husbands that men haven't a corner on driving proficiency. The women enrolled in the second annual Safe Drivers' School for Women under the auspices of the Evanston Safety council and in cooperation with the bureau of accident prevention of the Evanston police department.

While most of the students walked to their first motoring class, others courageously took the wheel of the family motor car in hand and got it safely parked in front of the Nichols school, Greenleaf street and Elmwood avenue. They explained in a questionnaire why they wished to attend the school.

That the women are taking their motoring seriously was indicated in the questionnaires. One woman who flunked out in last year's examinations confided that she was taking the course again because "my grade was marked too low last year." She said she didn't drive a car. Another who had driven 150 miles "in the suburbs" was "interested in safe driving."

A third had driven 30,000 miles, but wanted "to improve" her driving. A woman who had driven 300 miles hoped "to learn to drive better and have more confidence in my own driving." Several wanted to show their husbands they could drive as well as any one.

Mrs. Guy M. Pelton, chairman of the school and home safety division of the Evanston Safety council, presided. She introduced Mayor Charles H. Bartlett, who told the women that if they learn self-control and what to do in emergencies "the school will be more than worthwhile."

Sidney J. Williams, director of the public safety division of the National Safety council, pointed to the rise last year of between 1 and 2 per cent in motor vehicle deaths throughout the United States despite a decrease in the number of motor vehicles.

"There are three things that make unsafe drivers," Mr. Williams explained. "These are physical and mental defects, ignorance and lack of skill in handling a motor car, and the wrong attitude toward driving. If we venture into the realm of personal observation we will find probably that more than a fair share of women drivers stick to the middle of the road because they don't know any better.

"Women are overtimid, they hesitate and wait too long when there is no need of waiting, gumming up traffic. If you're going to drive in heavy traffic you will have to drive the speed the average driver drives."

Frank M. Kreml, director of the police accident prevention bureau, gave the first lesson on the "the privilege of using the highways." He announced that the remaining four lessons will be illustrated by film strips.

Last year's enrollment, Mr. Kreml said, was 637, but only 70 were graduated. Many of the women failed to attend the required four out of five lessons, while others took no examinations.

The registration will continue until next Tuesday and is open to any women, whether she has a car or can drive a car. There is no fee.

Couturier Caps Sleeve of Smart Coat for Travel

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — The smart coat that goes a-voyaging this spring, whether it be by train or boat, is usually the one that is collarless, but with some sort of cape or sleeve arrangement that gives bulk to the coat top. Simple necklines with shoulder or sleeve emphasis have crowded the fur-collared manteau de voyage out of the picture.

Paris creators all have a different way of giving the wide shouldered effect. Some of them actually put width in the shoulders themselves, like Lyolene's wide, sloping shoulders, with the sleeves made all in one. Others use shoulder blade length capelets, and there are all manner of caped and capped sleeves.

Mirande puts capelets on the sleeves of his sport coat, like the one shown in the drawing above. This coat is in a rough surfaced woolen and has narrow diagonal stripes in black and pale yellow. The capelets on the straight sleeves start from the sides of the neckline, and come just below the shoulder. There is a surplice closing, fastening on a single row of buttons. This coat is held in at the normal waistline by a black leather belt with a silver buckle.

Ballet Girls Show Wrong Way of Getting Sun Tan

Eight ballet girls yesterday demonstrated on the roof of the Hotel Sherman how not to start the season of sun bathing. They exposed their bare backs in their backless bathing suits for more than three minutes, and were then told the right way to start acquiring a sun tan by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health. Dr. Bundesen said that at first the skin should remain exposed to the sun only three minutes. Otherwise, he said, sunburn results, which is a shock to the system.

Find Tablet with Missing Lines from Oldest Epic

A tablet, about 4,000 years old, inscribed with some 50 of the missing lines of the epic of Gilgamesh, the oldest adventure narrative in the world, has been discovered by the Field museum-Oxford university joint expedition to Mesopotamia, it was learned yesterday. Gilgamesh was the favorite Babylonian hero.

Winners in Music Contest Appear in Joint Recital

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Leola Aikman, soprano, and Samuel Thaviu, violinist, were presented in joint recital at Kimball hall last night, having been winners of the Bertha Ott award in a contest sponsored this season by the Society of American Musicians. Both are talented and both showed the effects of careful training.

Miss Aikman is a vocal technician of a degree that permitted her to make use of such works as "Ah, fora e lui" from Verdi's "La Traviata" and Richard Hageman's "Me Company Along" in attractive fashion, making use of high notes and florid passages with great ease. She is also a musician of a degree that permitted her, except in the matter of words, to sing sustained songs in a charming fashion.

Mr. Thaviu, playing Vitali's "Chaconne," Chausson's "Poeme," and a group of shorter numbers, displayed a vigorous tone of good quality and considerable warmth of interpretation. Technically he was in complete command of what came his way in these numbers, consequently there was full play for an attractive imaginative quality in his performance.

Now Is Best Time to Have Furs Altered

Convert Old Coats Into Striking Models.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

YOU'VE no doubt been deluged with nice little notes inviting you to gather together your furs and fur coats and rush them into proper cold storage, beyond the ravages of all warm weather pests such as moths and any other fur eating bugs. It is only wisdom to accept such excellent invitations, and the sooner you let some one else worry over hungry moths that are ready to engage in heavy warfare for their favorite menu, the more leisure you will have to think about summer clothes and vacations.

But before you send these furs into summer seclusion, why not listen to some new ideas for their rehabilitation? While you are cool and comfortable in linens and lawns, let experts clean and clip and cut your rather outmoded pieces and have them ready for wear the first frosty days next fall.

What fine furriers and fashion-wise designers can do to an old fur piece or a well worn coat is really something to get excited about. And, besides that, you are keeping lots of skillful workmen busy during a dull season. Let them call for your old, shapeless coat; listen to a few descriptive words, try on some other models, and then dismiss the entire proceeding until next October or thereabouts, when you will be speechless with delight and with the extremely low fee for such a splendid bit of work.

You can have luxurious cuffs and collar for a smart tweed suit made out of a discouraged looking old fur piece. You can have a perky little neckpiece which ties snugly about your neck from pieces salvaged from an old jacket that you almost scrapped for good. And some of the most distinctive short fur jackets have been made from all the remaining good sections to be found in an old fashioned full length fur coat that seemed ready for complete oblivion.

While you are engaged in fur transactions, ask to see the summer furs which are being featured. If their low prices don't startle you, then you are completely immune to shocks. Now, right now, is the time to buy furs, for they simply can't price them any lower. Lovely frosty silver foxes can be had for a trifling small sum that makes you gasp. Sables are almost presented to you for a song of clinking dollars that will be a joy to part with. Sable dyed kolinsky scarfs, from two up to six skins in a scarf, can be yours for almost any price you want to pay.

Buy your short fur jackets now, too. Tricky little things with the new puffed sleeves and abbreviated bolero length, that make them the smartest models of the women. You'll never be able to buy them cheaper. Beautiful white models of snowy ermine can be worn for cool summer evenings as well as next winter. Select a sleek, black broadtail jacket and have your furriers hold it for you until next fall, or buy that long dreamed of sports coat of leopard, or any other sports fur, and when football weather rolls around again you will be prepared for exposure to envious comments and nippy breezes.

Be a shrewd and clever shopper, scrape together all your worldly wealth, spend it for furs while prices are so unbelievably low and quite within the reach of every one!

Booksellers of U. S. Discuss Sales at Their New York Convention

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—The 32d convention of the American Booksellers' association opened today in the Hotel Pennsylvania with two long private sessions occupying the morning and the afternoon. The subjects discussed were business adjustment and sales production, the program for discussion having come out of a long series of regional conferences held late last winter and in the early spring.

Publishers have been invited to a closed meeting to be held tomorrow morning. The convention will close at night with the only social function on the program, a dinner.

The Publishers' Weekly for this week contains an editorial, headed "Down to Business."

"The history of every political or business organization," this editorial reads in part, "proves that only in desperate times do the varying groups get down to concrete programs of reform. It is unfortunate that such times provide all too little margin for experimentation and new efforts. The book trade is at an advantage, however, in having important studies completed on which the industry can begin work and there are signs that it is going to work immediately."

Correct Diet Will Preserve Perfect Teeth

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Even in our enlightened era it is startling to meet one approaching 50 who never has had a bit of bridge work done, nor a tooth extracted, nor any sign of decay in any tooth.

The one referred to as exhibiting this ideal state of teeth and mouth hygiene comes of a long line of "good teeth" people, of people who prided themselves on their teeth, of people who used conscientiously the best methods of preservation known to their generations. There unquestionably is inherited teeth and gum structure, as there is inherited hair texture, likeness of feature, and so on. But with the dental advance of the last quarter century in our country, teeth that are not so well endowed from the hereditary standpoint can be and often are raised to a fine old age.

There is some important work going on at the moment by a serious student body of medical-dental men on the influence of diet in teeth building and preservation. I am not at the moment privileged to give out the details of the experimenting that is going on. But already case after case is responding in terms of success beyond the hope of the investigators.

Diet is the hope of the future generations of perfect tooth builders. Not that we have overlooked its importance to date. We hear all the time about the vitamins that good teeth are built on. About vitamin C and vitamin D—dental vitamins, they might be called. Foods containing vitamins C and D are necessary to the development of sound teeth and bones in babies and growing children.

Furthermore, we know that a shortage of vitamins C and D has been found an important factor in the prevalence of tooth decay, gum troubles, and pyorrhea. The citrous fruits, oranges, lemons, and grapefruit are excellent sources of vitamin C. Vitamin D is supplied through eggs, milk, butter, the fibrous vegetables [the coarse ones and green leafy ones], and whole grain cereals.

A certain dentist known to me puts his patients on a two glass a day orange juice intake solely for the dental benefits accruing therefrom.

Miss Fairbank Will Sing in Berlin Friday

Chicago Girl Will Make German Debut.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF only Berlin weren't so far away. That is what all of Janet Fairbank's relatives and friends are wishing these days, for "Janet Jr." is to make her German debut as a singer in Berlin Friday night of this week and, needless to say, all those who are interested in her career wish that they could hear her and be with her on that momentous occasion.

She sang last winter here at one of the Kinsolving morning musicals and, although that was a never to be forgotten occasion for the debutante and her proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank—and her friends—yet I doubt if making a musical debut in one's own home town is quite as satisfying and thrilling an experience as singing professionally for the first time in a center of old world culture like Berlin.

Miss Fairbank will sing four groups of songs, Italian ones by Scarlatti, German by Schubert, French by Ravel, and English by Chicago's own John Alden Carpenter. The songs of Mr. Carpenter's which Miss Fairbank has selected to sing are "Serenade," "The Sleep That Flits on Baby's Eyes," "Silhouette," "The Cock Shall Crow," and "To a Young Gentleman."

The concert will be given—there is to be no assisting artist—in the Vechsteinsaal, the leading small concert hall of Berlin, and after it Miss Sigrid Schultz is giving a supper party for the debutante.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbank are to have a share in this, for they are planning to telephone their daughter at Miss Schultz's residence, and to talk to her then, even at such long distance, will be the next best thing to being there! Miss Fairbank will come home the last of June to spend the summer with her parents and brothers, Kellogg and Benjamin, at their Lake Geneva residence.

Mrs. Bosworth Entertained.

Our London correspondent writes that the two Americans who are being entertained the most in London just now are Ambassador Mellon and the former Frances Bosworth, now Mrs. Trevor D. Stamp. The Bosworth-Stamp wedding took place in Evanston on April 5, you will remember.

Mr. Mellon, going to London as he did at the beginning of the season, has his engagement book doubly full, for there are the functions that it is necessary for him to attend and also the vast amount of entertaining that is being done for him.

Lady Cunard was one of the first to invite the ambassador to a dinner party, and the Hon. Lady Bigham followed soon after. Both of these women are American born and are prominent in London society, so our correspondent says. She also says: "After Lady Bigham's dinner there was no tiresome cabaret but just talk—sophisticated international talk—and bridge."

Since their return to London Dr. and Mrs. Stamp have enjoyed a round of entertaining, starting with a large reception at the Dorchester hotel, which Sir Josiah and Lady Stamp gave to introduce their new daughter-in-law to London society. The prime minister and the foreign secretary regretted they could not come because of their absence in Geneva, but apparently they were the only people of consequence in London who were not among the 500 present, our informant assures us.

Dr. and Mrs. Stamp have taken a flat in a new large block of flats in Hurlingham-on-Thames. Lady Stamp is planning to present young Mrs. Stamp at court next season.

As a farewell party before she leaves to spend the summer at her residence in New Canaan, Conn., Mrs. Henry H. Reuss gave a supper party Sunday night at her Delaware place residence, at which some of the star performers of the "Breadline Frolics" gave a program. Now wasn't that a smart idea of Mrs. Reuss?

Miss Morton to Study In Europe.

Pretty Suzette Morton, who is a sophomore at Vassar this year, and has the distinction of being one of the daisy chain bearers, is to go to the Sorbonne in Paris next fall to continue her studies there. She will return the middle of June from college and will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Morton, in their apartment at 179 Lake Shore drive, and aboard their schooner yacht, Freedom, which just arrived in Chicago Monday from a winter cruise in West Indian waters.

Mrs. Morton's mother, Mrs. Heaton Owsley, will arrive at home from an eight months' world tour early in June, for the cruise ends in New York June 1, and Mrs. Morton thinks that her mother will come to Chicago soon after she lands.

Mr. and Mrs. William Waller Jr., with their children, Virginia, Francis, and William Waller III., will go to Harbor Point, Mich., in late June to spend the summer. Mrs. Waller's brother-in-law and sister, the Robert C. Wheelers, and their family will open their Harbor Point residence about the same time.

Miss Winifred Wheeler, who remained in the east to attend the Princeton junior prom after arriving in New York a fortnight ago from a trip to Europe and Africa with her mother and her cousin, Virginia Waller, has returned to Chicago and is making the stay-at-homes envious with stories of the trio's travel experiences.

Scott M. Douglas and his daughter, Miss Dixie Douglas, will return today to their residence on Indian Hill road in Winnetka from an extended trip through the south and east.

Miss Betty Crossett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark Crossett of 1200 Lake Shore drive, will go to California next week with her grandmother, Mrs. James Rankin, for a month's vacation. Her parents will

Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young existence between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. Mrs. Sully loves her three children blindly, but is unable to help them spiritually or physically. Cynthia, the oldest, has had a tragedy in her life. Lew, a year older than Esmee, has had little from life. Esmee can barely remember the days before her father's death when they had had a cheerful home. Jimmy Consadine forces Lew to introduce him to Esmee. Lew warns Esmee she'll make trouble unless she keeps away from Jimmy. She sees a lot of Jimmy, however, but finds him an unmanageable lover.

INSTALLMENT III.

A BROTHER'S APPEAL.

Esmee shook her head, looking at him with her eyes filled with tears. Jimmy's arms tightened about her; his fingers strayed to her neck, and she drew away.

"Aren't we going to be married, sweetheart? It's all right for you to come with me when you're my girl."

"Jimmy. . ." Esmee began in an unsteady but resolute voice. "I thought you meant that. I told every one we were engaged."

"So we are."

Again her eyes met his in that same look of half sorrowful, half scornful question. Then she turned away her head. When she spoke again her voice was steady, cool, casual.

"I've got an awfully nice date for tomorrow. A little cocktail party down in the village. Interesting people—artists and writers."

"But, Lew, if you can't pay it? What would happen?"

"Who's going to take you?" asked Jimmy briefly.

"No one. I'm——"

"What time is it?"

"Six o'clock. I'm——"

"You ought to be able to drink enough in an hour and a half," he said. "I'll meet you, half past seven, on the corner of Eighth street and Sixth avenue."

She did not want Jimmy to be waiting for her. She wanted that one evening free.

"I might not be able to get away by then," she demurred.

"That'd be just too bad," said Jimmy, mildly.

But there was a look on his face that dismayed her. She had hoped to impress him, to make him see her as not so forlorn, so friendless, but she had only angered him. He released her at once and glanced at his watch.

"I'd better be going," he said. "See you tomorrow, then, at seven-thirty."

She undressed and lay down beside Cynthia—despair in her heart.

"He could get married if he wanted to," she thought. "But there must be something horrible about me to make him feel like that. He doesn't want us to get married . . . he doesn't . . . that's not love."

She could not sleep. She lay wide awake in the dark trying to control her restlessness so that she would not disturb Cynthia. The rain was splashing down in the courtyard, a cat cried with a ghastly jungle yowl, and it seemed to her such a sorrowful night . . .

Then she heard the front door open stealthily; Lew always moved so quietly that it frightened her sometimes. She heard him stop in the kitchen. She waited for him to go on to his own room, but he was coming along the hall. His footsteps stopped; he was motionless out there in the dark.

"Lew?" she whispered.

"I want to speak to you," he said.

She climbed cautiously over Cynthia, took her dressing gown and went barefoot down the hall to the kitchen. Lew was in there sitting on the table. He was in his work clothes, a flannel shirt and old trousers.

"Been doing overtime, Lew, dear?" she asked.

But in her heart she knew something was wrong.

"O, what's happened?" she thought. "What has Lew done?"

Ever since she could remember it had been like this. There had always been, in her love for her brother, this dim dread. Even when they were children. She remembered, and would always remember, that day when Lew had accidentally let fall an envelope from one of his school books. She had picked it up and had seen that it was addressed to their father.

"O, Lew!" she had cried, "is it from the principal?"

He had looked at her sidelong, then with a smile he had torn the letter into little pieces. She had never learned what was in it, or what he had done. She never knew now what he had done or what he was doing.

"Es. . ." he said, "I want fifty bucks by day after tomorrow."

"F—fifty, Lew?" she faltered.

"That's what I said. I just wondered if you could get an advance from your office or something?"

"Lew, dear. What's happened?"

"I've got to pay for some missing tools."

"They're—lost, Lew?"

"The foreman's got it in for me," he said, and lit a cigaret. He looked cool and amused, but she saw that his hand trembled.

"But, Lew, if you can't pay it what would happen?"

"Well, what do you think?" he said.

"Lew! O please! Do you mean you'd lose your job or something worse than that?"

"Something worse—and how!" said Lew.

"He's never had a chance!" she cried to herself, forgiving him anything he had done, or ever would do.

Cynthia had had the best of it. She was the eldest, and when she had been little, Vincent Sully had still been able to combine drinking with working. He had been managing editor of a successful magazine. He had owned stock in the company, and though even then he had been beginning to go down hill, Cynthia had been to private schools, had studied art. Esmee, three years younger, had had more troubles, but even she had been to fairly good schools, even if it were in an anxious and miserable way, with the bills not paid, until she was fifteen. And after that ended, after she had spent two forlorn years moving from place to place after her father's death, her mother had somehow got money from an aunt to send her to a business school for a course.

But Lew had had less. He was a year older than Esmee, but he had had to go to work at 16—untrained, undernourished, reckless and defiant, always remembering his two years at a boarding school where he had got glimpses of a world now barred against him. Now at 19 he was an electrician's helper, and there seemed little likelihood of his ever doing much better. And there was in him so much that was fine, sensitive and generous; and so much that was desperate, insolent, and dangerous.

"You mean, Lew . . . you mean there might be serious trouble?"

He glanced at her scornfully and turned away, sat on the table, his slight shoulders hunched—his miserable, stormy eyes upon the ground. She spoke to him but he did not answer. She tried to stroke his hair but he jerked away his head.

"You're hungry, aren't you, Lew dear?" she asked, with tears running down her cheeks. "I'll get you something to eat."

"Give me a cup of coffee," he said.

She set the pot on the stove and got out a half loaf of bread. Lew in jail . . . tramping round and round a walled yard, sitting in a cell, his head in his hands.

"Lew . . . I'll see . . . Lew, don't, don't do anything until I see if I can get it?"

"I thought maybe you could get it at the office," he said with an assumption of carelessness. "Well, you can let me know tomorrow at dinner time."

"But I won't——" she began, and stopped, and thought. She knew very well that there was no chance at all of her getting fifty dollars at the office, but perhaps at that party? Perhaps Mrs. Morelli would lend it to her, or suppose there were an artist who wanted her to sit for him and would pay in advance? "I shan't be home to dinner, Lew," she said. "I'm going to a party."

"With that damned Consadine?" he said, fiercely.

"No. Some other people, Lew. So that if I don't get it at the office I think some one there——"

"A man?"

"A woman," she answered. "I'll be home quite early, my darling Lew, a little after eight. It's just a cocktail party."

"Look here!" he said. "You haven't any business to go to a cocktail party. You'll drink. You'll meet some fellow——"

"You know I'm not horrible like that, Lew," she said with simplicity.

"We're all—horrible," he said.

She poured out the coffee for him and watched him drink a cup.

"Lew, I'll do everything I can to get the money."

"I wish to God I'd never asked you," he said, and left her.

More than One Reason for the Fibs Men Tell

Unsympathetic Wife Is Sometimes Cause.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My husband is a very good husband. He seems almost perfect, BUT——"

"My wife is everything a man could ask for, BUT——"

That's the way married partnerships are presented, times without number. Always the emphasis on the imperfection!

Take a couple of friends outside of marriage. They'd say: "Yes, Jerry has his faults, but he's a grand person, nevertheless." Or, "Yes, Jane is funny that way, but she's a swell person just the same!" The emphasis is reserved for the good qualities, not for the personal idiosyncrasies.

If we could only introduce a little more of that spirit into marital friendships, wouldn't this be the tough old world for divorce lawyers!

Here's a wife who testifies "my husband is a very good husband. He seems almost perfect except for one thing. This hurts me something terrible. He has a bad habit of lying which I just can't stand."

Then the "lying" instances are related. They hover around money matters. The last "heartbreaking" occasion was when the husband borrowed $500 and told the wife it was $300 he borrowed. Work had been slack and the man's mother had to have an operation. This was what the money was borrowed for.

Well, it's no easy matter for a man to tell even a sympathetic wife, who may be going without things herself, that he was borrowing for his mother. His natural impulse would be to supply his wife with the money he felt was hers by right. Unable to do this, so as not to hurt her feelings, he might very well hedge on the amount. Besides men never enjoy the position of not being able to respond to the needs of their women. Then, where the wife is naturally suspicious and a little unsympathetic the temptation to minimize the sum held out on her is overpowering, indeed.

Except for a few natural born liars, people would rather tell the truth than lie. It's more comforting, and comfortable. There's some fear bogie directing the covering up of a deed. So, the wife confronted with the growing habit of concealment on a husband's part might inquire into her own part in the guilt. Anyway, it might help her to understand the motive behind the discrepancy between fact and fiction.

Hold Annual Benefit for Infant Home, Day Nursery

The Gold room of the Congress hotel resembled a colorful merchandise mart yesterday as keepers of booths sold wares so that the youngsters in the Infant Home and Day Nursery, 2754 Hirsch boulevard, might be assured of a place to stay another year. The Pageant of Progress is held each year by the auxiliaries of the home to raise funds for the maintenance. Merchants donated all the articles for sale. tomorrow afternoon will be devoted to a children's program.

New Numbers Are Added to Negro Revue

"RHAPSODY IN BLACK."

A revue invented and staged by Lew Leslie, with Ethel Waters as star; given at the Apollo theater May 17, 1932; return engagement.

The company:

Ethel Waters	Valaida
Berry Brothers	Cecil Mack's choir
Dusty Fletcher	Florence Hill
Blue McAllister	Elesbe Urgums
Pike Davis' Continental orchestra

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The gifted musicians and dancers of Lew Leslie's Negro revue, "Rhapsody in Black," have returned to Chicago for their second engagement of the season, and are now established at the Apollo theater. Their entertainment, which may be called a sacred and profane concert that richly testifies to the Negro musical talent, was extremely popular during its sojourn at the Garrick theater a few months ago. It rates as one of the novelties of the playgoing year.

The program contains three new numbers, recently staged. In the first act the brilliant voice of Geneva Washington is heard in a soaring anthem called "Lord, You Made the Night Too Long." In the second act the droll Ethel Waters, star of the company, expands her repertory with "My Man's Gone," and the versatile Miss Valaida offers "Humming to Myself."

The musicianship of this show is of a high order. Cecil Mack's arrangements of the spirituals and folk songs that are chanted by his robed choir are admirable.

Walter Huston will probably act George M. Cohan's rôle in "Confidential Service," now at the Grand Opera house, during the play's Broadway engagement, which will begin early in August. Mr. Cohan will close his company for the season next Saturday night. He is due in Hollywood June 1 to stage two talkies, which will be called "The Phantom President" and "The Eagle Screams."

Noel Coward's comedy, "Hay Fever," with Constance Collier as its star, to open at the Adelphi theater next Sunday night, will remain in Chicago only two weeks. Miss Collier will be supported by Eric Cowley, Anthony Kemble-Cooper, Betty Linley, Valerie Cossart, Edward Cooper, Terence Neill, Alice Belmore Cliffe, and Julia Hoyt.

After "Hay Fever" will come "Blessed Event," a comedy with a Broadway columnist as its central character. Alan Bunce will have the rôle that was acted in New York by Roger Pryor, and J. C. Nugent will appear in place of Sam Schneider. The other rôles will be in the hands of their original representatives.

Ralph T. Kettering, manager of the Adelphi, hopes that "Blessed Event" will be able to run through the summer. In August he will offer "Another Language," by Rose Franken, a play that scored a surprise hit in New York several weeks ago.

Little Theater Guild to Close Season Saturday

The Chicago Little Theater Guild will present Oscar Wilde's comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest," at the Francis Parker Auditorium, 330 Webster avenue next Saturday as its final production of the year. Martha Semelroth, secretary at the Chicago Teachers' College, 540 Wrightwood avenue, is to take the party of Lady Bracknell. The presentation will be unusual in that it is to be carried out in the style of the 90's, but entirely in black and white to introduce a feeling of the modern. Miss Nelle C. Wiley, the director, and Mrs. Luci Newman are creating the costumes and sets.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN

● Thousands of American women have found how Englishwomen keep their world-famous complexions so radiantly lovely. No longer is this final irresistible charm a mystery. The secret is Pears' Soap! England's favorite complexion care for over fourteen decades.

Get a cake of this translucent soap and watch its effect on your skin! Pears' generous lather gently stimulates the pores and brings the rose-petal color mounting to the surface. At all drug and department stores, wherever toilet goods are sold. Unscented, 15¢; scented, a trifle more. Pears' lasts and lasts!

Riding Injuries Take Big Toll in Hollywood

Stars Figure in Some Costly Accidents.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 17.—What the movies appear to need are fewer voice instructors and more and better riding instructors. This observation was called for by Jeanette MacDonald's temporary elimination from scenes opposite Chevalier in "Love Me Tonight" as a result of a horseback accident before the camera in which she suffered injuries to her right leg and ankle yesterday.

And Anna Q. Nilsson is still struggling to regain a foothold in pictures after the disastrous accident she underwent in 1927 when she fell off her horse while making a picture and broke a hip. The hip didn't mend properly and Miss Nilsson spent three years as a cripple.

Herbert Marshall will play the male lead opposite Marlene Dietrich in the much discussed "Blonde Venus," coming west with his wife, Edna Best, immediately after their stage run in "There's Always Juliette" closes on Broadway tomorrow. Marshall and Marlene are scheduled to start work here next Monday. He recently played with Claudette Colbert in "Secrets of a Secretary" and since then has been much sought by the picture barons. His agreement to come to Hollywood and bring his wife recalls Miss Best's first and only Hollywood effort when she was cast beside John Gilbert last year, but walked out of the picture and hurried back to New York because she got too lonesome for her husband. Both Marshall and Miss Best are English.

Kubec Glasmon, Chicago movie author, says his proudest moment came on his last visit from Hollywood to Chicago. As a boy not long in this country from Poland Glasmon lived in the neighborhood of Douglas boulevard and Lawndale avenue, where he watched interestedly at doings of the Bohemian club and used to gaze raptly at Ald. Anton Cermak and other celebrities of the district at the clubhouse doings.

"O, how I wished that I could grow up and be allowed in that club, and to mingle with the great men," Glasmon said. "And then during my last visit to Chicago I was photographed shaking hands with Mayor Cermak. I got my biggest kick out of that."

A tall, distinguished looking blond appeared inside the Paramount gates recently, told Helen Kopka, manager of the wardrobe department, that she had been sent for a test, and induced Miss Kopka to outfit her. She picked out a gown worn by Genevieve Tobin in "One Hour With You" and some of the studio jewelry. Next she appeared at the makeup offices and told the same story, varying it by pronouncing herself the niece of Mike Levee, head of the Screen guild. She exhibited a pass signed by Herman Mankiewicz, the writer, who later explained it was forged.

The entire proceeding was a little irregular, but sometimes the relatives of studio executives do show up irregularly and employés dislike to make bad feeling for themselves by being too inquiring, so they fixed up the tall blond for her test.

It wasn't until some one on the lot recognized her some time later that the cry was sent out and guards stationed at the exits from the studio to prevent anybody getting out. They located the girl in the extras' dressing room. With a gasp of relief the studio policewomen relieved her of the $3,000 worth of jewelry and furs. One extra, sorry for the girl, lent her a dressing gown, and now the sympathetic girl is sans a dressing gown, for the tall, distinguished looking blond slipped out a door and was gone for good.

Story of Two Children Stirs Old Memories

Sheila Kaye-Smith Pens Amusing Study.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Summer Holiday," by Sheila Kaye-Smith. [Harpers.] Published today.

SHEILA KAYE-SMITH.

SHEILA KAYE-SMITH, who has made her fame [if not as yet her fortune] with novels about Sussex, tales of the power of the land like the Hardy tales of Wessex, of primitive emotions, of simple folk, of hard and vigorous living, has, in "Summer Holiday," deserted everything that she formerly wrote about except the actual geographical scene.

"Summer Holiday" is no epic of the soil. It is a gay, amusing, penetrating study of very young child psychology. It is a collection of episodes in the lives of two little girls, Moira and Selina, who are sent to a farm five miles from Hastings for the summer. Their nurse is their god—a stern one—if not, according to their ideas, always a just one. Their most intimate playmates are creatures of their own imagination—Trimmer and Pearl, their two little girls—about whom they quarrel constantly, and a fourteen year old who lives next door to them in Hastings whom they call "Baa" because their introduction to her was through her bleating like a sheep.

The daughters of the farmer with whom they are garrisoned during their parents' trip to the continent are so much more adult for their age than Selina and Moira that they seem to the two little girls rather ideals of freedom and self-determination than children like themselves.

About Children, For Adults.

"Summer Holiday" is not a book for children. It belongs in the class of books about children for adults which renew childish memories and bring chuckles of one's own mischievous childhood.

Moira and Selina are really very good little girls. They have none of the qualities of modern childish viciousness about which so much is written and spoken these days, but they do manage to get into all sorts of complications and they do have a distressing time making life seem logical to themselves.

To readers who like that kind of book "Summer Holiday" is a rare joy. The book which was of late the supreme example of the type was "High Wind in Jamaica" or "The Innocent Voyage" as it was called alternately in England and the United States and in different editions. Richard Hughes wrote in it a macabre tale, but caught superbly the psychology of children, so superbly that it has come to be a classic even these few months after its appearance. There is nothing macabre about "Summer Holiday," but it has the same intense reality of childhood in it that made Mr. Hughes' volume unforgettable.

Each chapter concerns a different episode, and together they make a panorama of the summer holiday. Nothing, from the adult point of view, happens of any importance in the pages, and yet they chronicle the very breath of life of the children.

Stirs Memories of Childhood.

The book is dedicated "To Moira in Loving Memory," which makes one think that perhaps the Moira of the book might have been a younger sister or a childhood friend of Sheila Kaye-Smith. Certainly the book is written with all of the charm and reality of "dear remembered things." It might well be the record of the author's own childhood, richly treasured. It is also the record of childish memories which countless readers will share with her.

Few of us, of course, have spent summers on a Sussex farm, but many of us have spent summers on American farms, seen puppies just after they were born, suffered agonies when we discovered that some of them had been drowned, been terrified at the smell of a barn in ashes, been thrilled at special treats, had hours in the lowest pits of despair because we were denied the one thing that we wanted in the world [most of us still are, and perhaps our adult yearnings are of little more moment than our childish yens for a stick of licorice!]

Many of us have looked upon genius and beauty at a distance as the children did upon the woman who took the part of Dick Whittington in the pantomime, and, when we met it face to face, found it as disillusioning as they found the beautiful Rosie Potter when she descended from her pedestal and implanted a moist kiss upon their noses just like any ordinary human being. Who of us has forgotten the special and particular rag doll, or headless toy horse or stuffed cat that solaced and charmed us at the age of six? What are all the modern songs about life and bowls of cherries and that kind of thing but relics of days when life was a cotton dog with shoe button eyes?

open their summer estate at Wianno, Mass., on June 1 and their youngest daughter, Miss Carolyn Crossett, will join them when her term ends at the Shipley school at Bryn Mawr.

Mrs. Ellwood Offutt of the Churchill hotel and her daughter, Miss Nelle Offutt, will depart tomorrow to spend the summer at their estate at Oakland, Me. Seymour Offutt's job will keep him in Chicago during most of the summer, but he plans to spend a few weeks with his mother and sister later in the season.

Mrs. Offutt's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr., and their family, will close their Chicago residence on June 4 and go east for the summer.

Miss Irene Wilson of 209 Lake Shore drive departed yesterday to open the residence at Westbrook, Conn., where she and her father, Walter H. Wilson, spend every summer. Mr. Wilson plans to join his daughter soon. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O. Goodman, who also will spend the summer at Westbrook, will depart for the east today. Their granddaughters, Marjorie and Kay Goodman, the daughters of Mrs. James M. Hopkins, will visit them in late July, when Marjorie returns from Europe with her mother after her presentation in June at the court of St. James's.

Leander McCormick, who was here for a very short visit last week, has gone to New York and will sail soon for England, where he has been residing for several years. He has leased an English country estate for the summer.

Two Births Are Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Illsley [Elizabeth Montgomery] of Evanston and Pasadena announce the birth of a son on April 30 in Pasadena. The baby bears his father's name, but his nickname is "Punch." He has a sister named Judy.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Francis S. Starr of Cambridge, Mass., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on May 6. Mrs. Starr was formerly Dorothy Simpson of Chicago. Mr. Starr heads the Harvard archaeology expedition with headquarters at Kirkuk, Iraq, and made the discovery of the oldest map in the world on his last trip on which Mrs. Starr accompanied him.

Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy of 1246 North State street has issued invitations for a tea and lecture by Dr. Horace J. Bridges on "The Psychology of Parenthood" next Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at her residence. Mrs. Eddy is chairman of the Chicago auxiliary of the Cradle, under whose auspices the affair is being given.

An important social event of the week in Winnetka is the concert to be given by the choir of Christ church Friday night at the parish house, and a committee of Winnetka's most prominent women is working to make a success of it. After the program there is to be a dance for the choir and ex-choir boys and their friends, and bridge tables will be set up for parents and older friends in the guild room, and refreshments will be served.

The annual Chicago-North Shore music festival, which always occasions a lot of gayety and entertainment in Evanston, will be held next week at Patten gymnasium of Northwestern university. There will be five concerts, on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights and Saturday afternoon.

Boxholders include Edwin S. Mills, Theodore W. Robinson, Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Price, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Spofford, Miss Cornelia Lunt, Mrs. Benjamine F. Adams, Harold H. Swift, Mrs. James A. Patten, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Shaffer, James Scott Kemper, Addison L. Gardner Jr., Mrs. Charles O. Barnes, Mrs. Louis B. Kuppenheimer, Lyman F. Drake, and Chancellor Jenks, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wilder, William A. Dyche, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Oates, Mr. and Mrs. Lansing B. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Rew, and Mrs. William Sherman Hay.

Might Create a Problem, Says Mrs. Bevans.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Question—"Will you kindly advise me on some of the best books of poems, rhymes, and stories for little child of 3½ years?

"This little girl eats well and sleeps well. She plays outdoors, is happy as a lark, and has never presented any problem except this: I find it rather difficult to have her get up before people and recite anything in a small crowd. Do you think I should try harder to make her learn little rhymes and recite them?"

Answer—To your first question: Instead of giving you the names of stories and poems I am sending you my booklet, "The Littlest Bookshelf," which pays especial attention to reading for young children.

To your second question my answer is, let your little girl alone as far as committing things to memory is concerned and reciting for people. You have a fine, happy, normal child. Let well enough alone.

Read nursery rhymes and other suitable poetry to her. She will want the same ones over and over—they all do at this age. Repetition and familiar rhythms appeal to them. If she learns from hearing you read the same thing again and again, all right. But don't force memorizing. And omit the attempt to have your little girl recite for people. You have no problem now—but you may have one if you try to get her to perform.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former President, has returned to Sagamore Hill, Oyster Bay, L. I., after a few weeks' sojourn abroad. Mrs. Roosevelt went over to visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Richard S. Derby, who have been abroad since October.

Mrs. Robert Bacon is passing the spring at Old Acres, her country home at Old Westbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Jr. gave a luncheon yesterday for her sister, Lady MacNeal, wife of Sir Hector MacNeal.

The estate of Lady Amabel Wilmot of sixteen acres near Roslyn, L. I., has been sold to Percy N. Furber of New York City. It is opposite the country home of John D. Ryan.

Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen has gone to Tuxedo Park for the summer.

The problem before the house is—what to do with leftover coffee? It may seem like a small matter, the throwing away of a cup or two of strong, fresh coffee each morning when friend husband hurries off without his "second," or the spirit moves us to put in an extra cup for a possible early morning guest who doesn't arrive. But those cups of golden savoriness really mean good coffee grounds. And in these days, when necessity and public sentiment are demanding economy in the kitchen as well as in the business office, the waste of a food or flavoring which could be put to good use goes decidedly against the grain.

But don't misunderstand me! While my thrifty Scotch conscience may egg me on to concocting delightful icy coffee bavarians, coffee charlotte russes, coffee cream puffs, and mocha cakes, candies, parfaits, and puddings out of the morning leftover, I actually get out the pots and pans not because I know I should [dreadful confession], but because I love to!

We haven't talked candies for a long time, so why not start there? An especially delightful coffee recipe I discovered recently is for coffee nut pralines. I believe you'll like it, for it starts with a regular coffee fudge and becomes a praline by the addition of a large proportion of nuts or cocoanut. And girls, how the men love it!

COFFEE NUT PRALINES.

2 cups medium light brown sugar
¾ cup strong coffee
¼ cup butter
½ teaspoon vanilla or almond extract
⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts

Cook together all the ingredients except the flavoring and nuts until a soft ball can be formed when sirup is dropped into cold water [about 233 degrees F.]. Add the nuts, or if you wish, an equal amount of shredded cocoanut, and beat until creamy and thick enough to hold its shape. Drop by large spoonful on a buttered slab or waxed paper.

Coffee caramels are easily made, too. For these the following recipe gives tasty results: Mix together ½ cup each of strong coffee and milk, and add to this 2-3 cup of molasses, 3¼ cups brown sugar, 2 squares of melted chocolate and 3 tablespoons of butter. Cook the candy gently until it reaches the firm ball stage [248 degrees F.]. Add ½ teaspoon of vanilla and ¾ cup of nuts, if desired. Beat vigorously and cool in a buttered pan. Cut in squares before completely cooled.

Coffee fondant and coffee cream drops are my other favorites in the coffee confection line. For the fondant I simply use strong hot coffee instead of water—going by my pet recipe for simple fondant. Brown sugar substituted for white gives an additional you-guess-it flavor. And this same recipe may be cajoled into becoming coffee cream drops by pouring it into small mounds from a fine spouted pitcher onto waxed paper. A dip in bitter chocolate makes the creams that much better for many bonbon lovers.

Or are you planning an ice cream freeze before long? Then make it coffee ice cream. Any good recipe will do. Merely scald one-third cup of coffee grounds with the milk, strain, cool and proceed as per usual. Coffee nut meringue is something else again—but powerfully good! For it I use a standard parfait recipe, substituting coffee for the water indicated. Pile this lightly into meringue shells and serve with whipped cream and a sprinkling of nuts or with coffee butterscotch sauce.

If you Put the Problem up to your Baby... there'd be no question about HIS CHOICE!

IF little Mr. Three-months-old could speak for himself, what a lot of guessing he'd save his mother! For he knows, better than anyone, the kind of powder that's best for his skin, and he'd vote immediately for Z.B.T.

What a glorious feeling it is for Baby as the soft, white talcum from the Z.B.T. can rains down over his dimpled body. Little tremors of delight travel his backbone from end to end and a delicious coolness spreads over him.

But there is more than a good time at stake. Baby's health and comfort are also insured by this mildly medicated compound talc . . . Z.B.T. contains a special ingredient which soothes the skin, neutralizes dangerous acids, and counteracts every agency of irritation.

Your druggist or chain store sells Z.B.T. in three sizes—50c, 25c and 10c. Reject substitutes! Get a can of Z.B.T. today and test it yourself. Or, if you prefer, mail the coupon, with 4 cents to cover postage, and we'll gladly send you a full-size "Junior" can.

PROCLAMATION TO THE WOMEN OF CHICAGO AND COOK COUNTY

During these trying times it is to the women—the homemakers of the nation—we turn for aid and counsel to protect and succor their less fortunate sisters.

Every day brings a new appeal for help and our organized women never fail.

Today I have met with members of the committee working for the success of the Gala Festival to be held at the Chicago Stadium May 18. The affair is being sponsored by the Woman's Benefit Association and the Federated Council of Business and Professional Women—proceeds to be used for the relief of unemployed business and professional women.

The cause is most worthy and I earnestly urge every woman in Chicago and Cook County who has an income to co-operate for the success of this affair. I am happy to endorse the sincere work of the committee in charge.

CHILD need REGULATING?

CASTORIA WILL STRAIGHTEN HER OUT

Of course you are particular about the medicines you give your child. You want no harmful drugs, no narcotics in a child's medicine.

When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged—never forced.

That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments. It contains nothing that can harm a child's tender organs.

Castoria is so mild you can safely give it to a young infant to ease colic pains. Yet, gentle as it is, it is unfailingly effective. Larger doses keep older children well regulated. And babies and children alike love its taste—never object to taking Castoria!

The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's remedy. The genuine Castoria always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

METHODISTS GET DIVIDED VIEWS ON PROHIBITION

Standing Board and Men's Council Differ.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 17.—(AP)—The board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church today entered before the general conference an opinion on prohibition differing from that adopted by the conference's men's council.

It disavowed flatly the statement of Prof. George Croft Cell of Boston university that Methodists "confess the tragic blunder of temperance thought and strategy since 1917."

D. Stewart Patterson in an address asserted the board makes "no such admission of a 'tragic blunder'" and assailed wet propaganda as misrepresenting the youth of America as opposed to prohibition.

Prof. Cell's statement, approved by the men's council on Sunday as its official document, said the dry cause was fighting "with its back to the wall" and in grave peril of defeat. Some conference delegates later termed both the address and its adoption as "unwise."

Says Youth Are Sober.

Patterson cited the youth of America as a bulwark against defeat of the prohibition cause. "It is an infamous insult," he said, "to say that the young people of today are a drunken, debauched gin soaked, hell raising generation." He scouted reports of increasing drinking at colleges and universities.

Criticizing society women working for prohibition reform for statements that the youth of the country were a "drinking class," Patterson asserted that "when they say such things they are speaking of and indicting their own children, not the children of sober parents."

"If you leave prohibition to the young people," he promised, "something will be done about it."

Deets Pickett, another member of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, said prohibition was "facing a perilous situation," but that the dry battle cry of the hour was: "Fight, not surrender."

James B. Pritchard cited biblical research in support of the thesis that Jesus did not make intoxicating wine in his miracle at the marriage feast of Cana. The wine was sweet and not alcoholic, he said.

Peoria Pastor Gains in Voting.

Another day of balloting for two new bishops ended with Dr. J. Ralph Magee of Seattle, Wash., holding a commanding lead but losing votes on the final ballot. His high point came on the eighth ballot when with 514 votes he was only 39 short of the two-thirds necessary for election.

Dr. Joseph M. M. Gray of Detroit finished second with 362 votes after consistent gains. The surprise of the voting was supplied, however, by Dr. W. E. Shaw of Peoria, Ill., who came up from the low tally of 80 to 243 to take third place. He picked up approximately fifty votes on each of the last three ballots.

TRAIN SAVES WOMEN AND CHILDREN IN RACE WITH A FOREST FIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, May 17.—The village of Val Alain, 45 miles south of the city of Quebec, was virtually destroyed by a forest fire today. Twenty houses, a church, railway station, and the wooden bridge over Riviere au Chene were burned. Only five houses were left standing.

A Canadian National railway train arrived just as the fire was at its height and the women gathered their children and a few personal effects and were carried away, while the men remained to battle the flames.

The fire started in the brush about a mile from town. Despite efforts of nearly 100 men of the village and neighboring districts, it swept forward and enveloped the village.

A shifting wind saved the twin mining towns of Rouyn and Noranda from destruction today. Some small buildings at Kirkland Lake and Rosegrove were burned, but heavy rains and snow lessened the threat from the forest fires that have been raging for several days in northern Ontario.

TRUST COMPANY MANAGER DRIVES OFF BANDIT GANG

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—Six armed bandits, wearing the collars of their topcoats pulled about their faces and their hats shielding their eyes, today entered the Bronx County Trust company, in the Bronx. After gaining entrance to the tellers' cage they shot and critically wounded a guard. While employes and customers scattered for safety, they fought it out with the manager, Frank J. Reilly, who picked up a revolver kept in a drawer.

The bandits made for the door without obtaining any loot.

Then, brushing by a woman at the entrance, they made their way to a parked sedan in which a seventh man was waiting. One of the bandits was seen to stagger, as if wounded, but two of his companions supported him and he gained the car.

Passing motorists chased the car several blocks, but the bandits escaped.

Later, the abandoned automobile was found. It bore license plates issued to a different make of car.

The bandits left in their wake a scene of wild confusion. Crowds stormed the bank. Police cars, with sirens screaming, raced to the scene. The radio and teletype carried the warning and the man hunt was on. It was still on late tonight.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 17.—Forget, won't you, that they did it against the Red Sox? Remember only that the Chicago White Sox today won another ball game, 7 to 3, to lift their winning streak to three victories, a new high in their 1932 experience.

This happy accomplishment was executed at the expense of Danny MacFayden, a young man who slapped them down no fewer than five of the twelve times they lost to the Red Sox last year. And since no White Sox encounter these days is complete without an alumni note we hasten to inform you that the triumph today was executed by Milton Gaston, late of these vanquished Red Sox.

So it turns out three Chicago pitchers—Frasier, Lyons, and Gaston—have won their first 1932 victories in this fair city, and hope runs high that, having broken the ice, these three splendid gents will now be able to find other teams in the league who will yield to their artistry.

Wholesale Slayings Help.

It cannot be said truthfully that the Chicago batsmen rioted with their bats. They knocked out only seven hits, but as was the case yesterday, when they made only six hits, Red Sox inefficiency was sufficiently in evidence to enable them to win handily.

The Red Sox outhit the White Sox rather emphatically, knocking out ten safe ones, but the Chicago defense flourished with five double plays, in three of which runners were sunk at the plate. Gaston started all three of these run destroyers, and another one as well. Berry, another ex-Bostonese, figured in the three double killings that caught runners at the plate.

Some idea of the way things broke for our long suffering fellows, who certainly need all the breaks they can get, even against another tortured team, can be derived from the fact that in the fifth inning the Red Sox started off with a single, a double, and a single, from which they acquired but one run, while in the next inning the Chicagoans made three runs on one single.

They Start Late.

Each team wasted a double and a base on balls in the first inning, and thereafter almost complete quiet prevailed for three innings. In the fifth inning, however, both teams busted loose a hit, the Chicago Sox making two runs and the Boston Sox being held to one run by some neat defensive play.

The Chicago manufacture started with a base on balls to Appling, who forthwith stole second. Berry filed to Oliver, but Gaston lined a single to center, Appling stopping at third. Funk singled to right, Appling scoring and Gaston reaching third. Gaston scored while Selph was forcing Funk, and Selph was out trying to steal second.

In their half of the fifth the Red Sox opened up as if they were bent on a million runs. Rhyne singled to right and stopped at third on Tate's double to the far distant right field fence. MacFayden singled to left, Rhyne scoring and Tate stopping at third. On the next maneuver the White Sox executed an unusual double play. Olson slapped a grounder at Gaston and Milt threw to Kress at second to force MacFayden. Instead of completing the double play the easy way, Kress threw to Berry in time to get Tate at the plate. The inning was over when Olson tried to steal second.

Hits or No, Sox Score.

In the Chicago sixth inning three runs were accomplished, though the batsmen were held to one single. Seeds walked and when Kress bunted, Tate attempted to force Seeds with a

A STREAM OF HORSES

Tannery Just 1 Track Hoss? Not This Time

BY FRENCH LANE.

Tannery, the horse which the shrewdest dopesters claimed could win only on the 100 year old track in Lexington, blasted all such theories into a million pieces when he came from behind and galloped to victory in the Wright handicap at Aurora yesterday.

Gliding in his best stride over the lightning fast Aurora track, he made up ground coming down the stretch like a huge machine might do it, passed the flying Portmanteau a sixteenth of a mile from home and went on to win by two and a half lengths.

Supreme Sweet, which had fought it out with Portmanteau for the lead throughout the early stages, and gave up the struggle midway in the stretch, staggered home to save third money. Sherab, the Englishman, was fourth. The others were strung out badly behind him.

Always Promising—Then.

It was Tannery's spectacular running at Lexington as a 3 year old that made him almost an even money choice with Gallant Fox to win the Kentucky Derby of 1930. But Tannery never accomplished anything after leaving Lexington.

It was his brilliant running at Lexington early in the spring of 1931 that made him a popular choice to win all the big western stakes for older horses. Yet after he left Lexington he was just another race horse.

It was the three smashing victories he scored at Lexington this spring that caused him again to move into Chicago as a strong bidder for handicap honors. Yet in his first two starts at Aurora he was soundly beaten. So the cry went up "Tannery can run only at Lexington."

Does Considerable Running.

Tannery did considerable running at Aurora to win the handicap yesterday. In the early stages Supreme Sweet and Portmanteau were winging along some four lengths in front of him. When Portmanteau finally conquered Supreme Sweet in the stretch he loomed as a certain winner. But coming down the middle of the track was Tannery, eating up so much ground at every stride he had soon passed Supreme Sweet and was up on even terms with Portmanteau. Then he passed up Portmanteau and went on to win as Jockey Tracy Vercher pleased.

Tannery ran the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5, fractions less than Dr. Freeland ran it last Saturday. But he possibly could have accomplished his BATTING AND PENNANTS.

TO those of us aroused to intoxicated hopes of a 1932 pennant by the Cubs' unexpected flying start, it is somewhat sobering to look at the team batting averages. True, we realized the north siders were winning by spectacular fielding and effective pitching coupled with clustered rather than superabundant hits, but to find them at the extreme bottom of the heap in team hitting is something else again. Yet there they were in the unofficial averages published Sunday with .247, compared to .285 for New York.

So The Wake, seeking solace for ourself and Cub rooters, turned back to the records for the last eight years to see if any precedent could be found for a gonfalon under existing conditions. This search result was dismal, but not quite as dismal as we had anticipated. It was less dismal only in that, based on the past, it is not necessary for a team to lead in batting to snare the championship. It is necessary, however, on these returns to bat as a team in fourth place or better.

Taking both the National and American leagues for the last eight years, 16 pennants, the champions lead their leagues in batting only five times out of 16. That shows what pitching and fielding will do. No team batting lower than fourth, however, won a flag in this period. Twice in eight years the leading batting team finished in the second division, Philadelphia of the Nationals fifth in 1929, when the Cubs won, and Detroit of the Americans sixth in 1929, when the Athletics won.

Here is the table for those who care for that sort of thing:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

1925—Washington	2	.303	Phila	2 .307
1924—Washington	4	.294	Detroit	3 .298

Estelle's Dream House Goes Under Auction Hammer

Hollywood, Cal., May 17.—(AP)—The dream home of Estelle Taylor, known as the house that Jack built, went under an auctioneer's hammer today, together with its contents. As the mementoes of a broken romance were sold the actress was busy at her newly enlarged cottage at Malibu beach, the movie colony. Her divorced husband, Jack Dempsey, recently returned to manage his hotel here.

YANKS WIN, 3-2, BUT INDIANS END HOPE FOR RECORD

Averill's Homer Breaks Up Scoreless Innings.

New York, May 17.—(AP)—The Yankees steamed past the eighth stop in a runaway winning streak today, beating Cleveland for the third straight day, 3 to 2, but failed to crack the American league record for scoreless innings.

Needing to hold the opposition without a marker for but one more inning to equal the record of 41 consecutive scoreless sessions set up by Cleveland 29 years ago, young Johnny Allen, who started the Yankee string of shutouts, grooved one for Earl Averill in the first inning and the Indian center fielder smashed a home run into the right field bleachers. The consecutive scoreless inning streak thereby stopped at 40.

Allen recovered to hold the Indians to seven hits, but he was outpitched by Mel Harder and needed the finest sort of fielding to pull him through As Allen weakened in the seventh Lazeri's stabbing catch of Morgan's liner snuffed out a threat, and two lightning double plays, the first in the eighth with the bases loaded and the second in the ninth, pulled Allen's game from the fire. BROWNS ROUT SENATORS, 11-2.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—(AP)—Walter Johnson's Senators went into an eclipse after shining through the first inning today and lost their third straight game to the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 2. Bob Burke, left hander, held no secrets in his pitching, the Browns pounding him for three hits in the first inning and cracking out six more in the fourth off him and Ragland for six runs. Bob Friedrich made his major league debut by hurling the last two innings for Washington. Blaeholder steadied after the first inning and kept the Senators in check with ten hits.

FOXX AND TERRY GAIN, BUT BIG 6 LIST UNCHANGED

Jimmie Foxx and Bill Terry made big gains in the Big Six standing yesterday. Each got three hits, Foxx gaining 12 points in the averages and Terry 16. Their feats, however, brought no changes in the standing.

Chick Hafey and Carl Reynolds each made one hit, Hafey dropping eight points and Reynolds five. Bill Dickey lost eleven by failing to hit in two official times at bat. Standing:

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

One inning was sufficient for the Cubs' purposes yesterday. In seven of them they displayed nothing more than the customary feebleness on attack, but all that can be overlooked. Into the seventh they tossed about all the tricks known to the trade and pulled out a cluster of eight runs which lowered the bothersome Phillies to a 9 to 4 defeat in the third of the series. It was the high water inning of the season for the league leaders, who previously hadn't exceeded the half dozen mark.

Until the storm of hits, errors, and passes broke loose the Phillies were headed straight for a winning finish. They nicked Charley Root hard enough to make his removal advisable. They also nicked Young Bud Tinning a bit, but didn't shake him loose from his job. The activity against these two pitching gentlemen served to provide the visitors with a lead of 4 to 1. But with prosperity staring him in the face, Ed Holley blew up, his mates did a little of their own copyrighted clowning, and the decision changed hands.

Hits, Walks, and Errors.

Before the Cubs could be induced to quiet down in their record assault, thirteen of them stepped to the plate to try their luck. Six of them hit safely, one as the result of a runner being touched by a batted ball. Three walked, two off Chet Nichols, whose rescue attempt was out short by Snipe Hansen's appearance. Three fielding blunders, a pair by Friberg and one by Whitney, added to the confusion. And just to prove that it was an unusual session, Gabby Hartnett, who recently has heard some unkind remarks about his fondness for bumping into double plays, surprised the folks by beating out a bunt on a squeeze play.

In the early innings the Cubs did just enough to sustain the interest of the limited number in attendance. Richbourg opened the battle by beating out a bunt and continuing to second on Whitney's wide throw. Herman fanned, English bounced to Friberg, and Moore boosted to Klein. Grimm furnished another opportunity in a small way in the second. He dropped a double out in Klein's precinct, but two were gone when this happened and Jurges expired on strikes.

Cubs Make Threat in Third.

For a few moments in the third it looked as if the Cubs might really get Holley on the losing side of the ledger temporarily. Root took the three swings customary for a pitcher. Richbourg followed with a single to center and Herman walked. English filed deep into [illegible] but Lee was under it. Moore bounced a drive high to the pitcher, but not high enough to prevent Holley from throwing him out. Grimm survived again in the fourth, this time with a single after two were out, but Jurges forced him.

Root's troubles, until the Phillies finally concentrated in the fifth, were few and far between. He walked Bartell with one out in the first, but the next two men were retired on infield taps. The next Phil to approach first base was Brickell, who scratched a single past Herman after two were gone in the third. Hartnett flagged him in an attempted steal. Klein singled to right after Bartell had flied out in the fourth. Klein also became a victim of Hartnett's throwing arm. Hurst ended the inning with a fly grabbed by Richbourg close to the fence. It would have been something more than a fly if the wind hadn't been heading in from the east.

Phils Dent Root in Fifth.

BLIGHTER TURNS 13 LONG FACES TO $710 SMILES

26 to 1 Shot, Nardo Pay in Sportsman's Double.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

When the field in the third race at Sportsman's Park yesterday trotted to the post there were 13 betters in the crowd of more than 8,000 who must have been wondering why they had chosen Blighter for the second half of their daily double. The 13 had seen Nardo, their choice in the first portion of the combination, come from behind to win at 10 to 1, but after looking over the rest of the field in the third, Blighter couldn't have looked so hot to them. He had won only one race in 15 starts this year, and a third was his best at Sportsman's Park. Then, too, he was running against such good ones as Shasta Lad, Ultimate Vote, Guffle, and My Beauty.

The straight betters could not see Blighter at less than 26 to 1, and that's the price at which he went to the post. The 13 holders of the Nardo-Blighter combination sat back with long faces and hoped for the best while fearing for the worst. They didn't realize then that Blighter was going to be the hero of the biggest form reversal of the meeting and that the horse would send each of them home with $710.60, the largest daily double payoff at Sportsman's Park.

And 13 of 'Em Sit Up.

The 13 sat back and Blighter didn't do much to cheer them up on the first trip around the little oval. Marabou, My Beauty, Ultimate Vote, Guffle, and Wining Hand were doing all of the running. But the thirteen straightened up when Jockey Pat Remillard woke Blighter in the middle of the back stretch on the last time around. The four year old gelding rubbed his eyes and began to move by horse after horse. He was fifth coming into the stretch and 13 betters began to help Remillard bring him home. Half way there he caught Marabou and Guffle, who were battling for the lead, he was running away from them at the finish, but no faster than the now lucky 13 were sprinting to the cashier's window. In the straight mutuels he paid $55.48. Marabou was second and Guffle third.

Nardo, another long shot, came up with a stretch run similar to Blighter's to beat Noon Play and Eddie Lehman. He paid $22.94 in the $2 mutuels and completed a double for Jockey E. Gross, who had brought Princess Black home in the first.

Jockey Taylor Is Thrown.

It was in the opener that the daily thrill was supplied by Walter Taylor, who was aboard George Maypole. That is, he was aboard George until a nor'easter swept him off the deck just after the clubhouse turn. He picked himself up, however, and came back to ride Miss Brilliant to an easy victory in the fourth. This speedy filly hadn't been out since opening day at the Cicero track, but the manner in which she won then inspired fans to make her an even money choice at post time. She won by a length from Col. Cloister, with Princess Val third. She paid $4.80 in the mutuels.

Considerable betting was done on Hiecver and King Cherokee when the Melrose Park purse came around, but the regulars seemed to have forgotten that it was about time for one of George Collins' thistle horses to win a race. This time it was Thistle Telee and despite the fact that Johnny McLaren was riding him, he went to the barrier at 10 to 1. Johnny didn't begin to get him going until the middle of the stretch, but he responded and went on to whip King Cherokee and Polly's Folly. He rewarded his followers with $21.52.

Jockey R. Allen was suspended for ten days for a rough ride on Winning Hand in the third race.

DYCHE STADIUM TO BE SCENE OF OLYMPIC TRIALS

Final Olympic tryouts for the decathlon and preliminary track and field Olympic tryouts will be held at Dyche stadium June 24 and 25. Racine Thompson, chairman of track and field for the Central A. A. U., announced this yesterday.

At the same time Chairman Thompson announced that there would be no Central A. A. U. outdoor championships.

The semi-finals in the track and field trials will be held at Dyche stadium July 2 and those qualifying in these events will be eligible to compete in the finals at Palo Alto, Cal., later in the month.

The track and field events for the preliminary tryouts on June 24 and 25 will be the 100 meter run, 200 meter run, 400 meter run, 600 meter run, 1,500 meter run, 5,000 meter run, 10,000 meter run, 3,000 meter steeplechase, 110 meter hurdles, 400 meter hurdles, high jump, broad jump, hop, step and jump, pole vault, javelin throw, discus throw, shot put and hammer throw.

Five events in the decathlon will be run off on the 24th and five on the following day.

*Field. Time, :23 4-5, :47 3-5, 1:13 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Andromeda, $5.20 straight, $4.20 place, $3.40 show; Noel's Dress, $9.72 place, $7.32 show; Thomas Seth, $3.38 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 2:55½. At post 1¼ minutes.

ANDROMEDA was outrun to the last eighth, then came fast under hard urging to get to the front near the finish and win going away. NOEL'S DRESS closed fast on the outside and was running rapidly. THOMAS SETH raced RED VEST into defeat, but weakened in the last fifty yards. ANALYST showed a good effort and finished close up.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

*Field. Time, :23 3-5, :47 4-5, 1:13 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Tewsenelda, $24.58 straight, $11.44 place, $8.82 show; Bellarion, $7.96 place, $6.66 show; Golden Light, $6.24 show. Winner trained by F. Stockwell. Went to post at 3:26. At post 4 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

TEWSENELDA was outrun to the stretch, then came strongly and, cutting the outside, caught BELLARION in the last ten yards to win going away. BELLARION came on slowly, but greatly improved form to get to the front in the last sixteenth, but could not last. GOLDEN LIGHT also was slow to get going, but raced into contention after going a half mile and took a short lead at mid-stretch, but could not last.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Two year old maidens. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

*Field. Time, :23 4-5, :47 4-5, 1:00. Two dollar mutuels paid: Sunnyside Up, $5.42 straight, $3.68 place, $2.88 show; Monks Bela, $4.84 place, $3.88 show; Friend John, $3.48 show. Winner trained by J. Manale. Went to post at 3:57. At post 2 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

SUNNYSIDE UP, close to the pace at all times, responded gamely to hard riding to outstay MONKS BELA in the last sixteenth to win going away. MONKS BELA dashed to the front soon after the start and set a good pace, but hung slightly near the finish. FRIEND JOHN was always close up, but also weakened slightly.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Three year olds and up. The Harry G. Wright handicap. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Horse and jockey—	Wt	PP	St	¼	½	⅝	Str	Fin	Eq odds

OUTBOUND [Critchfield]	101	5	6	6	6	6	6	6	7.60-1

Time, :23 2-5, :47 1-5, 1:12 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Tannery, $5.32 straight, $3.10 place, $2.46 show; Portmanteau, $4.48 place, $2.88 show; Supreme Sweet, $2.62 show. Winner trained by R. Cunningham. Went to post at 4:28½. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving.

TANNERY was under slight restraint to the stretch, then came fast on the outside under hard urging to pass the early leaders in the last furlong and win with something to spare. PORTMANTEAU was closest to the pace in the early stages and outlasted SUPREME SWEET in the final run. SUPREME SWEET set a fast pace, but weakened when put to a drive.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

BUNYORA [Cooper]	113	8	8	8	8	8	8	8	21.60-1

Time, :24 3-5, :48 3-5, 1:14 1-5, 1:40 3-5, 1:47 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Southland Boy, $14.32 straight, $6.50 place, $4.28 show; Vanquish, $4.92 place, $4.24 show; Halliard, $3.98 show. Winner trained by A. Swenke. Went to post at 4:50. At post ¼ minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

SOUTHLAND BOY, outrun early, came to the outside in the stretch and finishing fast, got to the front in the last thirty yards to win going away. VANQUISH moved through in the stretch to turn and, cutting to the rail, saved much ground to head the field a short distance from home, but could not withstand the rush of the winner. HALLIARD raced forwardly and held on fairly well.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Horse and jockey—	Wt	PP	St	¼	½	⅝	Str	Fin	Eq odds

SOUR MASH [Line]	108	10	11	11	11	11	11	10h	21.60-1

*Field. Time, :24 3-5, :48 1-5, 1:15, 1:41 2-5, 1:47 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Happy Lad, $14.14 straight, $6.82 place, $4.22 show; Tantalizing, $4.86 place, $2.66 show; Dunes, $2.86 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 5:26½. At post ¾ minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

HAPPY LAD, racing in improved form, saved much ground around the stretch turn and, hugging the rail in the run home, took command in the final eighth to win easily. TANTALIZING went to the front on the back stretch and opened up a good lead in the final drive. DUNES was well up approaching the stretch turn, but weakened in the final eighth.

GIANTS RECKLESS ON BASES; REDS TRIUMPH, 2 TO 1

Terry's Bid for Triple in Ninth Is Costly.

Cincinnati, O., May 17.—[Special.]—Careless base running today cost the New York Giants a 2 to 1 decision to the Cincinnati Reds in a ten inning pitching duel between Ray Kolp and Bill Walker.

Bill Terry, who had tied the score in the fourth inning with his eighth home run of the season, tried to stretch a double into a triple in the ninth and was thrown out by a wide margin. Two singles followed.

Minor League Economies to Come Up at Meeting

Durham, N. C., May 17.—(AP)—W. G. Bramham, chairman of the executive committee, announced today the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues would meet in Rochester, N. Y., May 22-23 for a discussion of economies and financial readjustments among the minor leagues comprising the association. It was indicated a proposal for a scaling down of players' salaries would likely be among matters to be considered.

Ald. Govier to Kick Off in Sparta-Olympia Game

Ald. Sheldon Govier, former star of the old Pullman Car Builders, will kick off the ball to start the Sparta and Olympia soccer teams in the final of the Peel cup competition at Olympia park, 47th avenue and 19th street, Sunday. Ald. Govier was a member of the Pullman outfit when it won the Peel trophy four years in a row. Sparta has a chance of breaking that record, having captured the championship for the last four seasons.

MOON MULLINS—EXIT LAUGHINGLY

Cubs' 8 Run Rally in 7th Beats Phillies

sprinting safely to third, Whitney scoring. Friberg slapped a low drive to center. Moore got his hands on the ball but couldn't hang on. It dropped for a single, Davis scoring. Holley popped out, and Brickell's single to right shoved Friberg to third. Then Root became the victim of bad luck. Bartell tried to pull his bat away from a pitch, but wasn't quick enough to avoid contact. The ball dribbled between Herman and Grimm for a hit. Friberg counting. This brought up the terrible Klein, but he merely bounced to Herman.

Triple, Single Score Run.

The Cubs produced only one run from a single and triple with one out in the fifth. Richbourg contributed the single, his third of the afternoon, and went around to the plate on Herman's three cornered drive to right center. English bounced to Holley and Herman was nailed at the plate with room to spare. Moore flied to left to complete the inning. There also were two hits in the sixth, but the second of the pair didn't come until two were out and Harry Taylor, swinging for Root, failed to make good on his assignment.

When Tinning showed up in Root's place in the seventh the Phils hurried to deliver a proper greeting to the young man. Friberg led off with a looping single to right, but was nailed at second on Holley's intended sacrifice. Brickell continued to play the rôle of a Cub tormentor by doubling to left center, putting Holley on third. Bartell's fly to Stephenson let Holley sprint home. Then Tinning enjoyed himself in a small way by slipping across a third strike on the powerful Klein.

That Big Seventh.

Herman walked with one out in the big Cub seventh and the fun started immediately. English singled to right. Friberg went back of first to pick up Moore's roller, but threw wild to Hurst. This let Herman score and put English on third. Stephenson looped a single close to the line in short left, English scoring. Third base was unguarded so Moore went there.

The big surprise, featuring Hartnett, then was sprung. Gabby whistled the first pitch on a line into foul territory. This threw the Phils off their guard. Gabby followed with a squeeze bunt and beat Whitney's throw to first. Moore scored and when the throw rolled away from Hurst, Stevie took third. A single to right by Grimm registered Stephenson and also removed Holley from the picture.

Moore Finally Ends It.

Nichols was asked to take charge, but he merely added to the hilarity. He walked Jurges, filling the bases. He also walked Tinning, and Hemsley, who was running for Hartnett, scored the fifth run of the inning. That was all for Nichols. Hansen was dragged in from the bull pen and Richbourg jarred him with a single that scored Grimm and Jurges. Richbourg was erased from the line when he ran into Herman's grounder. Friberg let English's grounder trickle through his hands, and Tinning hiked home. There was a sigh of relief from all sides when Moore fanned to close the incident.

Italy Defeats Spain in European Zone Cup Play

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, May 17.—Italy today swept into the third round of the European zone of the Davis Cup competition by defeating Spain in the fourth match to win the series. In the two singles matches today, George De Stefani won from Juanico, 6-0, 6-1, and Ernest Maier of Spain was forced to forfeit his match with Giovanni Palmeri in the fourth set following a fall.

Harold Elliott, Pitcher, Is Released by St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., May 17.—[Special.]—Pitcher Harold Elliott of the St. Paul American association club has been given his outright release, Robert J. Connery, president of the club, announced today. Elliott suffered an arm injury last spring and it failed to respond to treatment.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

With the muskellunge season scheduled to open in Wisconsin in about a week since the opening day of the 1932 season is May 25, fishing camps in the north woods are finishing painting of boats and getting everything shipshape for the big day. This same day also marks the beginning of the big offensive against wall-eyed pike and pickerel, or northern pike. Although a few counties in Wisconsin have been able to catch pickerel prior to May 25, the fishing waters of the entire state are thrown wide open to the northern pike fishermen on that day.

Fishing for muskellunge and northern pike early in the season means that the fisherman won't have to worry much about getting his lures through weeds. On May 25, and for some time after this date, the northern lakes are quite free of the big weed beds which later occupy so many acres of space in the water. To some fishermen this is a drawback. We know of experienced muskie anglers who actually prefer to fish in June and July when the aquatic vegetation is up because they insist that it is easier to connect with a fish when cover is provided for them.

Most fishermen prefer early season fishing before the hot weather has set in, and before the big 'lunge get a chance to feel the effects of warm water. Lacking extensive weed beds for hangouts early in the season, the muskies may be found around other cover. One year we connected with several in a lake where there were lots of old stumps and deadheads in the water. In fact, two fish which we hooked took turns around snags and left us very neatly and quickly for other parts.

The Wisconsin muskie season allows the licensed fisherman one 'lunge per day and it must be 30 inches long to be a "keeper." A pickerel or northern pike has to be 16 inches long to be legal, and the limit is ten per day. A Wisconsin wall-eye must attain a size of 13 inches before it can be put on a fish stringer.

In Minnesota the muskie season opened May 15. The regulations on fishing for this species vary considerably from those in effect in Wisconsin. First, the Minnesota law says that you may take and keep two muskies per day, as against one per day in Wisconsin. Moreover, Minnesota regulations state that "such muskies taken, regardless of size, may be retained in possession and counted." In other words, there is no 30 inch limit. Two muskies of any size are all right. Ir some respects this regulation is a good one because it prevents slightly undersized fish from being hooked and then thrown back, sometimes badly injured through careless handling.

Bush Will Oppose Phillies Today; Then Cubs Leave

The Cubs will put on another show with the Phillies today and then abandon their home lot for about a week. They have engagements to fill at Cincinnati and St. Louis. For the final against the Quaker city entry Guy Bush will be nominated to pitch. Ray Benge was to conduct the serving for the visitors.

Acting on the hunch that Second Sacker Mellon might be a little shopworn as the result of steady work, the boss of the Phillies benched him yesterday. Friberg filled the vacancy and his two errors in the Cubs' big seventh were greatly appreciated.

Catcher Hemsley, who jammed his thumb tagging a runner at the plate several days ago, caught the last two innings. He has recovered sufficiently to make it possible to grip a bat, but still has trouble making his throws.

The attendance was around the 6,000 mark, which either is a sign of the times or that Chicago fans don't think much of the blundering Phillies as an attraction.

Charley Root, the champion victim of the jinx, has had an uncomfortable time in his last four appearances. On May 5 he lost to the Robins, 2 to 1, on errors. On May 12 the Braves hung an 8 to 3 defeat on him, and on May 14, when he relieved Grimes to start the ninth, he was thumped for two runs, which cost the game.

During the invasion of Wrigley field by the four eastern teams the Cubs have won 7 and lost 4, with one game to go. The Dodgers dropped three out of four, the Giants lost the only game played, Boston took 2 out of 3, and the Phils thus far have been taken twice in three starts.

Lake Forest Defeats North Central, 6 to 3

Lake Forest defeated North Central at Naperville yesterday, 6 to 3, in ten innings. Lake Forest scored in the fourth on hits by Orr, Skopec, Lutz, and Drakeman and in the tenth on errors and long flies. Drakeman fanned three and Manning four. Skopec, Lake Forest, and Oesterle, North Central, led in hitting with three apiece. Score:

Lake Forest .....000 300 000 3—6 11 2

Batteries—Drakeman, Skopec, and Parsons; Manning and Oesterle.

Illinois State Title Golf Meet at Champaign June 13

Champaign, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—Play for the Illinois state professional and amateur golf championships will be held at the Champaign Country club during the week of June 13. Abe Espinosa, Chicago, won the pro title last year at Quincy. Warren Dawson captured the amateur championship.

Loyola Net Team Beats Y. M. C. A. College, 4 to 3

Loyola university's tennis team scored its sixth victory of the season yesterday by defeating Chicago Y. M. C. A. college, 4 to 3, at the University of Chicago varsity courts. Loyola will seek its seventh triumph today, meeting De Paul university on the latter's courts.

BASEBALL LEAGUE MEETS.

The Chicago Manufacturers' Baseball league will meet tomorrow evening at 211 South State street to organize for the coming season. Eight clubs already have enrolled and there are openings for four more.

Double Plays Help Sox Win 3d in Row, 7-3

throw to second but was too late, so Robert and Red both were safe. They advanced on a wild pitch and both scored on Blue's single. MacFayden fumbled Fothergill's sacrifice, putting Blue on second and Fothergill on first. Blue went to third while Appling was forcing Fothergill, then Blue and Appling staged a double steal, Blue scoring. Berry and Gaston were easy outs.

The White Sox added a run in the seventh on singles by Selph and Seeds and Kress' fly.

The Red Sox made two runs in the eighth inning, despite the withering effects of the White Sox's fourth double play. Tate walked and stopped at second on Pickering's single to left. The bases were filled when Olson singled over second. Then McManus hit into the first of the Gaston-Berry-Blue double plays. Webb followed with a single which drove in Pickering and Olson, but Jolley lined to Gaston.

More Twin Killings.

The White Sox made their last run in the ninth. Funk walked, went to second on Selph's sacrifice, and proceeded home when Tate threw the ball into left field in an attempt to break up a theft of third.

In the Boston ninth the Red Sox again filled the bases, this time with one out, but the game ended when the Gaston to Berry to Blue double play again functioned.

SOX FACE WEILAND TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 17.—The final of the first eastern series will be played tomorrow, Bob Weiland, former White Sox, may pitch for Boston. Thomas, Frasier, Caraway, and Jones are included among the Chicago pitchers Lew Fonseca is considering for the assignment.

Gaston now has won half as many games as he won all last year for Boston. His 1931 record with the Red Sox was 2 victories to 13 defeats.

MacFayden waited too long to get in the form he displayed so persistently against the White Sox last year. In the eighth today he struck out the side. But it was a little too late then.

Last year MacFayden beat the White Sox five times. Faber was his victim three times. Lyons and Caraway were the other losers.

The Red Sox have won four games this year. The pitching heroes: Russell, Moore, Durham, and MacFayden.

Amedio Haiz, 18 year old member of the Morton High school baseball team, pitched the second no hit no run game of his career as Morton shut out Evanston in a Suburban league game at Cicero yesterday. The score was 10 to 0.

Haiz hurled a no run no hit game last year against New Trier. Morton, defending champion, collected 13 hits off two Evanston hurlers, Brinker and Wadington.

Oak Park and New Trier were victors in other league games. Oak Park won from Proviso, 9 to 5, at Maywood and New Trier defeated Deerfield, 2 to 1, in nine innings at Highland Park.

Oak Park Rallies.

An eight run rally in the last inning brought Oak Park victory. Proviso scored three runs in the first two innings and led, 3 to 1, until the seventh. Cheevers, Oak Park pitcher, allowed only five hits.

Bloom scored a 13 to 3 victory over University High in a South Suburban league game. Fenger, south section semi-finalist in the Public High School league, wound up its sectional schedule with a 4 to 0 victory over Morgan Park at Fernwood Park.

Draw Sectional Schedule.

Coaches and officials of the Public High School league drew up the schedule for the central and west sectional games yesterday. Lindbloom and Harrison will meet at Normal park Saturday afternoon in the first game. The schedule for the south and north section qualifiers was drawn Monday. Yesterday's scores:

COMMISSION SAYS NICHOLS MUST BOX ROSENBLOOM

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—George Nichols, Buffalo light heavyweight recognized by the state athletic commission as foremost challenger of Maxie Rosenbloom, New York state's "world champion," must consent to meet Rosenbloom within a reasonable period of time or forfeit his position as challenger.

This message was sent to Nichols today after the commission had reviewed an acceptance by Nichols of the designation as official challenger, with the explanation, however, that he could not meet Rosenbloom for at least ninety days because of other matches.

Bensinger-Congress Women Qualify for Cue Finals

The team from the Bensinger-Congress Recreation won the central section title by defeating the teams from Mussey's Wabash room and the Kieckhefer Recreation at the Kieckhefer Recreation last night and qualified for the final round in the first test ever held for the women's team pocket billiard championship of Chicago. Bensinger-Congress defeated Mussey's, 27 to 19, and Kieckhefer's by 27 to 23. Mussey's beat Kieckhefer's, 25 to 13. Three players were on each team.

Jewish Youth Organizations Hold Field Day Sunday

Athletes from various Jewish organizations in Chicago will compete in the annual Jewish Youth field day at the Kuppenheimer stadium Sunday afternoon. A parade of contestants will precede the athletic events.

Who's Who in Women's Golf

By Betty Eckersall

VIRGINIA VILAS.

Miss Virginia Vilas, the present woman champion of the Glen View Golf club, is as well known in the southern and eastern sections of the country as she is here in the central states.

In 1930 she defeated Betty Waldin for the Jungle Golf club title in St. Petersburg, Fla. And only this year on the same course she established a record for women with 41—38—79. She qualified with Glenna Collett for the Florida East Coast championship at St. Augustine, Fla., only to be put out by Maureen Orcutt in the first round.

Miss Vilas won the 1930 invitational women's tournament at Thousand Island, Alexandria Bay, N. Y., where she defeated Marie Jenny, one time Metropolitan title holder, 1 up, 20 holes. Another event won by Miss Vilas was the 1929 two day match at the Exmoor Country club.

"I have been playing golf since I was 13 years of age," Miss Vilas said yesterday before a round of golf. "My first instructor was Jack Croak. Later I was instructed by John Walsh, and for the last five years I have been taking lessons from Jock Hutchison.

"In the last five years I have been out of the city during the most important Chicago district matches, but this year I intend to compete in the majority of the district and western tournaments. I would like to win the Western championship, and I am attempting to improve my game this year so as to achieve this ambition."

BOOTH, ROTAN OF YALE ELEVEN VIE FOR HONORS

New Haven, Conn., May 17.—(AP)—Albie Booth and Edward Rotan, teammates on the gridiron, find themselves friendly rivals on the list of honors accorded by seniors of the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale.

Results of the annual class poll, announced today, showed that Rotan, right tackle on the 1931 football team of which Booth was captain, topped the little three sport star by receiving five honors. Booth, however, who has won eight letters in football, baseball, and basketball, beat Rotan for the designation as best all round athlete.

Rotan, a resident of Houston, Tex., was chosen as the senior who had done most for Yale, the most popular, most to be admired, most likely to succeed, and the most versatile. He also placed second as the most brilliant, and third in the voting for the most thorough gentleman and best all round athlete.

The Texan was captain of the wrestling team this year and was acting captain of football when Booth was forced to leave the team because of a lung infection.

Booth easily defeated Rotan and John E. Muhlfeld, football and hockey star, for the title of best all round athlete. The little star placed second in the voting for the man who had done most for Yale, the most versatile, and the most to be admired, and third in the most popular contest.

Wheaton Whips Elmhurst, 5-3; Evans Strikes Out 12

Wheaton college yesterday defeated Elmhurst, 5 to 3, at Elmhurst, to retain the Northern Illinois league lead. Wheaton is also undefeated in the Little Nineteen conference.

Wheaton .....001 100 120—5 10 0
Elmhurst .....200 000 001—3 6 3

Electric Golf Club Players Turn on Season

Golfers of the Electric Golf club, comprising all branches of the electrical industry in the Chicago district, opened their competitive season at Cog Hill yesterday. Nearly 150 players responded and they were divided into three classes.

A. S. Brown came in with 81—11—70 to win both low gross and low net in class A, but he chose to take the low net award. S. J. Weinress with 44—42—86 was awarded low gross. Other low net winners in class A were: E. F. Sigman, 87—17—70, second; J. V. Kinsman, 89—18—71, third; J. Simmons, 89—17—72, fourth; V. Dewar, 92—20—72, fifth; J. Ware, 89—16—73, sixth; D. Nash, 89—16—73, seventh; A. J. McGivern, 93—20—73, eighth, and H. A. Brown, 87—13—74, ninth.

In class B, W. H. Coleman shot 47—46—93 to win low gross. The low net winners were: J. T. McHenry, 94—25—69, first; E. J. Dwyer, 100—30—70, second; J. E. Kopp, 101—27—74, third; William Weiss, 102—24—78, fourth; F. T. Berry, 106—28—78, fifth; J. Keenan, 101—21—80; sixth; J. H. Murphy, 101—21—80, seventh; J. Livingston, 102—21—81, eighth, and R. Goldberg, 110—29—81, ninth.

The class C winners were: F. S. Murphy, 52—53—105, low gross; A. F. Haeger, 110—37—73, first low net; J. A. Jaques, 108—35—73, second; F. R. Eiseman, 109—35—74, third; L. E. Mayer, 107—32—75, fourth; W. L. Marks, 109—33—76, fifth; E. R. Hanson, 120—44—76, sixth; B. F. Mockenhaupt, 113—35—78, seventh; A. H. Keith, 123—44—79, eighth, and J. J. Ryan, 115—33—82, ninth.

Western Advertisers turned out in a goodly number yesterday at Midlothian for the opening of their golfing season. They were favored by a wonderful course and, considering the amount of practice they have had, scores were good. As usual the advertisers played 27 holes. R. W. [Rube] Markward was the hot one, shooting 78—40—118 for low gross. George Hartman, for many seasons the club champion, trailed with 84—38—122. H. Elton Pease shot 83—41—124 for third.

In the low net division R. H. Neice had 139—32—107, for first; J. A. Bender, 125—17—108, for second, and J. H. Williams, 147—39—108, for third.

The afternoon 18 holes determined the flight winners and resulted as follows: Flight 1—Don Heinly and H. E. Pease; 2—L. L. Northrup and Jack Cullen; 3—J. A. Bender and Fred Crawford; 4—J. W. Barton and W. D. Washburn; 5—R. B. Johnston and F. W. Wood; 6—T. S. Dowst and S. F. Nelson; 7—C. W. Sloan and J. H. Williamson; 8—Wallace Patterson and Ken Cloud; 9—Charles Goes Jr. and George Cain.

Fifty women participated yesterday in the first round of play for the May trophy at North Shore. Among those participating were Mrs. Trather Saunders, Mrs. John A. Fidney, Mrs. Andrew D. Collins, and Mrs. Hiram Fargo.

MOTORCYCLISTS TO HOLD CLIMB AT CARY SUNDAY

Motorcycle hill climbers from all parts of the United States will compete at Jandus hill at Cary, Ill., Sunday in the sixth annual hill climb, sponsored by the Windy City Motorcycle club.

Five events will be held. The novice event will open the program and will be followed by amateur, professional and expert events for motorcycles having 45 cubic inch piston displacement. The final event will be an amateur contest for climbers riding motorcycles with 80 cubic inch piston displacement.

IT'S OHIO STATE OR INDIANA IF MICHIGAN FAILS

But Wolverines Are Choice for Big Ten Meet.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

In the forecast of the result of the 32d annual track meet of the Western conference, which will be held at Northwestern Friday and Saturday, Michigan, Ohio State, and Indiana are named as possible winners. Michigan probably is the favorite, but the shifting of a few points might send Indiana to the front or the Buckeyes.

Indiana won the indoor meet, its first championship, by less than one point from Michigan. Ohio State, with Don Bennett and John Wonsowitz added to its forces which competed in the winter set of games, has individual stars but may not have sufficient men placing in the equally important third, fourth, and fifth positions. However, if Bennett should win both sprints and Wonsowitz capture the pole vault, along with a double hurdle victory by Jack Keller, Ohio State might come through with its first track triumph.

Michigan, Illinois Top List.

Michigan and Illinois have divided the track titles almost exclusively, with alight interruptions by Chicago and Wisconsin. No other conference university has won, but in the days when nonconference schools competed Missouri, Stanford, Notre Dame, and California topped the results. Stanford tied with Notre Dame in 1910 and the following year Missouri was the winner. In 1912 California won the meet held at Purdue university. Wisconsin's victory in 1931 gave it three titles. Chicago also won the games in 1905, 1908, and 1917. Illinois and Michigan have won 11 times each.

Whether Michigan, Indiana, or Ohio State can win or not, it does seem certain that the three universities will fight it out in the hammer throw for first place. It may be that the championship will hinge on the result. Noble Biddinger of Indiana third last year, is seeking the title His mark in 1931 was 148 feet 3½ inches, with Hills of Illinois, the winner, throwing the hammer 153 feet 2 1-3 inches. Frisch of Wisconsin was second.

Cox Is Biddinger's Rival.

Roderick Cox of Michigan, fourth last year and five feet behind Biddinger, is the Hoosier's greatest rival. Biddinger won the hammer throw at the Drake relays this spring with a toss of 152 feet 5 inches. Last Saturday he raised this mark two inches in the meet at Champaign. On the same day Cox won the hammer throw in the Michigan-Ohio State meet at Columbus with 153 feet 6 inches.

Ohio State entry in the event is Earl Johnson, a sophomore, who is said to have thrown the

POSTPONE SALE OF EVANSTON FLAT BUILDING

"800 Michigan" to Be Sold on June 21.

Owing to the unforeseen legal technicalities which developed at the last minute, the master's sale of the 800 Michigan Avenue building, in Evanston, has been postponed until June 21, it was announced last night by T. E. Williams, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee. Another reason given is that there are still a small number of bonds outstanding which should be deposited, he states.

"The committee has acquired the title for the benefit of the depositing bondholders and will, if the successful bidder, redeem immediately after sale," Mr. Williams said, "thus permitting prompt reorganization of the property under the Chicago Title and Trust company's liquidating trust plan. This provides for the payment to holders of beneficial certificates of interest of the net income over and above necessary and proper reserves and allows the property to be sold for the benefit of the holders of the certificates, if a fair offer is received. The proceeds, less expenses, may then be distributed among the certificate holders. Bondholders who have not yet deposited their securities may do so until June 15, 1932."

This was an Equitable Bond and Mortgage company issue of $300,000, since reduced to $237,500. The building is a three story structure containing forty-one apartments. H. D. Pettibone is chairman of the bondholders' committee.

Highlands Apartment Hotel.

Owners of bonds in the Highlands Hotel apartments, at Birchwood and Greenview avenues, and the Kenrose hotel, at 6417 Kenwood avenue, yesterday were requested by the bondholders' protective committee to deposit their securities with the Phillip State Bank and Trust company. Barnet L. Rosset, chairman of the protective body, stated last night that bondholders asked the committee to act as a result of the failure of a tentative reorganization plan offered several months ago by the Straus Brothers Investment company due to depressed conditions in real estate and renting.

The Highlands hotel apartments issue was originally $325,000, underwritten by the Straus Brothers Investment company, since reduced to $273,000. The building contains eighty-five furnished suites and during the period from Sept. 1, 1930, to March 31, 1932, the occupancy has averaged about 86 per cent.

Gross receipts for that period are reported to have been $73,955. Total expenses during the same time were $66,531. These expenses, Mr. Rosset states, were divided as follows: Operating expenses, $35,972; repairs and maintenance, $10,846; replacements, $10,670; insurance, $1,434; payments on refrigeration contract, $7,282; and payments on light fixtures contract, $323. The excess of cash receipts over disbursements transferred to the trustee for the benefit of bondholders during this period was $7,424. Mr. Rosset states that 1928 and 1929 tax assessments totaling $9,300 remain unpaid, as well as 1930 and 1931 assessments, the latter amount not yet known.

Kenrose Hotel.

The Kenrose hotel issue originally was $285,000, with $221,000 now outstanding. This also was underwritten by the Straus Brothers Investment company. The building contains 147 hotel rooms and during the period from Nov. 8, 1930, to March 31, 1932, occupancy averaged about 62 per cent, according to Mr. Rosset.

Gross receipts for this period were $59,216. It is reported. Total expenses were $47,417, divided as follows: Operating expense, $41,225; repairs and maintenance, $2,445; replacements, $1,551; insurance, $1,781; and legal fees, $415. Excess of cash receipts over disbursements transferred to the trustee for the benefit of the bondholders was $11,799. Tax assessments for 1928 and 1929, totaling about $10,000, are unpaid.

Sophie Carlin yesterday took title to the store and apartment building at the northeast corner of Independence boulevard and Roosevelt road from the Independence Building corporation, of which Archie Krom is president. Miss Carlin is a nominee of the bondholders' protective committee and acted for the bondholders. This was an Eli Brandt & Co. $330,000 bond issue. Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson & Morse were attorneys.

LIFE INSURANCE HOLDS UP WELL, FIGURES REVEAL

Industrial Type Is Leading Field.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While the business of selling life insurance has declined somewhat as the result of depression, still it has held up better than most lines. It is evident that Americans regard life insurance as an anchor to windward in times of storm and stress, both for future protection and as an immediate source of aid because it may be used for borrowing.

Some interesting statistics along these lines were presented yesterday to the commerce department by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. Total new business written by 44 companies having in force 82 per cent of total insurance outstanding in all United States legal reserve companies was $822,990,000 in April. While this marked a decline of 19.7 per cent from the total of $1,024,539,000 written in April, 1931, still it is a notable fact the figure for last month was so large, in view of general conditions.

A Favorable Comparison.

However, production of life insurance for the four months this year makes a more favorable comparison. In this period, a total of $3,489,561,000 was written, marking a decline of only 9.4 per cent from the total of $3,853,139,000 produced in the corresponding period last year.

While the effects of depression have been felt most severely in the industries, as witness the abnormal amount of unemployment, it is a surprising paradox that industrial insurance was the only class to show an increase. In fact, this form of insurance has shown gains every month this year over the corresponding months in 1931. New production of industrial insurance totaled $236,898,000, an increase of eight tenths of 1 per cent over April, 1931, when the total was $234,941,000. Furthermore, the total amount of such insurance written during the first four months of this year was $926,077,000, compared with $904,812,000 in the same period last year, a gain of 2.4 per cent.

New ordinary life insurance amounted to $521,208,000 in April, compared with $690,529,000 a year ago, a decline of 24.5 per cent; while for the four months this year the total was $2,305,984,000, against $2,605,389,000 for the same period last year, a decrease of 11.5 per cent. Group insurance written last month totaled $64,884,000, compared with $99,069,000 in April, 1931, a decline of 34.5 per cent, while the total for the four months this year was $257,500,000 against $342,933,000 for the same period last year, a decrease of 24.9 per cent.

TRADE IRREGULAR

General news of trade and industry presented the irregular aspect that has been common for months. The movement of commodities by railroad during the first week of May fell to the lowest level of this year to date. However, the decline was not quite as large as occurred during the first week in May last year.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended May 7 totaled 533,677 cars, a decline of 20,335 cars from the preceding week and also a decrease of 212,063 and 398,669 cars, respectively, from the corresponding weeks in 1931 and 1930. Miscellaneous freight totaled 196,190 cars, a decrease of 103,749 from the corresponding week last year; merchandise, 135,104, decrease 41,123; grain and grain products, 28,575, decrease 6,675; coal, 80,392, decrease 31,251; forest products, 19,422, decrease 13,407; ore, 2,193, decrease 2,600; coke, 3,225; decrease, 3,328; live stock, 18,576, decrease 3,927.

Oil Output Drops.

On the other hand, petroleum production turned downward last week after a sharp upturn in the previous week. Daily gross crude oil output totaled 2,237,400 barrels, a decline of 14,500 barrels a day from the preceding week, according to the American Petroleum Institute. Practically all of the decline occured in Oklahoma. Refineries took more oil and expanded operations, running at 64.4 per cent of capacity last week, compared with 59.6 per cent in the previous week. However, gasoline stocks declined 823,000 barrels, although still totaling 44,798,000 barrels.

In the steel industry the American Metal Market predicted increased production within the next fortnight, chiefly as the result of expanding operations by the Ford Motor company. Steel plants this week will operate at 22 per cent of capacity. The magazine says steel prices have not been affected by the recent 15 per cent wage cut and each week present more impressive evidence of stabilization.

Business failures for the week ended May 12 were the fewest for any week thus far this year except for the week ended March 10, according to Bradstreet's review. The number was 545, compared with 553 in the preceding week. However, liabilities involved were 20 per cent greater.

See Some Improvement in General Electric Income

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Current estimates place General Electric company's profits for the second quarter at a somewhat better figure than the $5,152,927 or 16 cents a share earned in the first quarter, but below an amount which would cover the dividend needs for the period. The company pays 25 cents quarterly.

Meet Today on Dividend of A. T. & T.

New York, May 17.—One of the most important dividend meetings so far this year and one which is attracting the attention of the largest number of stockholders of any single corporation in this country will be held tomorrow when the board of American Telephone and Telegraph company is scheduled to act on the quarterly disbursement for the current period.

Directors of the company, it was learned in well informed quarters today, will authorize the regular quarterly payment of $2.25 a share, thereby continuing the annual rate at $9 a share at least for the time being.

This action is expected in spite of the fact that net income for the initial 1932 quarter fell short of dividend requirements by 18 cents, the company having earned $2.07 a share on its capital stock in contrast with $2.53 for the corresponding period of 1931 and the fact that little improvement is indicated for the current quarter.

Out of Surplus.

First quarter net income, it is pointed out, also included about $5,000,000 in dividends received from subsidiary organizations. This amount, which came out of surplus, represents the difference between net earnings of subsidiaries and dividend payments to the parent company. Excluding the $5,000,000, net for the parent company was equal to approximately $1.90 a share.

Lack of improvement in traffic and earnings is likely to preclude dividend action by the Southern railroad directors at tomorrow's meeting, it is said in railroad circles. Some statement in explanation of the directors' attitude in conserving the cash resources of the company will probably be made.

At the February meeting the action on the dividend was deferred until this month in order to give the board a better opportunity to estimate probable earnings for the first half year.

Since that time, however, conditions have shown no improvement, but rather there has been a further decrease month by month in both volume and earnings.

Operations Bring Loss.

In view of this unsatisfactory operating situation, combined with the fact that directors hesitated to declare a dividend three months ago when conditions were somewhat better than at present, there is little likelihood that the board will take favorable action at this time.

Operations of the company during the first quarter of this year resulted in a net loss of $5,597,465 after charges, compared with a deficit of $2,385,000 for the corresponding period of last year. For March alone the net loss totaled $1,498,577, against a net loss of $141,257 for the like 1931 period.

Earnings of the company declined sharply last year, net income for the year ended Dec. 31 last having been equivalent to slightly over $1 a share on the company's capital stock, after deducting subsidiary company losses. On a similar basis, the preceding year's net results were equal to $8.01 a share.

Dividend News More Cheerful.

Dividend announcements today made generally favorable reading. More than a score of corporations took action and the only casualties reported were two omissions and one reduction. Among the more important companies there were nineteen declarations of regular payments and one initial dividend.

Directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway company ordered the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents on the common stock. This rate has been in effect since the end of 1930. Dividends have been paid regularly since 1899, with the exception of 1915 and 1921.

An initial quarterly dividend of $1.75 was ordered today by the Tubize-Chatillon corporation on the new $7 preferred stock. The company was formed in 1930 as a merger of the Tubize Artificial Silk Company of America and the American Chatillon corporation. J. E. Bassill today was elected president, succeeding B. E. Slaughter.

The Southern Mutual Insurance company has declared a 50 per cent dividend to policy holders for the fiscal year ended April 30. A 40 per cent dividend was paid in 1929.

Two Adverse Actions.

The Kimberley-Clark corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock. Formerly the company paid 31¼ cents quarterly.

Directors of the Gamewell company decided to omit the quarterly dividend due at this time on the common stock. Three months ago the company paid 25 cents.

Wall street is not disposed to anticipate maintenance of current dividends on Atlantic Coast Line and Louisville and Nashville when the boards of the two roads meet for action on Thursday. So far this year both systems have operated at substantial deficits, and with no change in the earnings trend visible it is felt in financial quarters that the managements will be moved to follow the conservative action taken by other roads in meeting the dividend question. Both stocks are on a $4 annual rate on the basis of their latest payments.

BANKS DELAY SALE OF STOCK INSULL PLEDGED

Judge Cites Shylock Case in Court.

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley urged New York bankers yesterday not to rock the financial boat by pressing for immediate sale of stocks which two Insull investment trusts posted with them as collateral for loans. He quoted from "The Merchant of Venice" in urging the banks not to demand "the full measure of their bond." The judge spoke in the hope that a postponement of the stock sale may make it possible to salvage something for the investors in the two investment trusts.

The matter before Judge Lindley was the injunction which he issued on May 4, restraining those banks from selling the stock at auction. The injunction was obtained by receivers for the two trusts, the Corporation Securities company of Chicago and Insull Utilities Investments, Inc. Those concerns had pledged, as security for a loan of $10,000,000, 77,516 shares of People Gas, 50,981 shares of Commonwealth Edison, and 24,554 shares of Public Service of Northern Illinois. All of them are Insull operating companies, and the banks concerned are the Chase National bank, Guaranty Trust company, Commercial National Bank and Trust company, and Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, all of New York.

Delayed Until May 31.

The auction of the stock, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed until May 31, and meanwhile Attorney Horace Kent Tenney went before Judge Lindley representing the New York banks, and sought to have the injunction dissolved on the grounds that the Chicago Federal District court has no jurisdiction in the matter.

Judge Lindley indicated that he was in doubt himself as to his jurisdiction in the matter, and asked attorneys to file briefs on the subject before him this morning.

"This is a very serious situation," he said. "The country now is in the worst condition I have ever seen, and from reading I believe conditions are worst than they have ever been before. It is the duty of every one to prevent rocking the boat.

"It seems to me that this collateral, held by the New York banks, is as good as you can get these days. I will say to them as American citizens that if others throughout the country sell collateral that they hold and that has temporarily depreciated, it will throw thousands into bankruptcy.

Judge Recalls Shylock.

"This reminds me of Shakespeare. I cannot quote directly, but I have in mind the situation in "The Merchant of Venice" when the duke of Venice speaks to Shylock.

[Duke: Shylock, the world thinks, and I think so, too, that thou but lead'st this fashion of thy malice to the last hour of act; and then 'tis thought thou'lt show then mercy and remorse more strange than is thy strange apparent cruelty. Shylock . . . by our holy Sabbath I have sworn to have the due and forefeit of my bond.]

"I am not calling any of you gentlemen Shylocks," continued Judge Lindley, "but when the rights of thousands of people are involved, common sense must be considered. I am trying to consider this question with the rights of all in mind. When the court takes jurisdiction in a receivership he becomes in fact a trustee for all the beneficiaries of the estate.

"The receivers for the companies, in a preliminary report to the court, have stated that there are substantially no assets other than those pledged. These unfortunate investors also have a right to protection. I had intended a conference with the bankers and receivers, and then I received notice that the next day the banks were going to sell these assets. I issued the restraining order to effect a temporary stay.

Pledged Securities Are Good.

"Now, gentlemen, let's mark time. These securities are good, although at one time they were worth about $400 and are now worth $60 a share. Every day I'm getting dozens of letters from poor people asking that the banks be not permitted to sell these securities. These people do not know that they shouldn't write to the court about a pending case. But they also have rights in the case."

"Yes," replied Attorney Tenney, "but if the court please, the credit of the nation is very important. My clients loaned out good money on this collateral and they, certainly, have legal rights. Their credit is also important."

Cites Investors "Interest."

Question as to prior claim, between the New York banks in the case and the general investors, was raised by Edwin W. Sims, many years ago federal district attorney here, and now counsel for the debenture holders' protective committee. He made the point that the stock of the operating companies was the basis for the issuance of stock of the holding companies and as such was pledged to the purchasers of the stock of the investment trusts now involved in receivership.

Mr. Sims questioned the right of the investment trusts to pledge the stock of the Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, etc., for loans at the banks. He inclined to the view that the investors in the holding companies already had been pledged that stock as the basis of the securities they had bought.

"It appears," he said, "from the circulars of the companies that these same securities were pledged to the thousands of persons who invested their money in these holding companies. There may be a question of prior claims here, though I am not now making any charges of improper conduct."

Judge Lindley continued to June 7 a petition of a debenture holders' protective committee to come into the matter as intervening petitioners.

Pass Indiana Dividends.

Directors of the Midland United company, top holding company of the Insull managed Indiana group of utilities, yesterday suspended dividends on the series A convertible preferred stock of the company. The regular of 75 cents would have been payable June 24 to holders of record June 1. At the same time directors of Midland Utilities company, one of Midland United's principal subsidiaries, voted to suspend dividends on all classes of preferred.

The subsidiary has four classes of preferred shares outstanding, the 6 and 7 per cent prior lien and the 6 and 7 per cent class A preferred. The next dividends on these issues were due to have been paid July 6 to stockholders of record June 23. Common stock dividends had been previously suspended by both the parent and subsidiary company.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—Under the burden of the heaviest stocks above ground in the history of the industry, copper set a new low record today when it was reported that the metal was available at 5⅝c a lb, delivered Connecticut valley basis, against 5½c previously.

At the same time the red metal was available abroad at 5½c a lb, c. i. f. European ports, against 5⅝c previously. The special tonnage offered at the latter price by copper exporters went begging as other metal was taken at the lower level.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES RELAPSE IN LATE TRADE

Stocks suffered a relapse in the last hour of trading on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Around mid-day prices were generally above the previous day's quotations, but the late reaction resulted in losses for most of the active shares.

Commonwealth Edison was selling 2¼ below its previous close at the end of the day. The recession in this issue was regarded as a reflection of the general market trend rather than a result of legal developments on the Insull collateral held by the New York banks. Further delay in the proposed auction of the collateral, which includes a large block of Edison, has not materially changed the situation. Although it is believed in financial circles that the New York banks will eventually take legal possession of the collateral there is little fear that any of the securities will come into the open market to depress prices. Public Service no par stock moved counter to the trend for a net advance of 1¾ points.

Swift issues were fairly steady, closing only slightly below previous quotations. Trading in Swift & Co. shares declined sharply. Transactions amounted to only 3,300 shares, the smallest turnover in about three days. Swift International continued active, closing just under 15 with a fractional loss.

CREDIT MEN WILL MEET TODAY AND ELECT H.B.ASHTON

H. B. Ashton, credit manager of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., will be elected president of the Chicago Association of Credit Men at the 35th annual meeting today in the Stevens hotel. Mr. Ashton heads the administration ticket, which is unopposed. Walter Evensen, treasurer of the Crane company, is nominee for first vice president; H. L. Benson of the Uptown State bank, the nominee for second vice president, and Alfred Brittain Jr. of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, the nominee for treasurer.

The new federal bankruptcy bill which is now pending in congress will be discussed at the meeting by Attorney H. S. Blum of Chicago and Orville Livingston, secretary and manager of the St. Louis Association of Credit Men.

Auto Output Shows Gain for Last Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—Automobile manufacturers, since the first of the year, have been operating on so close a basis that any appreciable pickup in demand will be rapidly reflected in their production schedules.

For the week ended May 14 production amounted to 44,567 units, an increase of 1,018 over the preceding week, when output was calculated at 43,549.

Seemingly this rise might be interpreted as bullish, but April and May are the two greatest sales months in the industry. So closely is production geared to demand that it is not anticipating it, but following by a slight margin, the surplus having been built up at the beginning of the year.

In the corresponding week last year a total of 75,720 cars and trucks were manufactured, while in 1930 output was 100,102 units and production in the same week in 1929 reached 139,133 cars.

Total production for April is calculated at 146,584 cars and trucks, compared with 354,098 units in the fourth month of 1931. Taking these approximations as substantially correct, indicated output for the first four months of the year reached a total of 521,661 units, compared with 1,049,153 units in the corresponding period last year.

The low ebb of production this year is interpreted as of a great deal of significance. It suggests that auto makers are producing only a sufficient volume of new cars to take care of demand in dealers' hands.

Avoid Big Fluctuation.

In other words, there is no longer any disposition in the way of seasonal fluctuation in demand. Quite to the contrary, the available statistical data on production over the last three years clearly indicate elimination of the abrupt expansion and contraction in output which marked 1930 and 1931.

Production so far this year has very evidently been based on schedule set up on the basis of actual orders in dealers' hands. Some of the larger units like General Motors have actually succeeded in cutting surplus stocks in dealers' hands.

April Production Figures.

Production by General Motors for April is calculated at 71,902 units, compared with 144,412 in April of 1931, while output for the first four months is figured at 267,421, against 438,440 last year.

Ford output is estimated at 42,300 last month, against 117,891 units in April last year, with output for the first four months at 81,900, against 357,217 units in that part of 1931.

Chrysler, third largest unit, is calculated to have turned out 32,945 units last month, compared with 28,346 a year ago, being the only large producer to expand output. For the first four months ending with April Chrysler production was fiured at 91,967 cars, compared with 84,319 units a year ago.

Auburn Auto Shipments Slump Sharply in April

April shipments of the Auburn Automobile company totaled 1,124 cars, compared with 6,321 in April 1931.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—The stock market had a hard time making up its mind today. Some of those who count themselves a steadying influence on trading sentiment were around assuring all who would lend an ear that "an important piece of news" was about to break in Washington, and while they were painfully shy on details the rumor, no doubt, helped to hold selling in check. On the other hand, there wasn't much in the newsbag to cause buying of stocks either for the long pull or for speculation.

Rail Shares Uncertain.

Railroad shares wabbled between advices from Washington saying that the administration and reserve officials were considering plans to make it easier for them to get construction loans, and the weekly carloadings figures showing a further decline for the first week in May. Wheat's upturn brought some short covering into the farm implement and mail order shares, and oil stocks got a little kick out of the Supreme court decision upholding state proration, a decision which is seen as a means of keeping output in check and thereby brightening the chances for moderate price stability.

Closing figures were mixed, with plus signs slightly in the majority.

A half dozen or so stocks were uniformly heavy. American Smelters preferred, Beatrice Creamery, Curtis Publishing preferred, and Westinghouse preferred dropped 2 to 3 points each. Homestake Mining gave up 3⅝.

International Shoe Target.

International Shoe was the target for another heavy barrage of selling reputedly directed by interests endeavoring to break it below 35, where large buying orders are said to be awaiting it. The stock did give way 2 points today, but it held stubbornly at 35. Today's selling in the stock following that of last week, is reported to have resulted in considerable expansion of the short account corraled in the issue.

The railroad shares were not so prominent as they have been in other sessions of the decline. The group was inclined to ease in the earliest dealings. It braced up later, but the close found the group showing losses of from a fraction to a point or so.

PRESENT CRISIS SUPPLIES HARSH TEST OF BANKS

C. B. Hazlewood Cites Some Lessons.

Excelsior Springs, Mo., May 17.—[Special.]—Speaking before the convention of the Missouri Bankers association, in session here today, Craig B. Hazlewood, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago, asserted that a new plan was essential to the rebuilding of the banking business.

"Banking has for the last three years been passing through such a storm as has not been seen for forty years," he said. "It has overwhelmed many banks. But from every situation, no matter how bad, some gain must come. The gain for the profession of banking is the increased skill that is accruing to those bankers who are bringing their institutions safely through this financial storm. They will be better bankers than they have ever been. It is not extravagant to prophesy that some of them will be better bankers than this century has yet produced.

Know What to Avoid.

"There will come a time when we will look back to this period as the 'bad years' period. In the wisdom of our experience we will advise our successors against the excesses which led up to these present day conditions, which advice they will probably ignore in another decade or two.

"The only course open to good banking is to discover the losses, report them, and take them.

"For a long while a good many bankers and directors acted on the assumption that examination and supervision could be relied upon to produce good banking. During this panic we have seen that idea exploded so thoroughly that it can never return to acceptance in the present generation. Examination and supervision cannot be a complete substitute for management. Management is a dynamic, positive force that makes an institution outstanding, good, fair, or poor. Examination and supervision can only warn when the institution has taken a turn in the wrong direction and eventually can only close the doors when its warnings have been repeatedly disregarded.

Management Comes First.

"Whatever else we may advocate, let us never swerve from a steadfast advocacy of better bank management—in the basic meaning of intelligent administration and operation of our institutions according to knowledge of the facts rather than by guess and hunch. For management alone can provide the loan and investment policies and the operating practices that will spell the difference between success and failure.

"Admittedly what I have said to you today is a meager and wholly insufficient outline of the requirements of banking, but it at least indicates some of the steps we must take if the banking system is to measure up to the responsibilities which are today confronting it."

I. C. Ry. President Talks.

New Orleans, La., May 17.—The leadership that is needed to restore business must come from the ranks of business, in the opinion of L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central system. He addressed the Traffic club at its luncheon here today.

"I am not very much in sympathy with those who think that the solution of all our commercial and financial troubles is to be found in the fountain head of our national government," he said. "There has been far too much reliance upon the belief that the mere enactment of a law can make or break an economic situation. We have experimented along that line until we have just about demonstrated the fallacy contained in the oft repeated assertion that 'there ought to be a law.' There have, I am fairly certain, already been too many laws. We could get along very well with fewer and better.

"On the other hand, I am not a great deal in sympathy with those who feel that every little flicker on Wall street or in the stock exchange is a proof of something or other in our national economic life. Prior to 1929 we had demonstrated pretty conclusively that prices on the stock exchange bore little or no relation to the earning power of the businesses in whose stocks the trading was done."

LASKY REPORTED OUT AS PARAMOUNT-PUBLIX FIRST VICE PRESIDENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—Jesse L. Lasky, pioneer motion picture producer, has retired as first vice president of the Paramount-Publix corporation. That was announced today. He is now on the Pacific coast. Mr. Lasky has been one of the leaders in the motion picture field since 1914.

Several other changes were announced in management of the Paramount-Publix. William H. English, former chairman of the finance committee, was elected chairman of the board, Montague F. Gowthorne was elected controller, and Fred Mohrhardt was elected general auditor. The executive committee, which had comprised eight members, was reduced to five. The following were appointed to that committee: Adolph Zukor, John Hertz, Sam Katz, Emanuel Cohen, and Ralph A. Kohn.

The following were appointed members of the finance committee: John Hertz, Sir William Wiseman, Casimir I. Stralem, Adolph Zukor, and Frank Bailey. John Hertz was designated chairman of the committee and Sir William Wiseman as vice president. Other officers were reëlected. Mr. Zukor remains as president.

Lasky Denies Resigning.

Hollywood, Cal., May 17.—[Special.]—Jesse Lasky, one of the founders and for more than ten years a major officer of the Paramount-Publix film corporation, denied here tonight that he had resigned from his connection with Paramount company, as announced in New York today.

GEN. MOTORS CORP. SUSPENDS EMPLOYES' SAVINGS-INVESTMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—The General Motors corporation announced yesterday that as of May 1 the directors had suspended the corporation's savings and investment plan for minor employés, which was established in 1919. Since then eight annual classes of the plan have matured through which employés have received $56,189,195, including General Motors stock. In addition, $79,210,096 remained in the fund as of Jan. 1 last, available to employés in the five unmatured classes from 1927 to 1931 inclusive. This made a thirteen year total of $135,399,291.

NATION'S GOLD STOCK DECREASES $4,618,000 IN DAY'S TRANSFERS

New York, May 17.—(AP)—There was a net loss of $4,618,000 in the country's monetary stock of gold on the day's transactions in the metal.

Exports amounted to $10,618,000, of which $6,001,300 was withdrawn for shipment to Switzerland, $2,002,400 to France, $1,502,400 to Holland, $1,011,900 to Belgium, and $100,000 to Germany. There were no imports, but the stock of gold held under earmark for foreign account decreased $6,000,000.

Foreign exchanges were mixed today. Of the European currencies still anchored to gold, French francs were steady, closing unchanged. Dutch guilders made a slight advance together with Swiss francs, while the belga eased a shade. Japanese yen recovered more than half of Monday's loss. Sterling was soggy, off ⅝ net to $3.66¼.

Peruvian Congress Drops Gold.

LIMA, Peru, May 17.—(AP)—Peru's temporary abandonment of the gold standard has been approved by congress. A bill relieving the reserve bank of its obligation to exchange notes for gold under the so-called Kemmerer law was approved last night by a vote of 62 to 20.

JULY WHEAT ADVANCES ON DAMAGE NEWS

Month Makes 58⅛c in Chicago Pit.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

There were continued unfavorable wheat crop comments from the southwest, also a report that 60 per cent, instead of the 40 per cent indicated by the government May returns, of the Nebraska wheat acreage, seeded last fall, might be abandoned. Those started a buying movement which swept the July up to 58⅛c.

The latter showed 3c above the low of Monday, but the best figures were not maintained due to profit taking and selling against bids. The finish, however, was at net gains of 1¼c on the May, which was 56⅛c at the last, while the new crop months gained ⅜@⅞c, with old July 57½@57⅝c, old September 59¼@59⅝c, and December 62⅛@62⅜c.

Had it not been for Washington messages indicating congress would not adjourn as early as expected the wheat market might have made a better showing. The trade construed this development as an unsettling influence and had some effect on making the reaction from the high point. It was also said to have been a factor in inducing selling of stocks.

Sentiment More Bullish.

Taken as a whole sentiment generally was somewhat more bullish on wheat than of late. There was, however, only a moderate outside interest and the market acted somewhat overbought around the top. Long wheat came out through commission houses around 58c for July, and later some of the locals who bought early went out of their lines. The undertone, however, was generally firm.

No new estimates on the probable Kansas wheat crop were received, and the reports from the southwest were of a general character, in the main claiming that deterioration was more in evidence due to lack of rain, Hessian fly and the effect of the March freeze. The forecast indicated generally fair and somewhat warmer weather for the entire wheat belt. H. C. Donovan, the Logan & Bryan crop observer who has just returned from the southwest, said he believed the deterioration was in a large measure the aftermath of the March freeze.

Export Demand Slow.

Foreign wheat markets reopened after being closed since Friday, with Liverpool closing ⅝@1¼c per bu higher. July in the latter was 60⅝c or 2⅛c over the same delivery in Chicago. Winnipeg was ⅝c higher, with May at 61⅝c in Canadian funds. There was little interest taken in North American cash wheat and only small lots of Manitobas and hard winters were said to have been sold during the day. Supplies on ocean passage are around 63,000,000 bu, or practically equal to the peak of last year, but there was no material pressure to sell reported abroad. It is claimed that both Argentina and Australia will continue to export freely until the end of June.

May Corn Advances.

May corn acted a little tight yesterday, and with a lack of pressure the finish was ¼c higher at 30½c. Action of wheat had some effect on the market, but the trade in the main was of a local character. The distant futures after being firmer early eased toward the last, with pressure largely on the December, and the close was unchanged to ⅜c lower. July finished at 32¾@32⅞c; September, 34¾@34⅞c, and December, 34½c.

Shipping demand for cash corn was fair and it was claimed sales by local handlers exceeded the 35,000 bu reported. The advance brought in somewhat larger country offerings, with 25,000 bu booked to arrive.

PIT NOTES

Close observers of wheat market conditions express themselves as seeing a better tone based on more favorable crop reports from Kansas and Nebraska, and evidence of a better turn in financial affairs and a small increase in the outside and general commission house buying support on all weak spots. They do not expect the market to run away, as the disposition on the part of traders is to take profits on bulges which results in numerous setbacks.

Large purchases of United States winter wheat are said to have been made recently by the continent, while Manitobas are also being bought by millers in almost all importing countries. There are large reserves in North America, making it necessary for foreign buying to continue in liberal size to offset bearish supplies.

LARD PRICES RALLY

Liquidation in lard is said to have been over, as a fair increase in buying was noted yesterday. There was a good rally. The close was at net gains of 10@12½c. Bellies were not traded in and closed nominally unchanged. In July, 1896, lard sold down to $3.05 in Chicago, or 70c under the low of Monday and yesterday's top of $3.80, an advance of 5c; loose was $3.20, and leaf lard $3.25. Short ribs and clear bellies were $3.95. Prices follow:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil today closed steady and unchanged to 4 points higher, influenced by the steadiness of lard and grains, which offset the heaviness in cotton. Sales were only 2 contracts or 200 bbls. Crude oil was quoted at 2¼c in the southeast and the valley and 2¾c in Texas. Bleachable spot closed 3.15c; May, 3.15c; July, 3.48c; September, 3.54c; December, 3.76c. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract with closing prices as follows: Spot and May, 5c; July, 3.20c; September, 3.30c; October, 3.35c.

BUTTER FUTURES STEADY

Butter and egg futures held at about unchanged prices on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, support entering egg market despite bearish statistical reports. The weekly storage figures indicated a heavier inward movement of stocks into the smaller storage centers than during the same period last year, but this news failed to affect the price, new buying and covering combining to hold the market firm. Butter information for last week showed an increase of over 1,200,000 lbs in the shortage of holding in the 35 storage centers. Sales: Butter, 23 cars; eggs, 45 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 1 car. Top yesterday, $6.00; average, $5.60.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 21,000; sheep, 8,000.

After smaller houses had skimmed the choice quality, lightweight hogs off at steady prices early yesterday the market commenced to ease and before the close heavier stock was going at 5@10c decline. The top for load lots and the general average price remained steady at $3.65 and $3.35. The going in butcher grades was extremely sluggish. A scattering of early sales of 250@300 lb averages were steady, but sellers were unable to hold these weights to the early line for long when large local houses refused to follow.

Buyers are dissatisfied with the narrow spread between light and heavy hogs and are determined to chisel costs of extreme weights wherever possible. Packing grades drifted lower later in sympathy with butchers and closed off 10@15c on an undependable trade. Nothing encouraging was noted in news from the wholesale trade.

Advantages Are Divided.

Cattle receipts exceeded earlier expectations and this took the edge off the market yesterday. The trade dragged slowly all day, but packers were unable to break prices anywhere along the line. Advantages were about equally divided between buyers and sellers. Top sales were within 15c of the highest spot last week. Prime 1,208@1,269 lb beeves sold at $7.85 the top. Only the "upper crust" of offerings passed the $7.00 line, while the bulk of good to choice steers sold at $6.25@7.00.

Numerous sales of common to medium grades of 700@1,000 lb averages were made at $5.50@6.00, while thin ill bred stock showing little "kill" had to go at $5.00 and below. Butcher stock comprised a small part of the supply and held fully steady to strong. Prices in this division have been doing a lot of shifting around lately. Bulk of all cows yesterday sold at $3.50@4.50, with prime offerings up to $5.00. Butcher heifers sold at $4.50@5.25. Baby beef heifers reached $6.20. Calves weakened after a steady to strong start, but discounts were not severe, the worst amounting to 25c on final rounds.

Lambs React Again.

The recovery in the lamb market proved short lived. Yesterday's trade turned reactionary again and all of Monday's gains were erased. The peak price fell back to $6.00, equaling the lowest for wool lambs since the middle of December. This figure was paid for 84@95 lb stock from Illinois and Colorado feedlots. Most other good wool lambs brought $5.75@5.85. Springers shared in the price cut when four carloads from the coast state went at $6.85@7.00. Most new crop natives sold at $7.00 and below. One lot of outstanding springers from Colorado sold to the Hygrade Packing company at $7.75. These were in a class by themselves. Matured stock and yearlings remained steady.

SEALED BIDS, IN TRIPLICATE, SUBJECT to the conditions contained herein, will be received by the Veterans Administration Room 764, Arlington Building, Washington, D. C., until 2:30 P. Why pay more than HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE?

The nationally known HOUSEHOLD LOAN PLAN offers cash loans of $300 or less to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

$2.03 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this is Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

NO FEES. You get full amount of the loan and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
